Food Industry Makes Gains In Automation

By SAM DAWSON
Of The Associated Press

NEW YORK —The food industry plans to take still more of the drudgery out of kitchen work. It counts on using the atom to make better food and automation to provide cheaper food.

Americans will spend for food about 65 billion dollars this year —four times as much as before the war. Even allowing for dollar devaluation, that's still twice as much as 15 years ago.

Leaders of The Grocery Manufacturers of America, say these things are in store for us:

Lower prices can be achieved through greater production. They believe new machinery and new methods should boost production by cutting present high costs.

TO AID COOKS

The revolution in the kitchen is to continue and may be speeded up in the near future. What the industry calls convenience foods have brought about the revolution. Packaged foods that eliminate the kitchen drudgery by preparing vegetables and fruit and even meats ahead of time are to be increased in number and volume.

Since World War II processed foods have increased 45 per cent —while population climbed 15 per cent.

Research is going to be the watchword of the industry from now, in the opinion of GMA's president, Paul S. Willis. He describes some of the projects under consideration now as "breathtaking."

ATOMIC TECHNIQUES

Atomic radiation is expected to play a double role. First, it's believed that in the years ahead radio activity will show the farmer how to produce better food stuffs, and more cheaply. It is also counted upon to combat the insects and disease that plague the farmer now. Second, atomic science is expected to have a major impact on food processing.

There is a good chance that soon manufacturers will be exposing various foods to atomic radiation to eliminate bacteria and thereby greatly increase shelf life of their products.

NEW PRESIDENT—H. C. Auld Jr., partner in Eugene's Automatic Oil Heat Co. (right), Saturday was elected president of the Oil Heat Institute of Oregon as some 50 oil heat dealers from all parts of the state met at Eugene for the organization's annual business meeting. Congratulating Auld is Charles R. Holloway Jr., past president of the institute.

Communicable Disease Total Triples in May

The number of communicable diseases reported to the Lane County Health Department during May totaled nearly three times the number reported for the same period a year ago.

A monthly report listed 80 cases of measles reported last month as against only 14 cases during May, 1954. Influenza cases totalled 33 as against none in May a year ago.

Some 177 communicable disease cases were reported last month. Only 66 were reported in May, 1954.

The monthly report said there were 103 deaths in Lane County last month. Heart disease was the chief killer, claiming 36 victims. Arterio-sclerosis was next with 18 victims.

Other causes of death were: Cancer, 9; pneumonia, 7; accidents, 7; disease of early infancy, 6; strokes, 5; congenital malformation, 3; diabetes-mellitus, 1, and suicide, 1.

There were 298 births during the month, the report stated.

Here is a breakdown of reported communicable diseases:

Chickenpox, 13; dysentery, 1; infectious hepatitis, 9; influenza, 33; measels, 80; meningitis, 1; mumps, 7; polio, 5; pneumonia, 6; scarlet fever, 2; septic sore throat, 12; syphilis, 3; tuberculosis, 2, and whooping cough, 3.

Erdahl Asks Power Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Power demands in Washington, Oregon and Northern Idaho are expected to double within the next 10 years, a witness told the Senate Appropriations Committee Monday.

C. E. Erdahl, chairman of the Pacific Northwest Utilities Conference, testified that's why the area will need between 2 and 3 billion dollars for power facilities during that period.

Urging the Senate committee to go along with the House in voting funds for projects already under way or planned, Erdahl said the anticipated power demand "means that work on multi-purpose projects . . . at The Dalles, McNary and Chief Joseph must go forward on schedule, or a power shortage will be imminent."

He asked the committee to vote 63½ million dollars for The Dalles, 18 million for Chief Joseph, 11 million for McNary, and $500,000 planning fund for the John Day Dam. The House recently okayed these amounts in its public works appropriations bill.

Lebanon Plant Sale Expected

LEBANON, Ore. (AP)—The Timber Tech lumber plant, which employs 145 persons, is up for sale, a spokesman for a major stockholder reported Monday.

Lewis E. Tippett of Lawrence Warehouse Co. at Portland—owner of most of the Timber Tech stock—said negotiations are underway for sale of the plant. He declined to name the possible buyer or to report the asking price. Estimates of the property's worth have run as high as $700,000.

There have been reports here that closure of the plant was imminent.

Accountants Meet

CORVALLIS (AP) — The ninth annual convention of the Oregon Assn. of Public Accountants opens here Thursday. Cooperation between public accountants and such professional groups as bankers and attorneys will be stressed at the conference.

Mountain Fir Buys Donna Mill, Timber

The Mountain Fir Lumber Co. has purchased the lumber mill and timber holdings of the Donna Timber Products at Canary, Ore., it was anonunced Monday. The purchase includes a 100,000 ft. capacity band saw-mill and planing mill located on the Southern Pacific railroad six miles south of Florence together with the timber owned by Donna Timber Products in the Florence area. E. H. Robbins of Eugene and Virgil House of Canary were the former owners.

The Mountain Fir Lumber Co. is a partnership which also owns and operates the Mountain Fir Lumber Co. at Independence, Ore. and the Mt. Hood Lumber Co. at Maupin. Joe M. Crahane, general manager of the Mountain Fir and Mt. Hood companies, will direct the organization of the new mill which is to be known as the Mt. Canary Lumber Co.

Operation of the Mt. Canary mill will start after the installation of a cant gang saw is completed. The new mill will specialize in long dimension lumber.

Hirt & Wood Lumber Co. of Eugene will handle sales of the Mt. Canary Lumber Co.

Hazen Expects Building Gains

PORTLAND (AP) — A Portland banker told the Douglas Fir Plywood Assn. Monday he believes there will be a national demand for seven million new homes by 1960.

Speaking at the plywood association meeting in Portland, Ben H. Hazen called the housing business "America's simplest machinery for spreading prosperity."

Hazen, who is president of a savings and loan association, said the demand for that many new homes is "pretty well assured."

Hazen added that construction of that number would increase the home loan debt by $45 billion, but, he said, the home owner is "king of good credit risks."

The association chose Howard B. Garrison of Coos Bay, Ore., as its new president, succeeding Eberly Thompson of Portland. Garrison is vice-president and general manager of Evans Products Co., western division. Other officers announced Monday were A. W. Agnew, Sonoma, Calif., vice-president; C. Henry Bacon, Jr., Shelton, Wash., treasurer, and Monford Orloff, Bellingham, Wash., secretary. Trustees—Martin N. Deggeller, Aberdeen, Wash.; Fay L. Foval, Longview, Wash., Corydon Wagner, Sr., Tacoma, and Robert N. Kelly, of Portland.

Conclave to Hear Paul Hoffman

PORTLAND (AP) — More than 500 delegates from 11 Western states and British Columbia are expected at the 52nd annual convention of the Advertising Assn. of the West, to be held here June 26-29.

Keynote speaker will be Paul G. Hoffman, chairman of the board of Studebaker - Packard Corporation. Thor M. Smith, vice president and advertising director for the American Weekly, Hearst Sunday supplement, will be a featured speaker.

Admen Honor Jack Holden

Jack Holden, advertising manager of the Rubenstein furniture company was named "Advertising Man of the Year" this week by the Lane Advertising and Sales club.

Holden was cited by Kaye Loomis, who made the award, for having drawn national attention to Eugene and Lane County as a result of the part he played in his firm's winning first place in the recent National Brand Names Foundation competition in New York City.

This was the second honor bestowed upon Holden this month. He was honored recently by the University of Oregon chapter of Alpha Delta Sigma, national honorary advertising fraternity, when he was named recipient of the society's Distinguished Service Key.

Holden has been with Rubenstein's for approximately four years. Prior to that time, he was an account executive with Searcy advertising agency in Portland, and was advertising manager of the Jennings Furniture Co. in the same city. He resides with his wife, Betty, their son, John, 9, and daughter, Terrie, 2, at 515 Howard Avenue, Eugene.

'Piggy Back' System Grows

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—Perry M. Shoemaker, president of the Lackawanna Railroad, believes the new "piggy-back" system of transporting loaded truck-trailers on rail flatcars has a great potential.

During a visit to Buffalo, Shoemaker said that the Lackawanna "expects to be handling whole trainloads of freight-loaded truck-trailers within the next year."

Disclosing that the rail line was spending about $750,000 initially for "piggy-back" equipment, he noted that the expenditure included purchase of 100 truck-trailers "of our own" and costs of converting 80 additional flatcars to haul them.

"By early spring, we'll have 120 piggy-back flatcars and 200 truck-trailers we either own or lease," he said.

Shoemaker said the Lackawanna is winning back freight business it lost to its highway competitors years ago, "and we haven't begun to get all the possibilities out of the new service."

Log Volume Building Up

Log prices were unchanged in western Oregon last week, according to the Oregon State College weekly farm forest products report.

Good quality logs are still scarce, but some mills are beginning to tighten up on grade. As the volume of logs builds up, low grade logs will become harder to sell, F. H. Dahl, extension agricultural economist, notes.

SAWLOGS: Long No. 2 second-growth Douglas fir sawlogs at Willamette Valley mills ranged from $38 to $55 a thousand, mostly $45 to $50. Select peelables brought up to $60. No. 3's were $5 to $10 below No. 2 prices. Long camp-run logs were mostly around $40 in the central Valley and up to $50 toward the extreme north and south ends. Logs less than 24 feet long were discounted $2 to $5 a thousand. Eight-foot, or "gang" logs were $17 to $20 a cord, or $37 to $40 a thousand. No. 2 old-growth sawlogs ranged from $45 to $60 a thousand. No. 3's were $30 to $45. Peelers sold over a $15 range up to top prices of $80, $90, and $105 a thousand. All the above prices are quoted for truck scale at interior mills. Prices on water scale at river dumps ranged up to $10 a thousand higher.

In Douglas County, long camp-run logs ranged from $40 to $50 a thousand, mostly $48 to $50. No. 2 second-growth brought $35 to $45, with select peelables up to $55. No. 2 old-growth was $45. All No. 3 sawlogs were $26 to $32. Short logs were $1 to $2 a thousand less. Eight-foot logs were $15 to $17 a cord. Sixteen-foot cordwood was $1 less. Peelers were $65, $75, and $90 a thousand.

At Coos Bay, No. 2 "third-growth" logs ranged from $32 to $38 a thousand. No. 3's were $32 to $34. Long camp-run logs brought $36 to $38. Short logs were discounted $2 a thousand. No. 1 old-growth sawlogs were $50. No. 2's were $40 and No. 3's brought $35. Peelers were $85 to $90 for No. 1's $70 to $75 for No. 2's and $65 for No. 3's.

HARDWOODS: Alder and maple at Portland brought $36 a thousand for twelve-inch diameters and $34 for ten-inch. Ten-inch alder was $36 at Willamina. Good quality twelve-inch maple at Lebanon were in limited demand at $32 a thousand for logs down to six inches in diameter. At Eugene, twelve-inch maple was $35. At Coos Bay, twelve-inch alder from $28 to $40 depending on size and quality. Maple was $33 to $45.

OTHER FOREST PRODUCTS: Second-growth Douglas fir bark for tanning was $20 a ton at Dallas. Dry cascara bark was 18 cents a pound. Swordfern was 23 cents a bunch. At Coos Bay, huckleberry brush was 30 cents a bunch and salal was 25 cents.
