HOLLYWOOD—I don't know about you, fellas, but I've just about had my fill of television's obsession with dramas about mental cases.

I really don't care much any more about what labors go into such works, or even if they are fairly competent efforts like Wednesday night's CBS drama, "The First Day," with prize-winning actress Margaret Leighton, prize-winning actor Ralph Bella-

Other Thursday previews:

Movies

7:30 p.m., (2)—"The Purple Heart." Dana Andrews, Richard Conte. Powerful, brutal story of the trial of the crew of a flying fortress shot down by the Japanese during the Tokyo raid. Another war film which should be seen again and again—lest we forget. (1944—good).

11:30 p.m., (12)—"Call Northside 777." James Stewart, Lee J. Cobb, Richard Conte. Exciting, fast-paced story of a newspaperman who proves a man innocent by probing an 11-year-old case history. (1947—good).

Friday (daytime):
9:35 a.m., (12)—"Surgeon's Knife." Donald Houston, Adrienne Cori. Confusing British melodrama about a doctor who believes he has killed a patient through negligence and is being blackmailed for this act. (1957—fair).

3 p.m., (2)—"The Magnificent Dope." Henry Fonda, Don Ameche, Lynn Bari. Amusing comedy which has the country boy outwitting the city slicker. Fonda and Ameche are a good contrast and the film has its share of laughs. (1942—good).

3 p.m., (8)—"Washington Melodrama." Frank Morgan, Ann Rutherford. Morgan supports this little contrivance about the adventures that befall a kindly old gentleman who's in Washington trying to do some good. (1940—fair).

4:15 p.m., (6)—"The Brass Legend." Hugh O'Brian, Raymond Burr, Nancy Gates. Sheriff O'Brian tracks down and shoots it out with desperado Raymond Burr. Involved western drama. (1956—fair).
