Quips and Quotes

With a Slight Assist

We measure the square feet,
Sketch the designs,
Balance the levels,
Chalk the chalk lines.

We stir up the paint,
Hold boards while they saw,
Hold nails while they hammer,
Sand out every flaw.

We clean sticky brushes,
Untangle kinked wires,
Mix canfuls of glue,
Hand them the pliers.

We steady their ladders,
Fetch tools from the shelves:
We're the wives of the husbands
Who "do it themselves."

—Susanne Douglass

"I'm sorry, madam—all we have left in this style is your size."

The young lady had just told her father she had met the man of her life. "I'm sure you're going to like Tom," she said enthusiastically. "He's a fine young man."

"Does he have any money?" her father asked.

"Oh, you men are all so curious," the girl sighed. "Tom asked the same thing about you!"

Social Note

The hostess caters to her guests:
The guests conform to please the hostess.
That's why evenings home alone
Are the ones that please me mostess.

"Dear," said the timid wife, "could I have $50 to do some shopping tomorrow?"

"Absolutely not!" her husband shouted. "No!" He stalked out to the living room and buried his face in a newspaper.

"Well, then," the wife called from the kitchen, "could you give me $10 to tide me over until you're in a better mood?"
