

Stocking Up

Bob Hasek, 13, watches his father, Stanley, closely as he applies the finishing touches to a rifle stock the elder Hasek shaped himself. The Hasek family, which includes Mrs. Hasek and another son, Norman, 15, enjoys skiing, swimming, hiking, and a multitude of indoor hobbies and projects.

Haseks Work, Play as a Team

By MARVIN TIMS
Of the Register-Guard

Members of the Stanley Hasek family of Springfield are a close knit, do-it-yourself group who believe they get more fun out of life doing things as a team.

And when they aren't out skiing at Willamette Pass, climbing a mountain or camping in the wilderness, the Haseks are busy at home working on projects or hobbies.

"We are a family that likes to work with our hands," said Mrs. Hasek, a pretty blonde who prefers to make most of her clothes because "I like to sew."

"We find it is more fun to do as much as we can for ourselves. I can the food that Stanley raises in the garden and Stanley even made the stocks for the three rifles we have."

During an interview last week at the Hasek home, which is perched atop Willamette Heights and has a panoramic view to the west, it was obvious that Stanley and Barbara and their two boys, Norman, 15, and Bob, 13, were as close as peas in a pod.

SKIING FIRST LOVE

"Stanley is the kind of father," Barbara said, "who believes in including the whole family in whatever activities we decide on. He wouldn't think of going skiing without taking all of us along."

And skiing happens to be the Haseks' first love. For years now, the foursome has spent every winter weekend skimming down the snowy slopes of the Willamette Pass.

All are expert skiers. Stanley and Barbara are members of the Willamette Ski Patrol and the two boys are Junior Ski Patrol members. Stanley is also a national ski patrolman.

"The boys have been skiing since they were five," Barbara said. "It's a wonderful family activity. We all take our sleeping bags and cook our own food on the weekend outings."

In addition to hiking, skiing and camping, Barbara finds time for PTA work and is a director of the Willamalane Park District. "I enjoy recreational activities so much that it was only natural to seek election to the park board," she said.

HUMS LIKE A BEEHIVE

You don't have to be in the Hasek home long to see that the place hums like a beehive. Bob plays the piano or makes electronic gadgets with a special kit. Norman, a skillful cello player, also plays the base fiddle as a member of the Eugene Symphony orchestra.

Besides skiing, both boys love to swim and play tennis. "I just don't know why people get bored with life," Barbara said. "There is so much to do."

But there is one thing she won't be doing for a long time. That is skiing, the sport she enjoys most. In early May, she injured the Achilles' tendon in her right leg while stepping out of her car. Her leg is in a cast and she hobbles around on crutches.

Although her doctor has said she may never ski again, she is optimistic. She may still have to undergo several operations, but she feels she will be on skis again.

"Anyway, I can always cross-country ski. For the moment, I am looking forward to when I can walk again without crutches."

So are the other members of the family.
