U. S. Adds Up Indochina Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has poured more than $2,200,000,000 dollars in military and economic aid into Indochina over the past four years as part of a stepped up program to defeat Communist armies.

An additional sum of more than one billion dollars is tentatively scheduled to bolster French and anti-Communist Indochinese armies in the year which began July 1—unless a truce ends the 7½-year-old war.

The biggest share of American aid—about $1,235,000,000 in arms and economic supplies — moved into Indochina in the last fiscal year after the Eisenhower administration decided to double American help in a determined effort to crush the Communist threat. This increased flow of guns, planes and military equipment meant the United States was carrying 65 per cent of the bill for prosecuting the war in the 12-month period.
