

Representatives to 4-H Summer School Given

The rush to the mailbox came to a happy end this week for 60 4-H members who received the glad news that they had been selected to represent 2,000 Lane 4-H Club members at the 4-H Summer School June 12-17 at Oregon State University, Corvallis.

Attendance at the session — the 46th on the OSU campus — is by scholarship only, reports J. R. Gurton, Lane extension agent in 4-H Club work. The number attending from each county is prorated according to the county's 4-H membership.

Describing the summer school, one of the largest and best developed programs of its kind in the nation, Gurton said:

"This is a bona-fide college situation where 4-H youth take over the campus, live in dormitories, sororities and fraternities, attend classes especially planned for them, and take part in the full program of sports, assemblies, and social events."

Final selections from the 4-H applicants were based on a 100-word story on "Why I want to go to 4-H summer school" and a check list filled in by each applicant's 4-H Club leader.

Donors to the Lane County 4-H scholarship fund include department stores, banks, service clubs, farm groups, PTA's local organizations and individuals.

This year's 4-H summer school will be marked by a "new approach for 4-H'ers who are 15 and over," Gurton said. "Classes in leadership, camp counselling, money matters and other special subjects have proven so successful that more special classes have been planned for this age group."

Four-H'ers who are 15 and over will have a choice of two courses of study covering subjects such as forestry science, animal science, town and country business, plant science, communications, engineering-food science, home economics and Extension Service.

Club members, 15 and younger, also will have a choice of electives including swimming, livestock, and hunter safety.

which girl wears CONTACT LENSES?

Actually, both pictures are of Dr. Noles' 13-year old daughter who has worn contact lenses 16 hours a day for the past two years. And . . . she wears dark green tinted contact lenses for swimming and skiing.

A dramatic illustration of the cosmetic and psychological benefits to be derived from wearing contact lenses.

bon marche russells

Had a peek at the French collection to be shown in early June at the Chic et Cheval fashion show and, while we have no intention of revealing details, we will say that we have never seen such an expression of joie de vivre. These clothes practically have a life of their own!

Lavin, Guy Laroch, Pucci, Nina Ricci—all are represented at their most blithe. This, of course, represents the ultimate in fashion shows in Eugene and is definitely going to be history-making.

A word to the wise is in order too! Time's a-wasting and if you haven't a ticket to the Chic et Cheval Champagne Supper after the Saturday night, June 10, showing you'd better get busy. Reservations close positively this Thursday, May 25. So call DI 3-5139 immediately!

At the opposite end of the fashion picture is a new version of the mu-mu intended to give this most comfortable garment a certain verve. There's a drawstring neck that allows a cool décolletage or a modestly high adaptation. In addition, the drawstring is long enough to allow for a Grecian-bodice-tied effect that will convert all former mu-mu haters. You'll like the prints, too, as they are exuberant without being loud. Second floor.

To wear with the mu-mu or with any other type of summer play clothes, we've a sparkling and saucy collection of casual shoes that will put you in a relaxing mood just by looking at them. They're exactly right for patio parties or parties without the parties. First floor.

Speaking of patios, we've never seen anything become such an overnight success as our plastic-laced patio furniture. If you haven't seen this new "in" outdoor furniture, stop on our lower level and inspect it.

We have an exciting new manicuring aid called Nail Tone which will smooth away ridges on your fingernails, harden the nails and prevent splitting as well as give them a brilliant enamel-like gloss. It's a white powder accidentally discovered by a chemist during a space-age experiment and is described as being composed of a "rare earth, a chemical oddity."

You simply shake the powder into the palm of one hand and buff the nails of the other hand over the powdered surface. Try it, your nails will look much prettier! Cosmetics department, street floor.

As to the gift wrappings—it's a new look for tissue paper! This good old standby now appears in six utterly mad, vibrant colors. These zesty hues also are used for "color bags", the new quickie way to wrap gifts.

For added flair, there's "Fool's Gold," a packet of gold decorative stickers in such forms as lions, fish, butterflies, medallions, crests, sunbursts, stars, laurel wreaths and other imaginative items. They're primarily designed to enhance package wrappings but they're so gloriously elegant you'll want to use them on lampshades, desk accessories or personal trivia. $1.25 a packet. Gift department, first floor.
