

Robertson-Long Rite Recent

Varied shades of purple combined with pink formed the setting for the wedding of Miss Patricia Jean Long to Donald Lawrence Robertson at United Lutheran Church. The Rev. Charles Epple performed the ceremony Sept. 7 at 2 p.m.

Orchid and pink gladioli and orchid Fuji chrysanthemums decorated the church, with candelabra in the background.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin G. Long, wore a bridal dress fashioned with full satin train—the skirt gathered to a bodice of Chantilly lace that came to a point at the waistline. Neckline of the bodice was scalloped onto a net yoke. Chantilly lace panels formed inserts down the front of the skirt.

Her illusion veil fell the full length of her train. It was attached to a crown of scalloped lace studded with seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white Fuji chrysanthemums and stephanotis tied with white satin bow and streamers.

Attendants were gowned alike in dresses made with velvet bodices and matching stoles, and full gathered nylon net skirts over taffeta. All wore headbands designed of matching nylon net, puffed to form clusters for pink rosebuds.

Miss Joan Long, maid of honor, wore purple. She carried a cascade of orchid chrysanthemums tied with pink satin.

Other attendants were Miss Darlene Marentette and Mrs. Ernest Grosso, both of whom wore peacock blue and carried cascades of orchid chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Robertson, was attended by Joseph Kehrl who acted as best man. Ushers were Robert King and William Tuck.

Proceeding the ceremony, Christine Bach, flower girl, scattered rose petals down the aisle. Her dress was orchid satin with nylon edged ruffles. Larry Hettick was ring bearer and candles were lighted by James Copenhaver and Frank Bell.

Miss Jane Conger sang "I Love Thee," "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. O. P. Nordling at the organ. Mr. Long gave his daughter in marriage.

At the reception in the church parlors Mrs. Gilbert Copenhaver cut the cake. Mrs. Fred Schar served punch and Mrs. Henry Beistel poured coffee. Orchid, pink and white asters decorated the rooms.

For a wedding trip to San Francisco, Lake Tahoe and Reno the bride wore a brown suit with mink-colored accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds.

Mr. and Mrs. Robertson are now at home at Corvallis where the bride will enroll as a freshman in secretarial science and her husband is completing his senior year in pharmacy.
