

2nd Growth Sawlog Prices Near Record

Second growth sawlog prices approached an all-time high in parts of the Willamette Valley last week, F. H. Dahl, extension agricultural economist, reports in the latest Oregon State College weekly farm forest products market report.

Prices that were considered "bootleg" or black market a month ago are the market price today, he adds. Increases last week came mainly in the extreme north and south ends of the valley. Camp-run prices now are $5 to $8 higher than late 1951—the highest on record at OSC. Graded second-growth is about equal to the record high of the Korean war.

SAWLOGS: No. 2 second-growth sawlogs from $36 to $50 a thousand at Willamette Valley mills. Most Central Valley mills paid around $40, while other areas paid $38 to $44. They were generally $10 lower. Long camp-run logs were mostly around $40 in the central part of the valley, and $45 to $50 in other areas. Logs under 24 feet long were $2 to $4 less. Eight-foot logs were in strong demand at $15 to $20 a cord, or $34 to $44 a thousand. Most sales were in the upper half of these ranges. No. 2 old-growth sawlogs were $36 to $45 a thousand on truck scale. No. 3's were $25 to $38. Water scale prices were $2 to $3 higher. Peeler logs were mostly within a $10 range up to $75, $85, and $100 a thousand.

At Coos Bay, the log market was firm, with unchanged prices. No. 2 "third-growth" logs brought $33 to $35 a thousand. No. 3's were $28 to $30. Long camp-run logs were $30 to $37, mostly $34. Short logs were $15 to $22 less. No. 1 old-growth sawlogs were $43 to $45. No. 2's were $38 to $40 and No. 3's were $30 to $32. Peeler logs were $60, $70, and $80 to $95 a thousand. Outlying areas paid $2 to $4 below Bay prices.

PULPWOOD: Hemlock, spruce and Douglas fir were $15 a cord at St. Helens and $17 at Oregon City. Hemlock, spruce and white fir were $15 a cord, or $30.50 to $32 a thousand, at Coos Bay.

HARDWOODS: Alder, ash, maple, and cottonwood at Portland brought $36 a thousand for ten-inch diameters. Ten-inch alder was $34 at Willamette. Twelve-inch maple was $35 at Eugene. Alder, ash, and maple brought $32 for 12-inch logs at Astoria.

Succeeding him now is W. C. Bodno, who entered SP&S service as a telegrapher in 1937. Since 1946 he has been supervisory agent for the lines at Albany, and he will be succeeded there by Tom S. A NEW SUPERMARKET will be opened in Cottage Grove about April 1 by Mel Gans, formerly operator of the Ranch Market at Springfield, Delmar Franklin, Cottage Grove, and Don Smith, an associate of Gans in the Springfield market. As partners, Gans will conduct the grocery and sundry sections of the new market, and Franklin and Smith will assist him as well as operating the new market's meat department. Smith was in charge of the meat market at the Ranch Market, and Franklin has operated a meat market at Glerau's in Cottage Grove for several years. Located in the Githens Lincoln-Mercury building, 104 Pacific Highway South, the new Cottage Grove supermarket will have adjacent offstreet parking. The Githens building is to be remodeled according to plans being prepared by John Stafford, Eugene architect. Gans, who operated the Super Y market in west Springfield until it was destroyed by fire Jan. 1, 1950, was a Safeway stores supervisor in the Los Angeles area before entering business himself. Both he and Smith now plan to move to Cottage Grove.

DR. R. B. McDONALD, ophthalmologist, has opened new offices at 75 W. Broadway in Eugene. Formerly associated with another Eugene optometric office, Dr. McDonald is now occupying a newly remodeled location for which design work was prepared by George Mayer of Eugene.
