

Ladejinsky Findings Cited

Stassen Details Clearance Reasons

WASHINGTON (AP)—Foreign Aid Administrator Harold E. Stassen has cited 12 reasons for believing Wolf Ladejinsky, Russian-born land reform expert, deserves the security clearance Stassen granted him.

Though the Agriculture Department had labeled Ladejinsky a security risk, Stassen said he later made 12 findings which convinced him Ladejinsky meets the requirements of the federal security program.

Stassen said, in a summary of the case, that Ladejinsky's hiring by the Foreign Operations Administration for a land reform program in Indochina was in keeping with "fundamental principles of justice and of human rights."

SECURITY RISK

Ladejinsky, 55, had security clearance as State Department agricultural attaché in Tokyo. But when agricultural attaches were transferred by law to the Agriculture Department, Secretary Benson ruled Ladejinsky a security risk.

Stassen said he later intervened in the case because of White House interest in resolving the conflicting decisions by the State and Agriculture departments.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn.), a critic of Benson's role in the controversy, Tuesday introduced a bill to form a 12-member special commission of government officials and private citizens to investigate the entire security program.

BASED ON FINDINGS

Stassen said his decision to hire Ladejinsky was based on these findings:

Ladejinsky "is not, and never has been, a Communist"; his government service record is unblemished; his land reform program in Japan helped thwart communism; he was not a member of any subversive organizations; his writings "are not favorable to the Communist system"; and "no evidence was located that he at any time had written or spoken favorably of communism."

Demos Ponder 10-Day Recess

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats withheld a decision Wednesday on a Republican request for a 10-day Senate recess during February to let GOP members make Lincoln Day speeches.

Sen. Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, the Democratic leader, said before leaving for treatment at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., he is checking to see what sort of agreements were reached in the past.

"From what I have found, the leaders usually agree to avoid any controversial votes for four or five days," he said in an interview. "It's President Eisenhower's program the Republicans want to interrupt so we'll have to decide later how much time to take."

Sen. Knowland of California, the GOP leader, said he had suggested that no controversial votes be taken between Feb. 10 and Feb. 20. Knowland said he expects to make several speeches in that period.

The Republican National Committee has been lining up senators for Lincoln Day speeches.
