

Gorilla Tactics Officially Denied

By WARREN ROGERS JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The question of whether Margaret Truman's bodyguards should be called "gorilla" citizens is being debated in the White House. The Atlantic City, N.J., Times-Tribune reported that the official denial, coming in the form of a press conference, was made by the White House press secretary.

The newspapers had first reported that the bodyguards were "gorilla" citizens. They reported that the "gorilla" citizens were called "gorilla" citizens by the Secret Service. The Secret Service is a branch of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.
