MONDAY'S RESULT
Eugene 5, Lewiston 2 (10 innings)
Only game.

One of the smallest crowds of the season missed seeing the end of one of the better ball games of the same period on a cold Monday night at Bethel Park as Jerry Robinson lined a three-run homer out of the park in the bottom of the tenth to give Eugene's Emeralds, whose Richie Slomkowski tossed a three-hitter, a 5-2 Northwest League triumph over Lewiston.

Not more than 100 persons, some of them no doubt too numb to move, were in the stands when Robinson belted his fifth homer over the left-field wall.

The crowd earlier was listed at 575 for the opener of a six-game series in four nights. Monday's fray, which moved the Emeralds within three games of the idle Yakima at the top of the heap, was a rain makeup. So will be the first game of Tuesday night's doubleheader, which will start at 6:30.

The two clubs will tangle in two more Wednesday, then close with one Thursday before the Emeralds open a vital four-game hassle here with Yakima.

Slomkowski, who fanned six and walked six as he improved his record to 3-2, was one of the happiest to see Robinson end it. Loser was little Ted Neal, who replaced Jim Johnson after the Lewiston starter had limited the Emeralds to only four blows in nine innings.

Neal fanned Jack Scramaglia at the start of the Eugene tenth but walked Jose Tartabull, who promptly carried the winning run into scoring position by stealing second. Felix Maldonado was issued a free pass in hopes of setting up a force or double play but added an unneeded run when Robinson connected.

Each team failed to hit in the first three innings, then tallied an unearned pair in the fourth. Lewiston's Sal Ferrara singled one across after a walk and an infield hit, then scored on Jerry Gifford's flyout to center.

Maldonado opened the bottom of the fourth with a single for the first blow off Johnson (6-5) and moved to second when Robinson walked. Johnson sneaked a called third strike past Joe Sparks and retired Chuck Koss on a groundout but walked Mel Krause. That put the burden on Denny Sommers, who came through with a single that chased Maldonado and Robinson across.

That's the way it stayed until the tenth as Slomkowski stayed out of serious trouble except in the eighth, when Tom McDonald tripled with one away but soon was caught in a run-down. Johnson, who fanned four and walked six, yielded a double to hustling Tartabull in the fifth and a single to Krause in the sixth.

MILWAUKEE (P)—The Milwaukee Braves climbed into second place in the National League pennant race by downing the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-1 Monday night on a pair of homers by Hank Aaron and the brilliant relief pitching of Joey Jay.

The victory moved the Braves past idle San Francisco and to within four games of the pace-setting Pittsburgh Pirates, who also had a day of rest.

Aaron, the 1959 major league batting king with a hefty .355 average, entered the game with a mere 278, but snapped out of a prolonged slump in a personal duel with Los Angeles right-hander Don Drysdale.

Hammerin' Hank blasted his 14th homer leading off the second, walked on four pitches when Drysdale brushed him back three times in the third, and then crashed another solo shot into the bleachers in left center on the first pitch of the sixth.

Match Play Opens in OGA

VANCOUVER, Wash. (P)—Match play began here Tuesday in the Oregon Golf Assn. tourney, after qualifiers finished Monday, led by the near-record play of Dick Price of Longview, Wash.

Price deftly stroked rounds of 31 and 34 for a 7-under-par 65 Monday that was one stroke over the Royal Oaks Country Club course's tournament record.

Price's total for the two days of qualifying play, with rounds of 18 holes each day, was 138.

First-day leader Dick Stearns of Portland was edged out by a single stroke. He carded a 2-under-par 70 Monday to go with his 3-under-par 69 Sunday.

Eugene's Shirley Siegmund led women's qualifiers at Oswego Lake Country Club with a 35-41-76.

Other men's scores included Daryl Winn, Eugene, 78-77-155. Scores among those who skipped medal play and shot only an 18-hole qualifying round included Leighton Tuttle, Eugene, 39-39-78; Van Valin, Corvallis, 40-41-81; Bruce Fischer, Eugene, 39-43-82; and Howard Hanson, Eugene, 40-42-82.

Indian Billy White Wolf and Wild Bill Savage will renew their rivalry at the Cow Palace in Saturday night's main event. The two battled to a no-decision on the two last Saturday night.

Supporting matches will feature Shag Thomas against Luigi Macera in the 30-minute opener at 8:30 p.m. and Kurt VonPoppenheim against Ramon Torres in the semifinal match.

Time Return Urged by Duck Hunters Flounder, Perch Offer Unusual Fishing in Bays Along Coast

By PETE CORNACCHIA
Of the Register-Guard

★ If you want some family-type angling that will provide both pleasure and tasty food, get some light tackle together and go after flounder or large red-fin perch in the bay at Florence, Reedsport or Coos Bay.

Either fish is easy to catch on the incoming tide and it's strange that so few people seek them in these three areas. Interest in the flounder and the perch, which moves into the bays with the tide, has been much higher in the bays north of Florence. While some of the bays along the north coast may be more popular because they're sheltered more than those in the central and southern sections, nearly all of Oregon's inlets are calm enough for small boats most of the summer.

Andy almost every tidal bay or river along the coast has a population of flounders averaging one to three pounds. Greatest concentrations are usually found along channel edges and on sandy or muddy bottom, where there is an abundance of food. Often you can drift along until you hook fish, then drop the anchor.

Another method of finding flounders is to anchor and attract them with a chum pot, which is an illegal method for game fish. The chum pot can be a small wire basket, loosely woven sack, or a can pierced with small holes. The pot, filled with ground fish or meat, is lowered to the bottom, where it attracts fish in a hurry.

If you can lure them by stirring up the bottom, uncovering tiny morsels of food, with a rake tied to rope. Throw the rake far from the boat as you can and let it sink to the bottom. If the rake remains attached to the rope, drag it back in and remove all old tires or bed springs. If something hits the rake on troll, you better have lots of backing on that rope.

For just flounders, though, any light rod with casting or spinning reel will do fine. While your terminal rigging need be nothing more than a fairly small hook and adequate lead weight, the conventional rig along the Atlantic coast is a flounder spreader, a two-hook setup.

This is a piece of stiff wire from 12 to 18 inches long. At each end of the wire is a loop onto which a long-shanked No. 4 hook is fastened with a foot or more of leader. In the center of the wire is a clip, where you fasten your line and sinker. This enables you to fish with two hooks, well separated on the bottom.

In Oregon, drifting bait with just enough lead to bump bottom seems to be the conventional method. Cast across the current and let the tide move the bait along. At the end of the drift, let the bait rest for a few minutes.

Flounder usually will take the bait when it stops moving. You get the message in a series of rapid tugs. Red-fin perch will grab bait whether it's moving or not and they strike harder than the flounder.

The weird but tasty flounders aren't choosy about their food. They'll take worms of all types or small chunks of clams, mussels, herring, shrimp, or other meat. But they have small mouths, so keep the bait small.

The flounder, regarded as one of the tastiest fish in the ocean, is delicious when filleted and fried in cracker meal or deep fat. The filets usually are small, so fry them no longer than necessary to turn them a golden brown.

Cannon Suit Lost by Rams

LOS ANGELES (P)—The count was 1-0 in favor of the American Football League Tuesday in the new league's player war with the old National League.

And All-America halfback Billy Cannon was free to play for the Houston Oilers of the AFL, instead of the Los Angeles Rams of the NFL.

Federal Judge William J. Lindberg Monday denied the Rams' injunction suit to keep Cannon from playing for the Oilers.

The court blasted NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle for conducting the Cannon negotiations in a "shroud of secrecy" when Rozelle was the Rams' general manager last November.

The Rams contended Cannon signed three contracts for the 1960-61-62 seasons.

The judge faulted the 1961-62 contracts mainly because neither was signed by then Acting Commissioner Austin Gunsel, a requirement he said is stipulated in the NFL constitution. He dismissed the 1960 contract, because he said it was part of an incomplete contractual package.

Judge Lindberg, in his 40-minute, 27-page decision, described Cannon as unusually naive for a college senior and anything but astute in business dealings.

The judge held as irrelevant the fact that Cannon signed both the Ram and Adams' contracts prior to the Jan. 1 Sugar Bowl game, when his college amateur standing in football ended.

Baseball School Slated Thursday At Bethel Park

Tryout sessions, under the direction of San Francisco Giants scouts Hank Sauer and Eddie Montague, will continue Wednesday morning from 10 until noon at Bethel Park. The rookie sessions opened Tuesday.

Thursday, Monte Montgomery and Gordon Perlich will sponsor a baseball school at Bethel from 1 to 4 p.m. The kids will receive instruction from Montague and Emerald manager Dick Klaus and his players.

Also on the staff will be Hugh Luby, general manager of the Ems, Don Kirsch of the University of Oregon and John McNamara, Lewiston manager. Base running, throwing, sliding, hitting and other aspects of the game will be covered by instruction.

The school is open for all school age boys. Each will receive a diploma at the end of the day, plus a free pass to Thursday night's Emerald-Lewiston game.

When game management directors from eight western states gathered Sunday at Salt Lake City they strongly urged the Fish and Wildlife Service to return the daily starting time for duck hunting to half an hour before sunrise.

Last year, as many duck hunters recall unhappily, the federal agency took away a very vital 30 minutes by trimming the starting time to actual sunrise.

Sentiment at Sunday's meeting of the Pacific Flyway Council, which drew fish and game chiefs from Oregon, Washington, California, Alaska, Idaho, Nevada, Utah and Arizona, was in accord with the many disgruntled hunters who felt that the cutback was unnecessary.

Leading the attack against the Fish and Wildlife Service was John Biggs, director of the Washington Game Department. He said western game officials "have not felt that the curtailment was justified." The FWS officials at the meeting were told by Biggs, "We say to you that one year of that regulation was enough. We don't want it any more."

Noting that the curtailed shooting time stirred up more criticism than any other regulation, Idaho game director Ross Leonard said Idaho's duck kill was down about 18 per cent last year. He attributed most of the reduction to the sunrise opening.

Springfield Legion Scores 5-4 Victory

The Springfield Junior Legion baseball team scored a run in the seventh inning to defeat the Cascade Ranger legion nine, 5-4, in a non-league game at Springfield Tuesday.

A hit by Doug Jones brought in the winning run from third base in the final frame. Don Herman hit a two-run triple for Springfield in the first inning.

Morrison accounted for all of the Rangers' runs, two of them with a two-run triple in the first.

Greer, Harvey Hixson and Bill Eggers of Portland and Ed Bucklin of Moses Lake, Wash., will go to the national PGA meet in August.

Jim Russell of Walla Walla and Boots Porterfield of Grants Pass, Ore., tied for fourth at 139, but declined the PGA trip. Hixson and Eggers finished at 140 and Bucklin at 142.

Other scores included: 148—Wendell Wood, Eugene; Larry Lamberg, Portland; Eddie Hogan, Portland. 157—Howard Bonar, Portland; Alex Kinsfather, Eugene.

Greer Wins PGA Title

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (P)—Joe Greer of Yakima, Wash., successfully defended his Northwest Professional Golfers Assn. championship Monday, defeating Portland's Glenn Spivey and Tacoma's Al Feldman in a playoff.

The three tied at 138 in regulation play.

Greer, Harvey Hixson and Bill Eggers of Portland and Ed Bucklin of Moses Lake, Wash., will go to the national PGA meet in August.

Jim Russell of Walla Walla and Boots Porterfield of Grants Pass, Ore., tied for fourth at 139, but declined the PGA trip. Hixson and Eggers finished at 140 and Bucklin at 142.

Tells of NCAA Meet

Bowerman Speaker At Oregon Club

"This was the greatest assembly of college athletes that I've ever seen," Oregon track coach Bill Bowerman told Oregon Club members at the Eugene Hotel Monday.

He was speaking of the weekend's NCAA track and field championships at Berkeley in which the University of Oregon finished tied for fourth place. Bowerman added that he was very proud of the way his Webfoots performed in the meet.

Of the nine Oregon athletes entered in the NCAA, five earned points for the Ducks. They included Daryl Burleson, first, and George Larsen, sixth, in the 1,500 meters, Dave Edstrom third in the high hurdles, Jerry Stubbfield fourth in the discus, and Jerry close sixth in the broad jump.

Bowerman said that only two events, the high hurdles and the pole vault, were not up to past standards—but that poor organization was partly responsible for the poor marks in the pole vault where none of the four 15-foot vaulters hit that mark in the NCAA.

Bowerman said it took two and one-half hours for the bar in the pole vault to be raised from 13-6 to 14-0, which tired the athletes. The Webfoot coach said he thought the best race was in the 800-meter run won by George Kerr, the Jamaican from Illinois, in 1:46.4. Jerry Siebert of California was second in 1:48.9 and Ernie Cunliffe of Stanford was third in 1:47.6.

Burleson, Bowerman noted, ran easily in winning the 1,500 meters in NCAA record time of 3:44.2. Burleson's plan was if the pack was too crowded at the half, "to get out of there," which he did. Bowerman said Edstrom's third place finish in the high hurdles at 14.0 "solved one of my problems."
