

FRANK LOCKMAN
New Chamber Manager Addresses Rotarians

Springfield Rotarians Hear New Chamber Manager

Springfield's new Chamber of Commerce manager, Frank Lockman, made his first public appearance in Springfield Wednesday noon when he addressed the city's Rotary Club on the topic, "Retirement and Re-evaluation."

The 56-year-old former Salem real estate man drew from his own experience by telling how he entered college at the age of 48 after retiring from business.

He said retirement bored him and made him feel "like a misfit."

Lockman said he is coming to Springfield "with a lot of enthusiasm." He said the city has a "great potential" for social and economic expansion and has "accomplished miracles in a single decade."

Lockman will take over his job as chamber manager Saturday. He succeeds Oliver Larson, who resigned last summer to take a position with the Tacoma, Wash., Chamber of Commerce.

It was at Willamette University that Lockman had his first experience in public speaking. Anyone, he told the Rotarians, can become adept at speaking if he concentrates upon having something to say.

Library Use Said 'Normal'

Use of the Eugene Public Library during December, 1954, was considered "normal" by librarian Clara Nasholm in her report released Wednesday.

There were 11,056 books loaned during the last month of 1954. This compares with 10,867 taken from the library during the same month of 1953.

The report shows that library patrons borrowed 67 pictures and 225 records during December, 1954. The total use of records and pictures was less than during the same month in the previous year.

Miss Nasholm also reported that 203 new books were added to library shelves during December, 1954. Of this total, 119 were for adults and 84 were for children.

Junction City Man Arraigned

Frank M. White, 30, Rt. 3, Junction City, was arraigned in district court Thursday on a charge of larceny from a store.

He is accused by the sheriff's department of taking a Winchester rifle from McKay's River Road Market.

White was to have received a preliminary hearing Thursday afternoon. Judge Chester N. Anderson set bail at $2,000.

A 47-year-old Florence man, Herb Cook, pleaded guilty to petty larceny. He admitted taking a portable camp stove and purse belonging to a Florence woman. Anderson said he would pass sentence Friday at 9:30 a.m.

Two out-of-state men, Albert Stephens, 43, Jackson, Mich., and Fred Whitley, 34, Omak, Wash., were each fined $15 for trespassing on Southern Pacific property.

An SP agent told the court that the men were discovered Wednesday "in a very drunken condition" on a main line track. The agent said a passenger train was due shortly and that it was "quite likely" the men would have remained on the track if they hadn't been discovered. They had a gallon bottle of wine in their possession at the time of arrest.

GI Bill Extension Asked by Solons

SALEM UP—A group of Democratic representatives in the House Thursday introduced a measure memorializing congress to extend educational benefits of the GI Bill of Rights to all present and future members of the armed forces.

Sponsoring the legislation were Reps. Maurice Neuberger, Norman R. Howard, Jean L. Lewis, Alfred Corbett, William Grenfell, and Kay Meriwether, all of Portland, and Katherine Musa, The Dalles.

Expenditures Cut

TOKYO UP—The finance minister expects to trim Japan's overall defense expenditures $16,750,000 in the coming fiscal year, but Japan's own self defense force will be increased, the Nippon Times reported Thursday.

Thurston Bus Fares Raised

Rate Increase Begins Sunday

City Transit Lines Thursday announced an increase in bus fares for patrons on the Thurston route east of Springfield.

The increase will boost the bus fare from 20 to 25 cents for a ride to Eugene from any area east of the Springfield city limits, and from 10 to 15 cents from the Thurston area to any place inside Springfield.

The change will go into effect this coming Sunday, coinciding with new night, Sunday and holiday rates for bus service in Eugene.

Frank Foster, local manager of the bus firm, said the increases should help the firm meet operating costs. He said the firm has continued to lose money during the past year as bus patronage falls off.

EUGENE CHANGES

The new night, Sunday and holiday fare in Eugene will be 20 cents for adults and 10 cents for children from 5 to 12 years. The children's fare will require 8 cents with a small token or 3 cents with school ticket, according to Foster.

The night rates will start at 7:15 p.m. each day. The present 15 cent day rate will be in effect after 6 a.m.

There will be no change in the fares for patrons within Springfield or those riding from Springfield to Eugene.

Troop 6 Holds Court of Honor

Advancements in scouting were awarded to boys of Boy Scout Troop No. 6 Wednesday night at a Court of Honor in the Congregational Church auditorium. The court of honor was preceded by a potluck dinner.

Second class awards were presented to Ed Jarvis and Fred Bronn. Camping awards went to Bill Rhoda and Bob Hudson (10 nights); Mike Bertsch and Bob Hudson (20 nights); and Paul Jarvis and Dick Janzig (30 nights).

Stan Bettis was awarded five merit badges, for rowing, fishing, stamp collecting, canoeing, and forestry and he received an Eagle bronze palm. Paul Jarvis received a merit badge for coin collecting.

Service stars and perfect attendance awards were also presented at the court of honor.

Hospital Assn. to Meet Tuesday

Election of seven members to the board of directors of the McKenzie-Willamette Memorial Hospital Assn., plus reports on progress of the new hospital, will highlight Tuesday's annual meeting of the Association at the Willamette Memorial Bldg. in Springfield.

'Life' Photographs On Display at UO

Now on display in the art gallery of the Erb Memorial Student Union at the University of Oregon is a Life magazine photographic exhibit entitled "The Incas."

On display through Jan. 22, the exhibit includes scenes of many of the ruins of the ancient civilization, which vanished in 1600 in the face of Spanish conquest. The pictures also show several artifacts found in the ruins and the rugged terrain of Peru which surrounds them.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m. A three-man nominating committee composed of Robert Carmichael, R. W. McDuffie, and Paul Michaelson has proposed nine candidates for the seven three-year positions. Other nominations may be made from the floor.

Candidates include E. M. Baldersee, Hubert Gray, Glenn Lowery, Frank Bouck, George Weyerhaeuser, Don Peglow, Jack Larson, Warne Empy, and Clarence Scherer.

Harry Wright, president of the board, said the nominating committee selected the candidates to represent all phases of activity in Springfield.

Voting members of the Association include all donors who contributed $100 or more toward construction and equipping of the half-million dollar hospital. May 1 has been set as the anticipated opening day.

Votes will be tabulated during the association's annual business meeting and the results will be announced at the end of the meeting. The new board will then meet to re-organize and elect officers for the coming year.

Committee and officer's reports will be included in the business meeting.

The Founders Organization, composed of those who helped in the successful community-wide campaign to raise funds for the hospital, will also choose new board members Tuesday night.

Seven candidates have been nominated for five positions on the board. They include Bob Straub, Ray McCormack, Earl Baumer, Lee Andrews, Jean Beau, Dr. Loyal Paradis, and Norman Larson.
