

Somewhere It's Cold

LONDON (AP)—Britons are sleeping under blankets this summer. Plenty of blankets. While America roasts, pretty young things in England are wearing autumn coats. Many a manly chest is encased in a woolen sweater. Landladies of seaside guest houses are going broke for want of business.

Seen in a suburban street outside London on a day the thermometers hit 111 in Kansas: An 8-year-old girl out for a stroll, bundled up in a woolen scarf and mittens. Most of the season it's been cold, cloudy and rainy. The number of clear, warm days could be counted on the fingers of one hand. Daytime temperatures have been mostly in the low 60s. Once the thermometer slumped to 46. Once it shot up to 75. But that was just a teaser. At night the readings have been in the low 50s.

Korean Recovery Chief Discovers Billion-Dollar 'Giveaway' Tough

EDITOR'S NOTE—Syngman Rhee, president of the Republic of Korea, is coming to Washington Monday to discuss his problems with President Eisenhower. It is just a year next Tuesday since the fighting died out in Korea, with a state of truce that East and West have been unable to resolve into a peace. What is it like today in South Korea, in terms of recovery and people's lives?

By ROBERT EUNSON
Of The Associated Press

SEOUL, Korea—Clinton Tyler Wood has the job of giving away a billion dollars. At times he finds it a difficult task.

Wood is 34 and holds twin jobs—economic coordinator for the United Nations Command and head of the United States' Foreign Operations Administration in Korea. During the next four years he is expected to coordinate several aid programs intended to lift Korea from war's rubble and stand her on her own feet.

CONSTANT SNIPING

To give away a billion dollars in a country ravished by three years of war would seem as easy as passing out ice cream cones on the Fourth of July. But Wood is under constant fire from the people he is trying to help. There have been four thorns in his side since he came here last August and began to organize his staff of 19 to administer the FOA program:

1. Korean insistence that Wood and his staff go home and "simplify matters" by merely giving the money to Korean government leaders to spend.
2. Opposition to accepting even as gifts any articles manufactured in Japan.

3. A whispering campaign by Korean government employees that American aid money is being wasted by members of Wood's staff.

4. An editorial campaign in a government-owned paper charging waste, confusion and delay.

Even though there has been constant controversy, Wood feels there has been achievement. He cites anti-inflation controls and an agreement with the Republic of Korea on how the aid money is to be spent.

COMBINED BOARD

After four months' talks, former Prime Minister Paik Too Chin agreed that America would have a say in how its money would be spent. The formula was found in the creation of a combined economic board, with Paik and Wood jointly at the head. Once Paik and Wood have initiated a project it goes to Washington for final approval. FOA looks over the items needed and lists countries where certain items are considered good buys.

Korea doesn't mind where the articles are purchased—outside Japan. When the first items for purchase in Japan were listed, the "Korean Republic," English language mouthpiece of the government, warned:

"The lessons of the past are too recent and too well remembered by our people. Therefore we oppose all proposals that any considerable portion of reconstruction funds be expended in Japan."

Wood tried to explain that some U. S. officials considered Japanese purchases a means of helping both countries. The official Korean newspaper objected that Japanese goods "are inferior in quality, and relatively higher in price, than the much more efficient and better quality American and European products." Wood has insisted there be no boycott of Japanese goods.

CRITICAL EDITORIALS

The "Korean Republic's" editorials critical of the aid program are written by Americans—William Glenn, a former University of Southern California journalism teacher; Wilson Gaddis, a former U. S. government employee in Japan, and O. H. P. King, a former newsmen in Texas. They are on Korea's payroll, chief adviser.

The "Korean Republic" is owned by the Korea Information Service, Inc., financed by the Korean government, diplomats in Seoul consider its editorials the official government line. Although the editorials are not read by many Koreans, because

'Wrong Name' Man Checked By McCarthy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy's investigators made a double-check Tuesday on a Quincy, Mass., shipyard worker who contended he was subpoenaed here in a "wrong name" mix-up.

However, McCarthy told newsmen that the electrician, Lawrence W. Parrish, refused to say under oath whether he was the "right man" until he could get a lawyer.

Meantime, Parrish remained under subpoena as McCarthy's Permanent Investigating Subcommittee continued its hearings on subversives in Boston area defense plants.

Sen. Karl E. Mundt (R-S.D.), who was presiding temporarily, announced that the subpoena was served on the wrong man. He and McCarthy both apologized to Parrish.

McCarthy said, "I told Parrish that if he wanted to testify that he was the wrong man, and stop testifying when he felt he should have a lawyer, we would allow that," but "he refused."

Parrish also refused to discuss with reporters whether or not he was a Communist.

Meantime, the subcommittee granted Charles Wojchowski, an employe of the Allis-Chalmers plant in Boston, 10 days to confer with a lawyer before testifying on sworn testimony that he was a Communist.

Wojchowski was ejected from the hearing room at McCarthy's direction Monday when he denounced "stool pigeons" and "paid informers" after he had been identified by James W. Glatis, an FBI undercover agent.
