

Salvation Army to Move

Eugene's Salvation Army Corps will vacate the Corps building at 707 Pearl St. and move operations to two new sites June 18.

The present Corps headquarters, home of the Army's religious and welfare operations for the past 34 years, will be razed as part of the site of the new Eugene City Hall.

After June 18, worship services, workshops, craft programs and offices for staff members will be in the new Corps building at 640 W. Seventh Ave., Eugene.

Fern Ridge Boat Season Extended

The U.S. Corps of Engineers won't pull the plug on Fern Ridge Reservoir until October, permitting a longer boating season on the lake.

Dr. E. D. Furrer of Eugene, chairman of a citizens committee, said he has received a letter from the corps approving the storage of water to permit boating and other recreational uses through the summer and fall. Ordinarily, the drawdown takes place about the middle of August.

Furrer said the boating season on Fern Ridge Lake was also extended last year. Permission for delaying the lake drawdown must be given on a year to year basis, Furrer explained.

Store and welfare offices will be moved to 645 Olive St., where the Corps owns a building donated by the late Mrs. Carl Washburne.

Capt. Oliver Stenvick, Salvation Army commander in Eugene, said plans call for the eventual razing of the Olive Street building and construction of an "emergency lodge," a building to house temporarily homeless persons in the Lane County area and "individuals who find themselves in Eugene in an emergency situation."

This, he said, is planned for 1965, and the Army hopes to raise the $50,000 necessary for the project by then.

Until the construction of the "emergency lodge," Stenvick said, lodgings for stranded persons will be provided in local hotels and motels.

Power Line Bids Opened

Bonneville Power Administration opened bids Tuesday for construction of a 17.8-mile transmission line from Green Peter Dam to Lebanon.

Apparent low bid of $168,996 was submitted by Charles T. Parker Construction Co., Portland, according to L. A. Moore, Eugene district BPA manager.

The line will begin about one-fourth mile southwest of Green Peter Dam and will terminate at the Lebanon substation, two miles southeast of Lebanon. A tap will run from the main line to the dam site.

Primary use of the transmission facility will be to supply power for construction of Green Peter Dam on the middle fork of the South Santiam River.

The dam will cost about $35 million and is due for completion in 1966.
