

Moose Becomes Public Enemy

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI)—Molly the Moose, branded a public enemy by residents of a construction camp southwest of here, was on the high seas Friday en route to a new home.

Molly was adopted by members of the camp a year ago after she apparently spurned normal moose life for civilization. But as she grew larger, her popularity waned and residents finally decided she was a menace to women and children.

They called agents of the Fish and Wildlife Service who built a moose-sized trap and enticed her into the cage, baited with choice food. Then she was trucked to Seward and put on a boat bound for Cordova.

The service had been building a moose herd in that area since 1949. Wildlife officials believe that's just the place for her to start a new life.

Hash House Blues

If you think you've had a rough time eating in restaurants be glad you're not married to the proprietor. According to one local lawyer, that's downright cruelty.

A divorce complaint filed in circuit court Thursday accuses the defendant of cruel and inhuman treatment "to wit" it says, "I, Defendant had a mean temper. . . 2. He was in the restaurant business."

It is presumed he could be nasty on short order.

Lane Chapter Helps During Big Tornado

More than a hundred telegrams and long distance calls to the tornado-stricken lower Mississippi valley were made by the Lane County Red Cross in the week following the big wind which devastated the Tennessee-Arkansas-Mississippi area.

As soon as word of the storm reached Lane County, the Red Cross was swamped with requests from frantic relatives of persons in the tornado zone. Red Cross volunteers worked late as they sought information for the Lane County residents.

Thus it was that Mrs. Larry Mitchell, 1543 Patterson, learned that her sister in Hickory Ridge, Ark., was unhurt, although her home was damaged.

It took four telegrams before a family in Mohawk learned the full extent of injury to relatives in Tennessee.

To get the information, the Red Cross contacted police, hospitals, doctors, and neighbors.

On the heels of the effort to get information for relatives in this area, the national Red Cross sent a plea for an additional $280,000 contribution to the national disaster fund to help swell the $5 million dollar fund the national organization estimates will be needed for relief in the disaster area.

The annual Red Cross campaign, with a goal of $100,000 from Lane County, is winding up this week.

Plenty of Shells In Police Action

WASHINGTON (AP)—It may not be an official war, but naval aviation is doing more shooting in the Korean "Police Action" than it did in the official war against Japan.

Statistics on the part naval action is playing in the present disturbance were given the House Appropriations Committee by Vice Adm. John H. Cassady during hearings on the 1952 navy budget. The committee made them public Friday.

"Through, January, 1952—119 months of war," Admiral Cassady told the committee, naval aviation has "fired about half as much ammunition, dropped two-thirds as many bombs and fired more rockets than we did in the entire Pacific War from 1941 through 1945."

During the 19-month Korean conflict period, he said, 39 Navy planes were lost to enemy action, all but one to ground fire.

LOWELL—Preliminary work on the new Lowell Ranger Station was started this week across Pioneer St. from the union high school.

Buildings, which probably will be completed next fall, will include an office, equipment shed, warehouse, barn, crew house, residences for the guard, ranger and assistant ranger. Two more houses may be added later.

Permanent personnel of the West Boundary station, and their families, will be moved to the Lowell area.

Funeral services for Chester V. Campbell will be at 2 p.m. Monday, March 31, 1952, at Simon-Lounsbury Mortuary, with Rev. Robert Burner officiating. Private committal will be in Rest-Haven Mausoleum and crematorium.
