STRETCHING HANDS OF TIME—Not restricted by orthodox clock faces, Georges Gehel has invented clock hands that expand and retract in telescopic fashion to indicate the correct time no matter the shape of the clock's face. The application of the French inventor's "timely" idea is evident in the large clock above. Gehel is shown in Paris, holding other clocks of his design.

'TURNABOUT' FOR HONORED DOCTOR—Dr. Felix J. Underwood, of Jackson, Miss., winner of the 1953 Lasker Award for public health achievement, is "examined" by Cheryl Kay Whitlock, of Nettleton, Miss., under the supervision of nurse Myra Caruth, Mississippi's state health officer for 30 years. Dr. Underwood received the award "for demonstrating through a long-sustained, sound and expanding pattern of public health services benefits to a people." The award is made annually through the American Public Health Association.

NICE REAL-ESTATE—The nation's realtors are sold on Phyllis Winger, as the sign testifies. And who can blame them? The comely brunette was chosen to serve as hostess at the National Association of Realtors convention in Los Angeles.

THEIR TOUR IN SILVER—King Paul and Queen Frederika of Greece are presented with a silver plaque mapping the route of their tour across the United States. A diamond marks New Orleans on the map. Making the presentation is Louisiana Governor Robert Kennon (center) at dinner in New Orleans honoring the royal visitors.

YOU LOOK GOOD TO ME—Pieter, a Sumatra tiger, resident of the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago, Ill., snarls as he approaches his meal. In this case it appears that his next meal might be you. However, his conduct must be excellent, because he's been voted zoo animal of the month.

ACCUSED REDS SUSPENDED—Nathan Mills (left) and Robert Goodwin stand before Senator Joseph McCarthy's subcommittee hearings in Boston. Both were accused of being Reds working the Lynn, Mass. General Electric plant by counterspy William Teto. General Electric officials announced that both men have been suspended.

SON OF TOP NAZI IN CLOISTER—Walking to his studies with classmates at Heart of Jesus cloister in Innsbruck, Austria, is Martin Bormann (center), eldest son of the Martin Bormann who was a top aide to Adolf Hitler during the Nazi regime in Germany. Young Bormann's presence here recalls rumors that the elder Bormann took refuge behind cloister walls after the death of Hitler.

SYMBOL OF HOPE—Ambrose Salmini, of Yonkers, N. Y., demonstrates the winning symbol of the $1,800 contest he started among West Germans for a symbol that will mean "hope" to people enslaved by the Communists. About 20 per cent of the entries came from the Soviet zone, with entrants using West German return addresses. The winning symbol, selected from 2,500 entries, is a simple drawing that transforms the Soviet emblem into the Christian cross in two sketches. The first shows the sickle flattening itself out in a straight line and the hammer becoming the crossbar. The second drawing shows the completed cross. It was submitted by a German whose initials are "H.J.S." but Salmini said he would have to find out if he wanted his name used. Many specified that their names were not to be disclosed.

MID-WINTER 'GRANDMA MOSES'—Mrs. Eda Sadler, 73-year-old artist, displays one of her paintings for her grandson, Roger Wilson, 9, in the picture gallery of a Chicago department store. Mrs. Sadler's successful one-woman show displays her "primitive" style, much like that of the famed Grandma Moses. Until three years ago "Grandma Sadler" used buildings on her farm as subjects for most of her paintings.

FOUR-LEGGED THERAPY—Twelve-year-old Laurel Anderson, a patient at the University of Michigan Hospital at Ann Arbor, enjoys a new kind of therapy as Philip and Willie, two coat mundis make friends with her. Supervising the meeting is their owner, Mary Ann Bancroft, assistant head of the University Hospital school. During the day the nocturnal long-tailed pets live in a cage on the eighth floor of the hospital, but are transferred to Miss Bancroft's apartment at night.

Body's Message System Studied
LOS ANGELES (AP)—The complex communications system which alerts body defenses when the body is under "attack" is being explored by doctors at UCLA and the Long Beach Veterans Hospital.
The research is concerned with what parts of the brain are involved in an attack situation and how the brain communicates with other parts of the body to set up defense networks.
Four main stations in the communications system have been identified as important in setting up body defenses. They are the sensory nerves, which focus an injury or disease in the body; the brain, the pituitary gland and the adrenal system.
The key organ in the brain which organizes the body defense has been identified as the hypothalamus gland, linked to the other stations by nerve fibre circuits and vascular channels.
When an injury occurs, doctors say, the sensory nerves alert the brain, which stimulates the pituitary gland to send out hormones. The hormones, in turn, stimulate the adrenal glands to emit substances which aid the body in defense against injury and disease.
