Ukraine Boosts Farm Training Program

MOSCOW (AP) — Ukrainian authorities expect high school graduates of the future will become enthusiastic scientific farmers and machine operators and will stop wanting white collar jobs.
A drastic change in the curriculum of 26 schools in the Ukraine, Russia's richest agricultural area, took effect recently. The program, which the publication Teachers' Gazette calls experimental, extends a similar plan already being tried in the big industrial areas of Moscow and Leningrad.
It provides that students with good records through the seventh grade will receive technical training for 4½ more years instead of taking academic subjects through the tenth grade as heretofore. When they complete their courses, they will receive diplomas listing them as special assistants to agronomists, veterinarians, zoologists, or electrical technicians.
In addition to their school training, they will get practical farm or shop experience during vacations.
Three other schools will train industrial technicians, such as machine operators.
The Ukrainian Council of Ministers said the graduates will "be sent to the appropriate ministry to work in accordance with their specialty."
The drop in demand for white collar jobs is expected to result from the added prestige which the new technical assistants will enjoy.

Red Chinese Shift Troops

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP) — Press reports Tuesday said Communist China had moved another army—possibly 25,000 men—to mainland positions near Nationalist Quemoy Island, across the strait from Formosa.
The official Central News Agency said this boosted the Communist strength in the area to four armies. The Nationalists fear the Reds will try to seize away.

Quemoy, strongest of the Nationalist island bases.

The vest pocket war, touched off last month when the Reds heavily bombarded Quemoy, was down to air and sea patrolling and Nationalist leaflet raids along the southern coast. There was not even the usual artillery exchange between Quemoy and Amoy, Red port seven miles away.
