

Wives Make Clothing Dolls Big Business

MONTREAL (AP)—Two attractive housewives have set up a profitable business that is also helping handicapped women.

Mrs. Dorothy Lock, 28, and Mrs. Rosa Dietcher, 31, didn't take long to get things going and now there is a thriving little firm known as Dolls' Outfitters.

They sell homemade dolls' garments to the big Montreal department stores, which in turn supply branches across Canada, and many smaller local shops.

EMPLOY HANDICAPPED

They employ about 20 women, a few of them blind, some handicapped in other ways, and the remainder married women who want to earn pocket money at home.

When Mrs. Dietcher inserted a single newspaper advertisement for at-home help she received more than 200 telephone calls.

Using Mrs. Dietcher's cellar as a workshop, the two women design the garments and have patterns made to be cut into volume for distribution to their workers.

CATER TO CHILDREN

"We try to cater to the child's taste by manufacturing clothes he can identify with himself, such as school tunics and Red River Coats," said Mrs. Dietcher.

Both women have young children and feel that their new business career does not interfere with their family lives.

"We believe our children benefit from it because they are in constant touch with creative work that is close to them," said Mrs. Block.
