

Kefauver Urges Press Coverage

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. J. Lee Kefauver, who presided over the Senate Judiciary Committee's televised hearings on the move to bar radio, television and still cameras from the committee hearings, said the committee should welcome the "wide dissemination" of its proceedings.

BUT KEFAUVER pointed out that not all witnesses are hoodlums, grain speculators, suspected Communists or others who might be placed in jeopardy by a misstep.

"There should be the widest possible dissemination of committee hearings by radio, TV, newsreels and photos so long as it does not discommode the witness or interfere with orderly procedure," he said.

Newsman asked the White House office to check the President on Brown's statement to them and Irving Perlmutter, assistant press secretary, later reported:

"THE PRESIDENT wished the Brown delegation good luck, but intended no implications about Kefauver."

The delegate slate pledged to favorite-son Brown originally was the President's but was left without an active candidate for the Democratic nomination when the President decided not to run for another term.

Kefauver, flying in from Washington, found James Roosevelt, the late president's eldest son, in his camp.

Roosevelt sparked a Democrats for Eisenhower move against Truman four years ago, then shifted to Truman when Eisenhower was unavailable.

Kefauver suggested that instead of banning broadcasts, the Senate should re-arrange its committee rooms to provide glass booths in the corners for broadcasting crews to work in without disturbance.

The council decided to repair the boat landing on the Willamette River at the foot of Territorial Street.

HARRISBURG — Daylight saving time goes into effect in Harrisburg at midnight, Sunday, May 25, by action of the city council at a special meeting Tuesday evening.

The voters will pass on the $1,338 of this amount which is outside the legal six per cent limitation, at an election June 16.

The council also decided to submit to the voters at the same time a proposal that the memorial swimming pool fund, voted several years ago as a memorial to war veterans, be used instead for lights for the grade and high school athletic field. The fund
