News Story
From Aiova

AMES, Iowa (AP)—Twelve important Russian Communist delegates started a 2-day course at one of the leading U.S. agricultural schools. The subject—techniques and technology of capitalist farming. The school—Lowa State College.

The dozen visiting Soviet agricultural dignitaries cut quite a swath across the state of Iowa in their initial 3-day journeyings through rich cropland and also stopped to inspect individual farms.

The group got a glimpse of Iowa and Iowa farming, and Iowa farmers got a peek at the Russian visitors.

But for Thursday and Friday the program is rather different. The Russians are to be given a general picture of the activities of an American agriculture school and more important the chance to indulge their specific curiosity in particular subjects.

Those conducting them on this tour report they are very eager for this opportunity.

One of the Americans who is making arrangements for the Russians, said, "Deputy Minister V. Matskevich (leader of the group) keeps asking me to arrange for him discussions with college officials on the organization and administration of the school."

Matskevich and all the rest of the Russians are going to get their opportunity in some measure Thursday and Friday, aside from some general meetings and excursions for all the delegates.

Together there will be individual sessions for them with the college personnel they want to see most.

Berry Shipment
En Route to Chicago

PORTLAND (AP)—A carload of raspberries—the first shipment from here for fresh markets east of the Rockies in 30 years—was en route to Chicago Thursday.

The 2,000-lb. shipment is an experiment by the Greshman Berry Growers Cooperative which is trying to find new markets because a surplus of frozen berries has forced down prices.

On Tuesday most processors quoted Willamette berries at 10 cents a pound and New Washingtons at 10 cents a pound for freezing. That is about half of last year's price.
