Warm weather the rule, outdoor entertainment more in vogue, the summer concert is getting under way in small hamlets and with the sound of instruments a familiar note in the evening air. Summer concerts are a boon to everybody, it seems. They are welcomed by musicians and the professionals who play up many of the popular orchestras, and by the musicians who often get a chance to play summer concert music. Most of all, though, they are a boon to the music lover who likes to listen. Nothing more relaxing enjoyment than a balmy summer evening or Sunday afternoon than to sit outdoors and listen to your favorite music, or classical or "in bet-"

The idea of the outdoor summer concert isn't anything new. There were bands playing in town parks in grandmotherly days. There's a difference, though, in this day and age, and so many other forms of entertainment beckon, the popularity of the summer concert is not as high as ever. "Proof positive" as the ad writers say, that the special appeal of music is widely felt today than ever. It captures something special in music when you experience the pleasure of playing yourself. Women planning to compete for appliance prizes and ribbons in the culinary department at the 1954 Lane County Fair should be saving their best canned fruits and vegetables, jams, jellies, preserves, and other canned goods for display at the Sept. 14 to 18 event. Mrs. Ray Bower, culinary superintendent, reported this week.

Mrs. Bower said that appliance stores are offering appliance prizes again this year for winners in many classes of canned and baked goods. In addition, there will be a sweepstakes prize for the women winning the most blue ribbons in both the canning and baking departments.

In addition to the appliance prizes, there will be special prizes by sugar and pectin manufacturers and others, Mrs. Bower said.

A complete list of the prizes available in the various classes of cooking and canning will be announced later, the superintendent said.
