

County Chest Budgets $18,000 for Girl Scouts

Three Rivers Area Looks Ahead to '52

The year 1952 should be the year for Girl Scouts in Lane County, according to members of the Three Rivers Area Girl Scout Council. A budget allotment of $18,000 from the Community Chest to the committee of the Scouts is expected to enlarge its range of activities.

With the exception of Camp Brownie, which is self-supporting, the Three Rivers Council gets all of its operating funds from the Community Chest. In turn is dependent on the contributions of individual members.

During the past year, 2607 girls in the county took their part in the Brownies, Intermediate and Senior Scouts. These girls range from 7 to 17 years of age. In addition, 1016 adults have taken themselves to help with the program of the county.

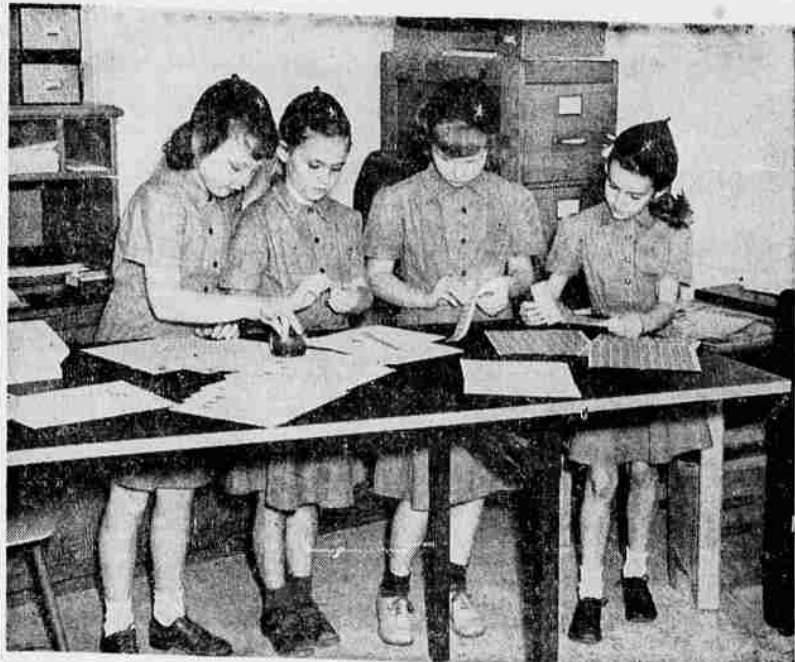

In a total of 186 troops scattered from Florence to the McKenzie Bridge, 1300 Lane County Girl Scouts took part in 18 Day Camps. Mrs. Irving Henning, Day Camp chairman, expects at least 1000 girls will want Day Camp sessions next spring, so the committee are adding to the number.

Vernon Kerley, training officer, emphasized the ever-increasing Girl Scout program for more adults to lead and help with troops. Her committee is working at full speed to keep the girls fully trained for each year's activities.

As far as troop programming is concerned, Mrs. R. D. Dodge, her committee plans to assist all troops in living up to their programs and in particular to aid the troops in getting the camping experience woven into their regular activities.

Eldon Young and her troop committee have applied to the Army Engineers for permission to use a site near Lookout Point. This site will constitute a new area that will be set aside for any troop to use for camping. As soon as the site is given, every effort will be made to get it into usable shape as possible. This site presents an opportunity for a new type of camping experience for Lane County Scouts.

Number field of special interest this year is scouting for junior and senior high troops. Mrs. J. Felt reported there will be more junior high troops this year than ever before, and they will develop special events just to the junior and senior level. Community service projects and surprise entertainments have been scheduled to bring these girls together.

Arco Reactor May Multiply Atomic Fuel

WASHINGTON —(AP)—Congressional authorities hailed as an atomic "landmark" Saturday a new kind of nuclear furnace which experts said could multiply A-bomb raw materials 100-fold.

The furnace, or reactor, is the "most advanced" thus far designed and is now operating at the Atomic Energy Commission's vast testing range near Arco, Ida.

Report Released
Intimations of what the Arco reactor may accomplish were disclosed in a report issued Friday by the House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee. It is a "breeder"—by which is meant a nuclear furnace which produces more atomic fuel than it consumes.

In other parts of its report the committee said:

1. The U.S. atomic project should manifest "greater boldness and more scientific and technical daring." It should be willing to assume "the risk of test failures if the stakes appear high enough."

2. "Most far-reaching progress" in development of new atomic weapons during the past two years has strengthened the country's strategic and tactical ability to deter or defeat aggression.

3. The supply of uranium—the only currently exploited atomic raw material—"has substantially improved and promises to improve still further."

4. A second atomic weapons laboratory should be built to ease the mushrooming burden of work on the Los Alamos, N.M., lab. The AEC already is planning a new laboratory and will ask money for it in the next session of Congress.

The Arco breeder "went critical"—started operating—a few weeks ago and is "a kind of landmark," the committee said, because it captures from the Canadian research reactor at Chalk River, Ont. the distinction of being the world's "most advanced."

Big Waste
In all non-breeding reactors, such as the vast production piles at Hanford, Wash., there is a net loss of atomic fuel. That is bad because the kind of uranium that can be used as a fuel or explosive exists in the ratio of only one part in 140 of natural uranium.

In a breeder pile, otherwise-wasted atomic agents would be used to convert more non-fissionable uranium into explosive plutonium than is presently possible. That in itself would multiply automatically the potential stockpile of atomic explosives.

AFL Labors In Civil War
PONTIAC, Mich.—(AP)—The AFL picketed the AFL because the AFL didn't like the AFL's hiring of non-union labor.

Two pickets from the Building Tradesmen and Carpenters local 998, of Berkeley, marched in front of the Pontiac-Oakland Federation of Labor temple while unaffiliated workers put a new roof on the building.

The roof was completed at 5 p.m., and the pickets withdrew. A spokesman for the federation said the non-union roofers were hired by the roofing contractor, who had promised that union labor would be used for the job.

Stanley, 3, Big Mystery
LOS ANGELES — (AP) — He is three years old, and his name is Stanley. All else about him is a mystery.

Oct. 2 Stanley—his last name is not known—was left in the care of Mrs. Carrie M. Nason at her home in Bell Gardens by an unidentified woman who agreed to pay for the lad's expenses.

The woman left no name address.

Oct. 10, Mrs. Nason was found dead in her bed, and Stanley was taken in by sympathetic county juvenile officials. Mrs. Nason had never told her family name or where her parents lived.

The unidentified woman never returned.

Stanley's only possessions are a pair of overalls, a pair of shoes, and a dog—likewise unidentified.
