

Executive Enthusiastic Job, New Location

and began work Dec. 1. She likes Scouting, "So far, very much," she says, because it "organized on democratic planning." It's good that she likes people for working with them is a great part of her job; as field director she is in charge of two of the six districts in Lane County, working with their committees; she works with the program, day camp, and public relations committees and the junior-high planning board.

Her stay in Eugene is indefinite, but it will be "at least two years," she says. She likes even the rain here, for "It rains plenty in Berkeley, too," she noted. She appreciates the cooler climate of Oregon, for Los Angeles is too warm for her.

Having had no executive experience with Scouting, Miss Marr cannot compare Eugene with other places, but she says of the council that "The women seem very active," and Miss Marr seems to like it.

When she was going to school in Los Angeles, Miss Marr was a Camp Fire Girl, because that organization was active in her school. She has worked with campfire and Girl Scout young people in playgrounds and camps.

Majoring in social science with courses in social welfare and recreation prepared her for youth work. At one time she was girls' coach in a Catholic girls school in Berkeley. Her first two college years were spent at University of California at Los Angeles and since graduation and acceptance of her application by the national Girl Scout office, she worked in a war plant.

Mrs. DeCou Travels South, Then Hawaii

Mrs. E. E. DeCou left Sunday for Honolulu, Hawaii, via Los Angeles. She will be the house guest of Dr. and Mrs. L. Ray Faubion in California and will sail by freighter Jan. 18 for the Islands. After a month or so, she will return to the mainland about the first of March.

"My wife's on strike until I take her down to COX'S SELF SERVICE LAUNDRY to do her clothes."

Robert Taylor goes for Sunbeam, too!

STAR OF MGM'S "QUO VADIS"

In real life, Robert Taylor is the rugged he-man he portrays on the screen. There's no limit to the energy he burns up. You can be very sure he goes for energy food like Sunbeam.

Your family, too, needs extra-energy foods. Start their day right with Sunbeam toast... Sunbeam sandwiches for the lunch box or luncheon table... and at dinner a plate of appetizing Sunbeam to brighten up the meal.

GO FOR SUNBEAM— that Extra-Energy Loaf!
