Says Treasury
Let Capone Off

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Sen. William E. Borah (R-Iowa) today told the Senate the Treasury let the late Al Capone off. The senator said the late Capone, who died in 1942, was one of the most notorious associates of the late Al Capone, who died in 1942. The senator said the late Capone, who died in 1942, was one of the most notorious associates of the late Al Capone, who died in 1942.

SEVERAL months, Williams said he had learned from the Bureau of Internal Revenue that the late Capone, who died in 1942, was one of the most notorious associates of the late Al Capone, who died in 1942. The senator said the late Capone, who died in 1942, was one of the most notorious associates of the late Al Capone, who died in 1942.

Williams said "it was not after the recent exposures in the tax bureau had begun that aggressive action was taken by the Department of Justice." He said the late Capone, who died in 1942, was one of the most notorious associates of the late Al Capone, who died in 1942.

Proposed School Named 'Cal Young Junior High'

Cal Young Junior High will be the name of the Eugene school district's newest intermediate school, providing the voters of the district approve a ballot measure to finance the building June 16.

The District 4 school board decided Monday night to name the new school after "Mr. Lane County." The structure, if approved by the voters, would be built facing on Gilliam Rd. near Norkenzie Rd.

The board also approved preliminary sketches of the junior high prepared by Architects Wolf and Phillips, which showed a building similar in exterior finish to the siding and brick of Roosevelt Junior High.

A $600,000 BOND ISSUE will be on the ballot June 16 at the regular school board member election to finance the new junior high, as well as the first unit on a new River Road School and, if enough funds remain, to start on an Augusta St. school.

The new junior high would relieve overcrowded conditions at the other junior highs in Eugene, principally Roosevelt. The preliminary sketches showed an "L" shaped building with library, girls' gym, auditorium, cafeteria, shop, homemaker room and six classrooms.

Superintendent Clarence Hines pointed to several advantages the new building would have, namely a shop and cafeteria designed for simple future expansion, supervision of bus loading from the main offices, a cafeteria adjacent to the parking lot for night adult meetings, the girls' gym-auditorium room near the main entrance.

IN ADDITION, the library is readily accessible to the public without opening the remainder of the building, an advantage if the room is ever made a community library. Hines pointed out that children outside the city who must check out books on a fee basis from the public library suffer a "terrific reading loss" in the summer.

The remainder of the board meeting was mostly routine. The board accepted the low bid of the B. F. Shearer Co. for 1600 pupil chairs, cost $10,720, for the new high school.

The district gained $66,700.92 more than was budgeted for County School Fund receipts, Hines reported. The budget estimate was $105,249, but actually $171,949.92 was received.

THE MONEY from federal forest land receipts will go to carry-over for the next school year.

The board sanctioned the use of Civic Stadium by the City of Eugene for softball games twice a week this summer.

Hines also reported that "about 6000 names" had been turned in on petitions asking that a district-sponsored kindergarten program question be put up for vote. No action on this was taken Monday night.

FOUR TEACHER resignations, from Ruth Bradford, Ann Brown, Mabel DeVos and Samuel Marshall, all for personal reasons, were accepted. Bert C. Kerns was granted a leave of absence for the first semester of next year. Five new or substitute teachers were elected.

In addition, the board extended the contracts of Dean Lobaugh and L. L. Erdmann, assistant superintendents; Dr. Madeline Marr, school physician and director of health education; W. W. Cox, director, and R. C. Gehring, asst. director of the vocational school, for one year.

Price Dispute Stops Fishing

SEATTLE — (AP) — Lack of an agreement between the Alaska Salmon Industry, Inc., and the Fish and Allied Workers' Union Ind. has kept some boats from starting for southwest Alaska, but progress in negotiations is being made, a union official said Wednesday.

Robert Cummings, union secretary, said another negotiation meeting would be held Wednesday and that the "future looks promising." A disagreement over fish prices remains to be settled.

Although the usual fishing season started Tuesday, he said, fishermen won't be "too late" if they sail from Puget Sound ports by June 1.

Rotarian Convention Told to Avoid Politics

MEXICO CITY — (AP) — A Rotarian voice from Hong Kong, the bustling but wary British colonial neighbor of Red China, told Rotarians Tuesday they should steer clear of controversial world politics.

"The association of the name of Rotary with one side of a controversial international question can only weaken our aim of service," Hong Kong's George Ernest Marden said in a speech to the international convention here.
