

Ike Proposes 'Blueprint' Exchange

United States and Russia have new and to the weapons such quantities as to make horrible destruction possible.

Then Eisenhower proposed the blueprint exchange and aerial inspection of the two countries' military installations.

The foreign ministers meanwhile prepared their report after receiving the new Russian proposal on European security. The Soviet delegation also came up with disarmament proposals, which Hagerty said were based on Bulganin's remarks at Monday's opening meeting.

President Eisenhower, in preparation for the disarmament talks, had his chief of staff, Arthur Radford, and his disarmament adviser, Harold E. Stassen, as luncheon guests.

Secretary of State Dulles and other top members of the U.S. delegation dined with Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov.

There was no indication what the foreign ministers' report on European security and German unification contained.

MAJOR DEADLOCK

This was the major deadlock on the two problems: The West insisted that German reunification must come first, with an all-European security system including a united Germany to be worked out later. The Russians demanded the security system first, with German unification to follow at some future—and probably far distant—date.

Some Western diplomats considered, however, that the Russians might have retreated from their previous bitter opposition to Western German rearmament. They drew this inference from provisions of a proposed all-

Europe security pact Bulganin presented to the conference Wednesday.

In the main, the draft followed closely the plan the Soviets proposed—and the West rejected—at the Berlin foreign ministers' meeting in February 1954.

TWO-STAGE PLAN

One difference, however, was a provision for bringing about the pact in two stages. During the first stage, the governments signing the pact would not be relieved of obligations undertaken by them under other treaties. This was interpreted by some Western officials as permitting West Germany to raise the 500,000-man force she pledged to NATO in the Paris agreement.

However, another provision of the Bulganin plan called for abolition of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, as well as the Soviet bloc Warsaw alliance, as soon as the all-Europe pact went into effect. An authoritative source said the United States would oppose any plan which would destroy NATO.

SPECIFIC MISSION

In turning the unification and security problems over to the foreign ministers, their chiefs laid down a specific mission to study four points raised by one or all of the Big Four:

1. The problem of German unification itself, with particular reference to the necessity of assuring the security of all European countries.
2. A possible security pact covering all or part of Europe.
3. Limitation of armed forces in Germany and neighboring countries and creation of a control and inspection system.
4. A possible demilitarized zone between East and West.

The Western delegations said they were not too discouraged by the deadlock.

Eisenhower's press secretary said that the referral of the two problems to the foreign ministers should be looked on as the first job assigned to the ministers by the conference. Many Western officials always have considered that the primary purpose of the summit meeting was to lay the groundwork for such future negotiations.

The spokesman for the French delegation put it this way: "The conference took a turn which permits the expectation that a certain number of common principles will be established before the end of the week, permitting the chiefs of government to give directives to their foreign ministers."

Temperatures Remain High

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Midsummer's hot and sticky weather clung to wide areas from the Rockies eastward to the Atlantic Coast Thursday.

The Weather Bureau didn't predict any immediate relief. In some areas, forecasters said, temperatures probably would be a little higher Thursday. They ranged from the 80s to above 100 again Wednesday in the hot belt. Readings were near and above 100 degrees for the fifth straight day Wednesday in parts of Montana, with the nation's top marks of 106 reported at Miles City and Glasgow. In the Southwest desert region, the day's high was 104 at Yuma, Ariz.

Higher temperatures were reported in the central and northern plains with nighttime marks in the 70s and 80s. They were in the 70s in the South, the Ohio Valley and most of the Great Lakes region. New England and most of New York state had pleasant weather with temperatures ranging from 57 at Portland, Maine, and 64 at Albany, N.Y., to 69 at Boston.

There was some scattered rain-fall.

brown and white saddle shoes and a maroon upper garment.

In Berkeley, Abbott's arrest, at his home was the first time he actually had been taken into custody in the case.

He had appeared voluntarily for questioning and taken two lie detector tests.

PREVIOUS SLAYING

Stephanie, daughter of a well-known Berkeley radiologist, had vanished without trace. Last week her purse, textbooks, notebooks, a pair of eyeglasses and a bracelet were found in Abbott's basement.

Abbott has shown a cooperative attitude throughout, according to police, and told newspapermen he was as anxious as anyone to "get this thing cleared up so I can go back to normal living."

The lonely northern California cabin in 1943 was the scene of a grisly slaying. Lloyd Snyder was convicted of shooting Ray H. Latham and dismembering the body. He is serving a life term in San Quentin.

TITLE TRANSFERRED

Before he was sentenced, Snyder transferred title of the cabin to Robert Schorch, of Alturas, Calif., Abbott's brother-in-law.

At Abbott's white stucco home in Alameda, the family conferred late Wednesday night with his attorney Stanley Whitney. Abbott's brother Mark told newsmen there:

"We still believe he's innocent and we'll stand by him. Aside from that, Mr. Whitney has advised us to make no comment."

Burton Abbott's wife Georgia was not available for comment, but Mark said "She is bearing up very well but it has been a terrible shock for her—for all of us."

PARENTS COMMENT

Stephanie's father Dr. Charles Bryan commented:

"I do not think the punishment aspect is of as great importance as it is primarily a matter of removing someone from society who might repeat if given another chance. Also, he should be removed as a deterrent for anyone with similar ideas. Those are two reasons why, Mr. Abbott should cease to be with us soon."

Mrs. Bryan said: "I have no feelings about the man at all. I am thinking of his son. He has to live."

The Abbotts have a 4-year-old son, Christopher.

Air Secretary Asks Probe Of His Business Connections

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Talbot Thursday asked the Senate investigations subcommittee to hold a hearing that would give the public "complete understanding" about his relationships with a New York management engineering firm.

In a statement issued at the Pentagon, Talbot said "in view of the rumors, publicity and discussion" regarding his relations with Paul B. Mulligan & Co., he has asked Chairman McClellan (D-Ark) to grant a public hearing "as soon as possible, so that the public may have a complete understanding and the accurate information about this matter."

Only a short time earlier, McClellan had said letters furnished to his subcommittee from Talbot's files would figure in a decision whether the senators would investigate the secretary's business affairs further.

McClellan declined at that time to discuss published reports that the letters show that Talbot solicited business for the Mulligan firm from Talbot's Pentagon office.

Another subcommittee member, Sen. Jackson (D-Wash.), said he had found nothing in the letters "so far" to show Talbot did anything which Congress should not have known in advance he might do.

Both McClellan and Jackson declined to make the letters public.

McClellan confirmed published reports that Talbot has told the subcommittee he has drawn profits from that firm averaging about $60,000 a year while serving as air secretary.

Talbot said last week that he had nothing to be ashamed of in his business dealings.

At the time of his confirmation more than two years ago, Talbot informed the Senate of his connection with the Mulligan firm and stated that he would remain a "special partner" but would not benefit from any business the company did with the military services.
