

At UO's Parliament of World Religions Starting Sunday

Six to Present Historic Positions of Faiths

Six speakers, each representing the major religions of the world, will present their religion's historic position during a five-day Parliament of World Religions at the University of Oregon Sunday through Thursday.

The six religions represented will be Hinduism, Buddhism, Roman Catholicism, Protestant Christianity, Islam and Judaism. Speaking for Hinduism will be Haridas Chaudhuri, director of the Cultural Integrational Fellowship of San Francisco and professor of Indian philosophy and religions at the American Academy of Asian Studies.

Chaudhuri has written several books in his field, as have many of the speakers.

Second Major Tour

The Buddhist speaker will be Takshi Tsuji, national director of Buddhist education for the Buddhist Churches of America. A native of Canada, he has served a number of Buddhist congregations in Canada.

Paul Tagita, who will represent Roman Catholicism, is a native of Japan, where he served as professor of comparative religions at the Catholic University at Nagoya, Japan. He is author of the book, "Secret Christians of 20th Century Japan," and is now on his second major lecture tour of the United States.

Protestant Christianity will be represented by the Rev. Edward Stein, a Presbyterian, who is dean of students and associate professor of pastoral psychology at San Francisco Theological Seminary. He has contributed articles to a number of publications, and has served as chaplain to Presbyterian students at the University of California at Berkeley.

Chaudhuri Tsuji Tagita Stein Amier Gumbiner

Indonesian prime minister and has served as assistant editor of an Islamic weekly.

Representing Judaism will be Rabbi Joseph H. Gumbiner, director of the B'nai B'rith Hillel Foundation, University of California. The Rabbi has served Jewish congregations in a number of cities.

He is past president of the National Association of Hillel Directors and the author of a number of articles on Judaism for various magazines.

Two All-University Affairs

Each speaker will discuss his faith's religious position at a major, featured address. In addition, coffee hour forums on specific religious topics will be held at 4 p.m. Monday through Thursday.

The featured addresses are scheduled for the Erb Memorial Student Union Ballroom, and the coffee hour forums will be in the Student Union's Dads Lounge.

World Parliament speakers will also be featured at two all-University events—Tuesday's 1 p.m. University Assembly and Wednesday's 8 p.m. Browning Room lecture.

The University Assembly speaker will be Amier, who will speak on "Historic Islam in the Modern World." Tagita will discuss "Historic Catholicism in the Modern World" at the Browning Room lecture.

During the five-day Parliament, the speakers will be available for personal conferences. Appointments may be made through the University of Oregon YMCA, D12-1411, Ext. 658, or the university YWCA, D12-1411, Ext. 426.

The speakers have also been scheduled for fireside programs at campus living organizations. Each speaker will be honored at a faculty luncheon during the week, and several speakers plan to give some classroom lectures. This year's Parliament of Religions will replace the annual Religious Emphasis Week, held during winter term. Campus sponsors of the programs explain that the Parliaments are held every four or five years. The last Parliament was in 1956.

Eugene Minister Ordained Recently

Ordination services for Larry Jonas, minister of the Church of Christ at 1856 W. Broadway, Eugene, were held recently in Vancouver, Wash.

The ceremony was at the Minnehaha District Church of Christ where Jonas was assistant minister for three years before coming to the Eugene church.

City Churches to Hear
Addresses by Visitors

Speaking engagements for several of the featured speakers from the University of Oregon's Parliament of World Religions have been announced by Eugene church and community groups.

The Rev. Edward V. Stein, a Presbyterian, who will represent Protestant Christianity at the Parliament, will be the guest speaker Sunday at Central Presbyterian Church, 1475 Ferry St. Eugene.

Magazine Article Author

He will address the 9:30 and 11 a.m. services.

The minister, who is now on the faculty of San Francisco Theological Seminary, has held a number of denominational assignments, including student chaplain work. He has contributed a number of articles to religious publications, and has conducted classes on the psychology of marriage and family relations.

On Sunday at 6 p.m., the Rev. Stein will meet with a student group at Westminster Foundation on the university campus.

The Rev. Takashi Tsuji, representing Buddhism at the Parliament, will discuss his religion Tuesday at the 10 a.m. chapel service of Northwest Christian College, Eugene.

Moslem Guest Speaker

The public is invited to attend the chapel service, which will be held in NCC's music building chapel.

Mustafa K. Amier, secretary of the Moslem Assn. of Los Angeles, will be the guest speaker at Thursday's Fortnightly Club meeting. He will be the Parliament's University Assembly speaker Tuesday at 1 p.m.

University campus religion groups will also host a number of the speakers Sunday for dinner and for programs during the week.

Church Official
To Speak Sunday

A public address, "Where May Real Security Be Found?" will be given Sunday at 3 p.m. in Eugene by F. E. Adams, Watchtower Bible and Tract Society representative and new circuit supervisor for Jehovah's Witnesses' Oregon circuit No. 2, which includes the Emerald Empire.

The talk, open to all persons, will be held at the Kingdom Hall of North Unit Eugene Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, 95 N. Washington St., Eugene.

Sunday's talk will conclude a week-long program by Adams with ministers of the Eugene congregation, including Bible study and field missionary work.

A congregational Bible study, using the Watchtower magazine as an aid, is scheduled after Sunday's talk.

Minister-Doctor
Discussion Held

COTTAGE GROVE — Fifteen ministers and doctors held a breakfast meeting here this week to discuss areas of general interest. Arrangements were handled by the Cottage Grove Ministerial Assn., headed by Elmer Unterseher pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist Church.

Pastor Unterseher said an open discussion with Rev. D. Hugh Peniston as group leader pointed out the need for more youth counseling. The need for young people to seek higher education; dangers of teenage marriages and the value of counseling young people even prior to high school was brought out in the unplanned discussion. The group agreed that "young people are pushed into growing up too fast."

A similar meeting will be arranged by the doctors at a later date, Pastor Unterseher said.

BerkeleyAnti-Illiteracy
Class Series
Set at NCC

How to make an illiterate literate will be taught in Eugene during a two-day session at Northwest Christian College next week.

Instructor will be Robert Likins, a Laubach consultant from Berkeley, Calif.

The series is the "Laubach Literacy Workshop" and is sponsored by the Laubach Literacy Volunteer Council of Eugene. It follows a series of Eugene talks by Frank Laubach, pioneer teacher of illiterates throughout the world.

The program will be built on the theme "Each One Teach One" and is designed to encourage persons to learn to teach communications to illiterates around the world.

Registration will cost $1.50, and a teachers' kit can be obtained for $1. Anyone may attend.

Course schedule is: Friday, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m., registration and orientation; survey of literacy, demonstrations, films and instruction. Saturday, from 9 a.m. to noon, a report on a team tour, a session in teaching the primer, teaching English as a second language, and writing; 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m., teaching streamlined English, writing and publishing for new readers, working in a community program, and a summary.

According to the Laubach Council, there are ten million in Asia and Africa.
