

Coaches Twist 'One-and-One'

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The national college basketball coaches today voted unanimously to change the "one-and-one" foul rule to give a foul shooter two chances to make a free throw during the last three minutes of the game. The final three minutes any foul will be eliminated. This suggestion now goes to the National Basketball Rules Committee, which meets here Sunday.

The new suggestion was called by the coaches "the bonus rule." It will put a stiffer penalty upon fouling and increase the desirability of accurate free shooting.

The only other major change recommended by the coaches in their three-day convention would return the college game to two halves rather than the four 10-minute quarters. This is designed to cut down on the opportunities for stalling for a final shot.

Harrisburg's Titlist May Repeat

By PETE CORNACCHIA
Of The Register-Guard

Harrisburg really was pointing to next year and its coach was learning basketball with his players but all concerned apparently knew or learned enough about the game this season to win the Oregon Class "B" basketball championship.

"We'll learn this game together," Mel Larkin told a squad liberally sprinkled with juniors when he became Eagle coach this past season after four years of physical education work at Albany junior high school.

The 1949 product of Oregon State College and his players expected to finish second to a veteran Shedd quintet in the Linn County league race but Harrisburg, using only two seniors in the starting lineup, evidently had learned a bit about the game from Lyle King before he was replaced by Larkin.

Larkin says he and his boys often differed on the key to success, coach or material, while the Eagles were winning county, District 3-B, and state championships.

Either or both, it made no difference to Shedd as the lads from up the highway lost four of five battles with Harrisburg, including two during the regular season and two in the county tourney. The Harrisburg club entered the Linn playoffs with a 19-2 record after dividing a series apiece with two Lane County teams, Triangle Lake and Creswell's Class A-2 Bulldogs, for their only defeats.

The Eagles defeated Shedd and Brownville in their first two county tourney tests before Shedd, regarded by Larkin and his lads as their toughest foe of the year's campaign, finally handed Harrisburg its third defeat of the season only to bow again, 47-40, in the finals.

Harrisburg clearly was the class of the District 3-B tourney at Eugene as the Eagles whipped Lowell's champions from Lane County in the first game and then found a tough hurdle in Coburg's runner-up Broncos before claiming a state tourney berth with a 44-41 triumph.

Heppner was the next victim, 69-50, as the two teams set a state tourney record of 58 personal fouls, breaking the previous mark of 56 by Union and Prairie City in 1950. Guard Phil Estergard's two free throws in the final seconds provided a 42-40 victory over Powers in the semifinals, and Harrisburg handed Jones its first defeat in 26 games this season to capture the state championship with a 69-63 verdict.

The triumph was the 27th against 3 defeats this season for the Eagles, who tallied 1,661 points against 1,327. Before entering the tournaments, Harrisburg had hit 462 field goals in 1,267 attempts for a .365 clip and also had a .600 free-throw mark in averaging 56.3 points. The Oregon champions galloped to their title with a fine fast break and used both man-to-man and zone on defense.

And now Harrisburg is saving room in the trophy case for another state job with 1955 engraving. Forward Burdette Smith and Norm Burgess and reserve Ken Ryals won't be back, but Larkin's other starters, center Terry Woods and guards DeWayne Crabb and Estergard are juniors along with "sixth man" Ray Green. Elbert Williams and Dick Stroda, Jim Pearce is the only sophomore on this year's squad.

Next season's starting lineup will carry three all-stars in that trio of juniors. DeWayne Crabb was a first team choice at Salem, while Estergard and Woods, the only unanimous all-district players, were named on the second unit.

Popular Alaskan Film Booked Here in April

"Alaska American's Wonderland," a full-length color movie that played before capacity crowds at Springfield several weeks ago, will be shown in Eugene April 5-6-7-8 at the Roosevelt Junior High. The film is being sponsored here by the First Christian Church.

Clyde E. Langley presents the film that required seven years to make. The two-hour show, complete with sound, has many features—a lake that fills and empties; action of the famed 1,200-pound Kodiak bear, the bull moose in stride, volcanoes, glaciers, sports fishing, wild game, commercial fishing, northern industries, and the people of the north-land.

Admission prices will be $1 for adults and 50 cents for children of high school age and under. Tickets are now on sale.

Cascadian Bowmen Capture First Place In Archery Meet

ROSEBURG — Cascadian Bowmen of Eugene scored 1,885 here Friday night in a team meet to finish ahead of archery clubs from runnerup and host Roseburg, Springfield, Colgate Grove, and Florence.

Shooting for the winners were Ike Eperly, Frank Meersdorf, Dick Coughlin, and Gay Rose.

Roseburg tallied 1,805 to capture first in women's division.

Harold Hodges, Eugene, led individual scoring.

CAMP FIRE BREAD

Cooking over a camp fire is fun, and a good hot bread is most important. It's also one of the more easily prepared camp dishes. Let's consider several ways of baking bread around an open fire.

First, we must have a good dough to start with so here is a recipe from a famous Texas chuck wagon cook:

To one cup of sifted flour, add one rounded teaspoon spoon of Clabber Girl baking powder, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one rounded teaspoon sugar and two well-rounded tablespoons of dried buttermilk. Mix the dry ingredients thoroughly. Add sufficient cold water along with two tablespoons of melted shortening to make a soft dough. The consistency of the dough is very important. A firm hard dough will produce heavy bread, so handle the dough only as much as necessary. Roll the dough out on a piece of floured wax paper. This recipe will serve two people.

(Next step is baking and there are three ways I have found successful: A reflector oven, a Dutch oven or by molding on a clean stick and roasting over the coals. (Stick bread.)

The Dutch oven is best. This is a specially-made cast iron kettle with a concave lid. It is used widely around chuck wagons. Melt a little shortening in the oven and dip the molded biscuits in lightly. This will cause them to brown nicely. Fill the slightly warmed oven with biscuits and set the oven on a good shelf of hot coals. This will bake them on the bottom. Have the lid already heated to almost red hot, and quickly place this on top. Add another shelf of hot coals on the lid and your oven is complete. Eight to ten minutes will usually do a good job of baking the bread. After some practice, you can hit it right every time.

A reflector oven is easy to bake with, providing you have a good hot fire. These ovens can be purchased or made at home. An easy way is to take a 5-gallon square can (lard, oil, etc.) and cut one end of it on three sides. Bend the top up so it reflects heat and set it up to the fire. You can watch while it bakes and move the can away from or nearer to the fire for temperature.

The most fun is making stick bread. This is what the kids will like. Cut the dough in long strips and spiral it around one end of a stick the size of a broom handle and about three feet long. Roast the dough slowly over hot coals until brown. Remove the bread by pulling the stick out and fill the hole with butter and jam. You'll want seconds on this one.

Cascade League to Meet March 27
