Saturday Night Meaning Gone

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK — (P)—Whatever happened to Saturday night?

Saturday used to have a special character of its own all over America. Today it is just getting to be another day in the week.

A generation or so ago almost every town in the country was, as the saying went, "a Saturday night town."

Saturday was the working man's one day of glamour, a time when he could kick up his heels and show he was really born to be a king. It was the week's regular Mardi Gras carnival, looked forward to by everybody.

EVERYONE who lived in the country came in for a night on the town. The farmer unhitched his plow and hitched up his wagon. While his wife toured the stores, buying the best gingham and ribbons she could afford, he sat with other farmers in the courthouse square and traded crop gossip and found out who was suing whom and cussed out the local banker and criticized the weather.

Then the family took in a dance or a show and clip-clopped contentedly home late at night, the kids asleep in the back of the wagon, the grownups wondering if the hired hand would show up by milking time and saying to each other, "It must be awful to live in town all week. I just couldn't stand it."

IN THE CITIES Saturday was payday. The jubilee signal was the factory closing whistle that blew at noon or one o'clock. The workman paused on the way home to wet his own whistle and get a haircut. His children could hear the happy jingle in his pockets.

The family bathtub got a real workout then, washing away the week's sweat and care, and somebody was always banging on the door and saying, "hurry up in there, won't you? I'm next." Mama scrubbed the youngest kids in a washtub in the kitchen to save time.

After that there was the week's grocery buying and the candy buying, and dinner out, and a movie. Sister disappeared with her best beau, and big brother sneaked off with his pals and mama fretted. "I'd just like to know what those boys are really up to now."

THE NEXT MORNING everybody woke up happy, tired and so broke you looked the other way when you dropped your contribution into the plate they passed at church. It made such a small tinkle you felt guilty.

Mama then cooked a mammoth Sunday dinner. After that was eaten, everybody was so worn out they had to take a nap, and you could hear snoring all over the house. The next day was Monday, the beginning of the empty-couple part of the week, but the excitement of looking forward to another Saturday night would carry you through.

That was the way America celebrated its weekends for a couple of centuries. In hundreds of towns Saturday night is still the night people choose to celebrate, get drunk, get in a fight, or propose to their best girl.

BUT THE FIVE-DAY week, the radio, and the automobile are changing the pattern. There are a lot of "Friday night towns" now. And many people who live in the country now can't get to town on Saturday; they have to stay home and entertain visitors from the city, who flee the concrete canyons at every chance.

More and more folks also just hole up at home on weekends, saying, "I wouldn't go uptown and fight those crowds for anything."

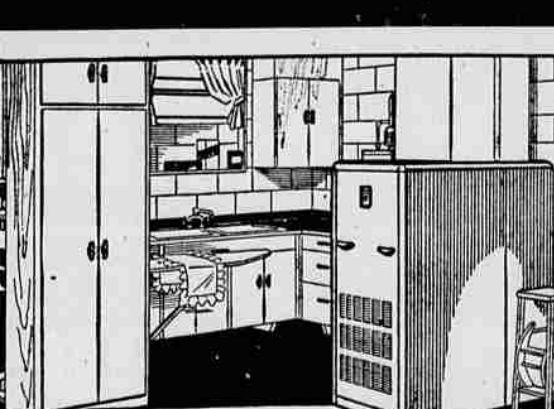

Whatever happened to Saturday night? Of course, there are some who now try to make every night a Saturday night, and when Saturday comes around it no longer feels like anything special.

Duke May Be 'King Consort'

LONDON — (P)—The Sunday Pictorial said Sunday Queen Elizabeth II might have her husband crowned "King Consort" instead of "Prince Consort."

In the established order of British royalty, the 30-year-old Duke of Edinburgh had been expected to receive the princely title devised a century ago by Queen Victoria for her consort, Albert.

But the Pictorial predicted a surprise announcement giving the Duke a King's title because the new queen wanted it that way for her husband.

New Transistors Developed by RCA

PRINCETON, N.J. — (P)—Some day you may have:

A watch-sized radio receiver, powered by the heat of your body, needing no batteries.

A radio transmitter-receiver smaller than a telephone handset, working without batteries.

Compact portable electronic computers or brains.

A vest-pocket personal radio running for months on one set of batteries.

THESE AND special, compact military electronic equipment may all be made possible through use of transistors, a new, tiny kind of amplifier that can do much of the same work as bigger electron vacuum tubes.

Radio Corporation of America Sunday put on display its improved version of the transistor at the David Sarnoff research center here. Its potential uses were described by Dr. E. W. Engstrom, vice-president in charge of RCA laboratories division.

THE TRANSISTOR is a bit of wire and plastic, about half the size of a paper clip. Mounted in it is a tiny speck of almost pure germanium metal, which harnesses electrons to do work they normally do in the vacuum of an electron tube.

The transistor has no heated filament, and operates on low power. The new model is more rugged and reliable, Dr. Engstrom said.
