The Ems dropped the Chiefs out of the Northwest League lead. The Ems remain in the cellar, however.

Final game of the series will be played tonight, starting at 7 p.m., standard, 8 p.m., daylight. Manager Bud Byerly has selected Paul Arneson (0-3) and manager Joe Macko will likely use either George Gerberman (9-2) or Art Thompson (9-3).

It looked for a while as though Ken Fruchter's two-run homer in the first inning would hold up for the Chiefs, although Ed Feldman scattered only two hits the rest of the route.

The Ems left two men on the bases in each of the first three innings, but it wasn't until the sixth the first run was scored off Dan Saporiti.

Arley Kangas, subbing for Dick Dietz when the regular catcher was hit on the jaw by a Saporiti pitch in the first inning (the recovered enough to pinch hit in the nightcap), singled to lead off the sixth. Jose Calero was safe on an error and both men advanced on Stan Patykula's bunt. Joe McLaughlin bounced an infield single near the mound and Kangas scored. But Roger Tomlinson grounded out and Feldman flied out to end the threat.

After Feldman had set down the hard-hitting Chiefs in order in the last four innings, Carlos Dore opened the last of the seventh with a scratch single. He advanced on a passed ball and Don Pope walked. Wally Cockrell dumped a bunt to the third-base side of the mound and Saporiti elected to try for the lead runner at third—but threw into the left-field foul area and both runners scored. Dore, the tying and Pope the winning run. That was the opener.

The Chiefs opened the second game with two runs when McLaughlin lost Bill Maloney's fly ball in the left-center field right and it dropped in for a double. Ron Campbell singled and then Maloney scored on Macko's infield out and Campbell tallied on Bill Cowan's infield out.

Macko's home run over the left-field wall in the third and Dan Murphy's circuit drive over the right-field fence in the fourth proved enough for the Chiefs — and for starter Bob Meekwood.

Kangas was doubled off first to end the inning.

Pope singled in the seventh with one out. With two away Calero gave the Ems life with a Texas-league single. But McLaughlin forced Calero at second to end the game.

One of the largest crowds in recent weeks, 898, watched the entertaining games.

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Norm Larker's grand-slam home run and a bases-loaded double by Pidge Browne powered the Houston Colts to a 9-5 victory over the fumbling San Francisco Giants Wednesday.

Larker blasted the second grand-slam of his major league career in the third frame and pinch-hitter Browne broke a 5-5 deadlock in the seventh at the expense of reliever Stu Miller.

In the eighth, the visitors scored as San Francisco was charged successively with a passed ball and two infield errors. The Giants' pitchers also contributed nine walks in their downfall.

WALNUT, Calif.—Oregon's unpredictable distance running star, Dyrrol Burleson, kicked up quite a controversy Thursday with the announcement that he will compete after all in the National Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) track and field championships here this weekend.

The 21-year-old university senior changed lanes and said he will run here—after announcing that he was through racing for the year.

But he will run only in the three-mile event instead of what would have been a widely heralded and long anticipated clash with little Jim Beatty of Los Angeles in the mile.

Burleson's coach, Bill Bowerman, accused the National AAU of using a "club" to make Dyrrol compete in the nationals. AAU officials vehemently denied the charge.

Burleson's three-mile effort will be against the best, however, notably New Zealand's Murray Halberg, who holds the world record, and Canada's 19-year-old Bruce Kidd, who whipped Halberg in the recent Compton invitational meet.

Mixed Emotions

At best, Burleson's switch was greeted with mixed emotions here. The meet starts Friday at Mt. San Antonio College.

For many weeks track fans had looked forward to a 1962 race in the mile between Burleson and Beatty.

Burleson's sudden change of plans matched his maneuver last May. After withdrawing from the Coliseum Relays weeks before, he abruptly decided about two days before the meet that he would run against Peter Snell of New Zealand, the world's best.

Snell demolished him and Burleson's American record of 3:57.6 with a blistering 3:56.1.

Bowerman, an avid critic of the AAU and a leader in the new United States Track Federation, charged that pressure was applied by the AAU to force Burleson to run here.

J. B. "Cap" Haralson of Bakersfield, Calif., chairman of the AAU national track committee, denied the accusation. He said Burleson was welcome but not indispensable because "we have a lot of good boys already here."

Bowerman said an AAU official in New York, Steve Archer, telephoned him at Eugene Tuesday night and told him Dyrrol would not be considered for any foreign trips this year if he did not compete in the nationals.

No Pressure Attempt

Col. Don Hull, secretary of the AAU, said there was no attempt to apply any pressure on Burleson.

"On the contrary, Steve Archer called coach Bowerman to tell him that Burleson had been asked for by a foreign country. We considered it an opportunity for the boy and wanted him to know about it."

"The AAU track and field committee's procedure, of course, is to send the No. 1 finisher for each event, and, if he is not available, to send the No. 2 man. That just happens to be the rule under which we operate, but far from attempting to exert any pressure on Burleson, Archer, who knows him quite well as a friend, was trying to help him. And coach Bowerman thanked him for calling. I'm not interested in fanning any controversy."

Bowerman declared the AAU is "run by a bunch of old militarists." Haralson, something of an unofficial mediator between the AAU and the new federation, made no comment on this aspect.

Burleson, who at one time said he wouldn't have time for any more meets this summer, said his summer class work would prevent him from arriving here in time for the mile trials Friday evening but that he could make it for the three-mile run Saturday night.

Camp Meat Chinook Hit but Fog, Wind Hampers Salmon Angling

By PETE CORNACCHIA
 Of the Register-Guard

★ Fog in the morning and wind in the afternoon interfered with salmon angling Wednesday and Thursday at Winchester Bay and Charleston.

The fog which shrouded the bars and kept all boats except charters inside wasn't expected to lift while temperatures are high in the valley.

Charter boats found a fair number of chinook while cruising in the fog Wednesday at both Winchester and Charleston. Due to fog and an ebb tide, the Umpqua and are beginning to hit again in the Gardiner area. Stripper fishing normally reaches its peak there in July and August.

This section of the Umpqua still is producing some huge sturgeon but on a hit-and-miss basis. The big fish are found nearly everywhere one day and nowhere the next.

Up in the high country, East and Paulina still rank tops among the larger lakes despite heavy pressure and high success ever since the season opened. The approach of hot weather hasn't brought any noticeable decline in angling at either lake, though more smaller trout from 8 to 11 inches are showing up in the many limit catches at Paulina.

Charters were unable to go out before 10 daylight Thursday morning at Winchester. The previous day, they hit a school of chinook working at the edge of the rip tide.

The pay boats at Charleston also were getting chinook from 18 to 32 pounds. A recent trip on Harry Erickson's Miss Alana Lynn netted six silvers and a 17-pound chinook for five Eugene anglers, including Henry Bauer, Cal Burns, C. Calloway, Henry Peroni and Cliff Hinkley.

Still-fishing with pale eggs has been the favorite method at East but Harry Chapman caught a 4 1/2-pound brown Tuesday while trolling flashers and worm. Rainbows in Paulina have been killing themselves on single eggs and F-4 frog flatfish.

Odell remains good in the morning for Kokanee from 11 to 18 inches on worms or flatfish behind flashers, while Crescent was slow last weekend but has been improving. Largeest mackinaw reported caught at Odell recently weighed 15 pounds. Success with smaller macks has been good for anglers who get to the bottom with large flatfish.

At Crescent, action around the island has been slow but they've been using up to two ounces of lead for good catches of kokanee from 12 to 15 inches off the south shore in the vicinity of the Boy Scout camp.

Fly fishermen have taken some sizeable rainbows from Gold Lake in the evening but action has been sporadic since the opening. Dark fly patterns have been getting heavy browns over 12 inches in Crescent Creek at dusk.

HIGHCLIMBER

By DICK STRITE

★ An interested spectator at the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. (NCAA) track-and-field meet Saturday was Em Barnes, who in 1952 was co-champion in the high jump with Walt Davis of Texas A&M at 68....

EM BARNES
 NCAA Champ Eyes Master's

We were particularly pleased to see Ems because during the Varsity-Alumni football game in mid-May Emmett Williams told us that he had learned on his doctor's degree. That was somewhat difficult to believe in view of the fact that Em had some trouble remaining at Oregon throughout his eligibility... Well, Em is not working on his doctor's degree, but did tell us that he has only two more terms to complete his master's in physical education at the University of British Columbia. ... Em, now a resident of Vancouver, B. C., plans to play football for the Vancouver Lions of the Canadian Football League next summer. ... The big fellow, who has filled out considerably and is well-dressed, played some fine football for Oregon as a defensive end. There were two games in particular when Barnes was outstanding—against UCLA and Nebraska....

Asked if he still high jumps, Em said, "Sure, and I can clear 6-4 any time. I was sure itching to get out there."

It was inevitable that someone would call the office Saturday night wanting the result of the mile relay in the NCAA meet....

"How did Arizona State do in the mile relay?" Bob Morris, general manager of the Eugene Emeralds and a graduate of the Sun Devils, asked. The Sun Devils, of course, hold the national collegiate record at 3:05.7, and Morris just assumed his school would have a title chance.... Fact of the matter is, the Sun Devils wouldn't have been eligible for an NCAA championship in any case, some of the personnel being freshmen.

★ Naturally all Oregonians are proud of Oregon's NCAA track title, but we were particularly interested in the letter received from Bill Powers, now stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Tex.:

"I would like you to know that the trackmen of the State of Oregon are making it very easy for me to be an Oregon booster while stationed here.

"The great University of Oregon team is on the front page of all the sports sections here for their tremendous NCAA championship. And Dave Dubener's victory in the mile at the Los Angeles Golden West invitational left these Texans thinking of the Alamo.

"For weeks now San Antonio has been writing up the duel between their Richard Romo and two California boys, only occasionally mentioning Dubener. And when one of the two Californians withdrew the assumption was a Romo-Texas victory. This morning Dave Dubener was synonymous with Santa Ana."

And another note from Bert Nelson, publisher of Track & Field News, who requested a number of Phil Wolcott's pictures for his monthly publication. "Our photographer couldn't make it, and he wouldn't have done nearly as good a job as yours anyway. We were impressed with the conduct of the meet, the coverage the R.G. provided, and of course by the Oregon team. In fact I enjoyed my visit tremendously except for a lot of hay fever trouble."

Art Litchman said that he heard Karl Schalademan, referee from Michigan State and referee at many major meets throughout the nation, complimented the officials as the very best he has ever worked with.

If some of you were disappointed with not seeing several pole vaulters Friday and Saturday after the committee of coaches had changed the schedule, you didn't miss much. Only six vaulters were eliminated before the gates opened at noon Saturday. And all of the high jump was conducted when the gates opened Saturday.... The coaches apologized to athletic director Leo Harris, who was unable to secure the necessary personnel to have Hayward Field opened at 10 a.m. instead of the scheduled noon opening.

★ Here are some quotes from Oregon's Congressional delegation regarding the proposal to levy an annual federal tax on pleasure boats.

Sen. Wayne Morse: "While I favor and support many of the President's recommendations for enhancement of outdoor recreational facilities, I am opposed to this tax on boats, and shall vote to strike it out of any bill that may come to the Senate floor."

Rep. Walter Norblad: "Please be assured that I shall continue to do everything I possibly can to see that this proposed legislation is not enacted into law."

Sen. Maurine Neuberger: "I am inclined to agree... that it would be inequitable to place upon owners of small boats the major burden of raising money for the financing of outdoor recreation programs."

★ Forrest Beatty, prospective University of California sprinter from Glendale, Calif., and credited with 9.4 and 20.4 in the sprints, and Henry Carr, sensational Arizona State freshman, will be among the entrants in the national Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) championships this weekend.... In marked contrast are two oldtimers attempting comebacks—in the javelin. They are Bud Held, who threw 270 in 1956, and Bill Alley, who had a 270-1 1/2 in 1959.
