

New Rulers Strengthen Korea Hold

President Pressured To Return to Office

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—South Korea's military rulers established themselves in a new government of tough young officers Saturday and strengthened their constitutional position by pressuring President Yun Po-sun to return to office.

In a day of hectic activity, Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young named himself premier and defense minister, picked a Cabinet of military officers and convinced Yun to retract his resignation, submitted Friday night.

The 63-year-old president, a conservative who expresses disapproval of Chang's coup, is the only major elected official remaining in office.

TENSION HIGH

Tension continued high. Chang continued his crackdown by jailing eight members of deposed Premier John M. Chang's government and tried without success to arrest the deposed premier himself. Sixteen dissident generals also were reported in custody, raising protests from U.S. Gen. Carter B. Magruder.

Competent sources disclosed that Magruder demanded Chang reinstate the Korean generals fired after the coup or replace them with generals acceptable to Magruder. A commander of U.N. forces in Korea, Magruder technically is boss of South Korea's 500,000-man army.

The informants said Magruder personally told Chang, who is also South Korea's army chief of staff, that the military units responsible for the coup were guilty of mutiny and should return to their positions.

UNDERCUT AUTHORITY

The American general is reported to believe that although the withdrawal of 3,600 Korean marines, paratroopers and artillerymen to seize the capital Tuesday did not weaken defenses against Communist North Korea, it undercut the control and authority of the U.N. Command.

The 38-year-old Korean general made on response to Magruder in public.

Man Revived After Heart Stops Beating

PITTSBURG (AP)—A physician used chest massage Saturday to revive a man whose heart apparently stopped beating after a traffic crash.

"I have done this many times, and it has never worked for me before," said Dr. Jules Kann of nearby Glenshaw.

Dr. Kann was driving along the Penn-Lincoln parkway in Wilkinsburg early Saturday when he came upon a truck-auto crash.

Kann found Glenn W. Hough, 49, of Forest Hills, slumped behind the steering wheel of the car.

"I felt his pulse and listened to his heart with my stethoscope," Kann said. "I didn't feel any pulse or hear any heart beat. There was some gasping."

Kann then began to apply external heart massage.

"You rhythmically press in with your hands and release," he explained. "It gives a mechanical stimulus to the heart."

"I did this for awhile and nothing happened," Kann said. "I decided to try it for a minute or so more. I was about ready to give up. Suddenly, his heart started beating."

"A couple minutes later when the circulation started again, he started up and started to talk. I believe he said, 'I'm all right.'"

Hough, vice president in charge of sales for the Acheson Manufacturing Co. in nearby Rankin, was listed in satisfactory condition at Columbia Hospital. He suffered a fractured elbow and two cuts in the crash.

Dr. Kann is a physician at a Veterans Administration Hospital here.

State Welfare Body to Seek New Chief

PORTLAND (AP)—The state Public Welfare Commission will meet in a few weeks to discuss the vacancy left by the resignation of Jeanne Jewett as state administrator.

Miss Jewett, who has been in Oregon welfare work since 1933, announced Friday that she will resign at the commission's pleasure, but no later than June 30.

Commission Chairman Joseph Harvey Jr., who said the commission will meet soon, expressed shock at Miss Jewett's resignation. Most other members of the commission also expressed surprise and disappointment.

Miss Jewett gave no reason for her action.

There have been indications of strife. Gov. Mark Hatfield criticized the commission recently, ordered transfer of commission headquarters from Portland to Salem, and called for the resignation of several members of the commission.

After he learned of the resignation, Hatfield said, "She served Oregon ably as its foremost social worker. We wish her well." Dr. Morton Goodman, Portland, commission member, said it was "political harassment" that caused her resignation.

Applying Promises Aid In Re-Electing Hatfield

SALEM (AP)—Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr. promised his support today to Gov. Mark O. Hatfield if Hatfield runs for reelection in 1962.

Hatfield originally appointed Appling, but they have had disagreements. The chief disagreement was on Hatfield's proposal to abolish the state Board of Control, which Appling favors retaining. The legislature sided with Appling.

Appling told the state Republican Central Committee Saturday: "I left my family and business for seven months in 1958 to work for Hatfield. I am looking forward to another seven months of campaigning for him in the next election. He is the kind of person on whom we must build our future."

PROPOSAL ACCEPTED

Hatfield has said he would seek reelection.

The committee came here to try to find a way to raise some money. The state GOP organization said it has no money now.

It accepted a proposal by Robert G. Davis, state GOP chairman, that the county Republican committees contribute $81,000 out of the state organization's $88,000 budget for the year beginning July 1.

Davis said the county organizations should make their payments July 1, Oct. 1 and Dec. 1, getting pledges from Republicans. He pointed out that this amounts to only 20 cents per registered Republican.

The plan was adopted with vir-

Alums Give $600 To Oregon Fund

A $600 check, the first in what is hoped to be a long series of gifts, was presented to the University of Oregon by its Portland alumni recently.

The check represents profits from the annual indoor track meet sponsored in January by the Portland Alumni Assn. at Portland's Memorial Coliseum.

The money is slated for the University's Development Fund for academic scholarships.

The alumni group actually made $5,000 profit this year, but most of this was used to pay for the track which the group built for the track meet. This cost $13,500, and when it is fully paid for all profits will go to the university.
