

Emergency Board's Power Challenged

SALEM (UP) — The State Board of Control Tuesday deliberately by-passed the State Emergency Board in a prison fence project, and challenged it to bring a lawsuit to test its authority to approve projects.

The Board of Control is made up of Gov. Mark Hatfield, Secretary of State Howell Appling Jr. and State Treasurer Howard C. Belton, all Republicans.

Group of Legislators

The Emergency Board is a group of legislators who meet between sessions to act on emergency requests for money from state agencies.

The prison fence project is not an emergency, and the $12,485 for it is included in a lump sum appropriation made by the 1961 legislature to the Board of Control for construction at institutions.

Ordinarily, all Board of Control projects go before the Emergency Board. Since the 1961 legislature, the Emergency Board has assumed wider powers in this field.

Hatfield and the other two Control Board members have complained about this before, declaring that the Emergency Board is infringing on administration.

Appling declared Tuesday that this "encroachment" is becoming more apparent. Hatfield and Belton agreed to proceed right away with the fencing job, ignoring the Emergency Board.

Four Injured In Accidents

Four persons suffered minor injuries Monday in two separate traffic accidents in Springfield.

William W. Bolick, 49, 1448 Main St., was treated at McKenzie-Willamette Memorial Hospital for a sprained neck he suffered when his car struck a Pacific Power & Light Co. pole at 18th and Main streets.

Vernon J. Duwell, 40, Mary Duwell, 40, Roxanne Randall, 8, all of 1901 Jackson St., Eugene, were shaken up when a car in which they were riding collided with a car driven by Walter McNair, 47, 6304 Main St.

Springfield police said McNair's car, traveling east on Main, veered into another lane when its right front wheel became loose, striking Duwell's vehicle, which was westbound.

Teachers' Requirements Tightened

SALEM (UP)—The State Board of Education voted Tuesday to require five years of college training for elementary school teachers. The requirement now is four years.

The five-year requirement, which won't apply to teachers who now have certificates, thus will be the same as the requirement for high school teachers.

It is part of the board's program to upgrade the teaching profession.

"This," said Mrs. Joy Hills Gubser, assistant state superintendent of public instruction, "will make the elementary teachers equal to high school teachers."

"It will make it possible to transfer teachers back and forth between grade and high schools, making it easier for school administrators to assign teachers."

Students studying to become elementary teachers will have to have one area of special interest, just as those training to be high school teachers must do.

The new regulations put junior high schools in the same category as high schools.

The board, in accord with a legislative act, created a special category of professional certificate. This will go to teachers who are outstanding and have had seven years' experience.

The professional certificate is largely honorary.

Tom Scanlon, a board member, objected that to label some teachers as professional is to label the others as something less than professional.

Mrs. Gubser agreed, however, she said the legislature was explicit about its desire for professional certificates.

The board approved Portland State College's program for teacher internships, hearing that the college plans on 10 interns next year, and more after that.

It approved the elementary and secondary teacher education programs at Pacific University for two more years.

And it gave two-year approval to the secondary teacher education program at Cascade College.

These will be evaluated at the end of two years.

Director Named

SALEM (UP)—Donovan Moris-

ky, Salem, Tuesday was named director of the Oregon Welfare Commission's new Administrative Services Division, effective July 1. He has been welfare collections chief since 1959.

Prior to joining the state welfare agency, Morisky worked for the Oregon Department of Veterans' Affairs as supervisor of collections and as property manager.

Hal Rytel of Salem, staff man in welfare's relative responsibility unit since 1960, was named to succeed Morisky as state collections chief.

Lease Cancelled

SALEM (UP)—The State Land Board Tuesday withdrew approval of an oil lease to Farnham Chemical Co., Portland, saying the company had not submitted an adequate bond.

The cancelled lease was for 1,491 acres in Clackamas, Linn and Marion counties; and 1,283 acres in Coos and Curry counties.

Chairman Elected

SALEM (UP)—The board of directors of Blue Mountain Community College Tuesday elected Ralph B. McEwen Jr., Athena rancher, as chairman.

The seven member board was sworn in here Tuesday. Courses that the new community college—in Umatilla and Morrow counties—will offer were approved by the State Board of Education.
