Three Miners Feared Dead

BENTON, Ill. (AP)—Three miners were feared killed Wednesday in a fire, smoldering in one of Illinois' newest coal mines, swept out of control. Four other miners were hospitalized, suffering from smoke inhalation.

A fire broke out Tuesday in the Freeman Coal Co.'s Orient No. 5 mine near Benton. Nearly all 70 men in the mine were evacuated. A few miners remained 640 feet underground to fight the blaze, which appeared to have been brought under control.

However, the fire which had spread about 400 feet along the mine's lowermost tunnel, early Wednesday spread to other sections, feeding on coal residue.

Mine officials said three miners among the crews fighting the fire were missing and presumed dead. About 24 special mine rescue workers were sent to the mine to erect six wood and concrete walls at various points to cut off the air supply and smother the fire. The mine, which employs about 250 men in this Southern Illinois city of about 7,900 population started production in 1961.

Coos Democrats Criticize Barton

MYRTLE POINT (AP)—House Speaker Clarence Barton, D-Coquille, came under fire from members of his own party in his home county this week.

The Coos County Democratic Central Committee passed a resolution criticizing Barton for his stand on taxation. The committee cited Barton's support of proposals by Gov. Mark Hatfield for a cigarette tax and a net receipts tax which would broaden the tax base.

The committee said Barton's stand was in opposition to the plank on taxation as stated in the Democratic platform.

The victims included: Capt. Joseph William Smith, 46, Dallas, Tex., the pilot. First officer S. Clark George, 34, Dallas.

Hostess Ann Lewis, 26, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Lewis, Abilene, Tex.

Passengers: Mary Ann Stewart, 21, Kansas City. Miss Stewart was on the public relations staff of the People to People program. Her parents live in Wichita Falls, Tex.

Mrs. Elmer Russell, 70, Kansas City, Kan.

Her son, Richard, 32, Kansas City, Kan.

E. N. Johnson, Chicago Heights, Ill.

Nathan E. Garber, St. Louis. R. O. Ziegler, assistant chief of air traffic for the Federal Aviation Agency here, said the plane, Flight 290 from Midland, Tex., approached from the north to south toward the business district, just across the Missouri River from the airport.

"It made a normal approach until about 50 feet above the north end of the runway," Ziegler said. "At that time it appeared to level off and climb slightly. It proceeded over the runway until it reached the south end of the field, when the nose appeared to drop sharply and the aircraft disappeared from view behind the dike."

Witnesses said the craft hit an earthen bunker and bounced over a 9-foot wire fence. It skidded up the slope of the dike and catapulted into undergrowth 150 yards from the river.

J. W. Matthews of Bonner Springs, Kan., said the plane was afire as it approached. Matthews was on duty as a railroad foreman near the airport.

The crash was the first fatal accident involving a commercial airliner in the history of the airport and of Continental. An earlier Continental crash, which killed 45 persons, was blamed on a bomb.

PGE Offers to Construct Part of Intertie Power Line

PORTLAND (AP)—Portland General Electric Co. proposed Tuesday to construct part of a power intertie with California and lease half of the line's transmission capacity to Bonneville Power Administration.

PGE said the lease rights would cost no more than if Bonneville were to build a line of its own.

The firm also proposed that transmission of power outside Oregon be limited to that considered surplus to the need of Pacific Northwest customers.

The proposal was outlined in a letter to Bonneville Administrator Charles Luce from PGE board chairman Thomas W. Delzell.

The proposal said that the 500,000-volt line would run 180 miles from the firm's Round Butte project near Madras to a Pacific Power & Light substation near Klamath Falls. Estimated cost would be $23 million.

A connection then would be made with a proposed Pacific Gas and Electric Co. line from California.

Portland General Electric suggested that Bonneville or some other federal agency construct the portion of the line between the Columbia River and the Round Butte Dam, leasing 50 per cent to PGE.

Republicans Assail Education Bill

WASHINGTON — President Kennedy's attempt to unite supporters of aid to education has already touched off a bitter division among them in Congress.

Kennedy drafted 24 separate proposals dealing with everything from elementary to graduate school into one big bill and sent it to Congress Tuesday, urging "high priority action."

The package carries an estimated price tag of $4.6 billion for three years but cuts back sharply previous administration proposals for aid to public elementary and secondary schools.

'Political Cynicism'

The idea of lumping everything together was apparently to entice friends of different proposals into making common cause for the whole package, but the first effect has been to alienate influential House Republicans who support some items but oppose others.

Rep. Peter Frelinghuysen Jr., R-N.J., ranking GOP member of the House Education and Labor Committee, called the catch-all bill "the height of political cynicism," and said Republicans will offer bills aimed at specific targets.

Rep. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., called Kennedy's program "incredible in its proportions" and said it robbed individual measures of bipartisan support.

Even such a staunch supporter of federal aid to education as Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., who has led the fight for college aid in previous Congresses, said "I regret the omnibus approach was taken."

The Senate, which generally regards education measures more favorably than the House, seemed more willing to go along with the President, at least for a while. Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., chairman of the Senate Education Committee, said he thought it would be "highly desirable" to hold hearings on a single bill and see if common approach to the nation's educational needs can be reached.

Morse introduced the measure in the Senate late Tuesday and said it deserved the support of Congress.

Rep. Adam C. Powell, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee, said hearings on the whole package would be held in the House, but he added "I do not know what the final shape of the legislation will be."

Unconstitutional?

The most likely change is the elimination of aid to public elementary and secondary schools. Although Kennedy cut his proposal from the $850 million a year he asked for two years ago to $375 million for a year, it still is weighted with the religious issue of aid to private and parochial schools that has kept it dormant since mid-1961.

Kennedy's view is that such aid would be unconstitutional under the separation of church and state. The Roman Catholic hierarchy of the nation contends such aid would not be unconstitutional and noting that Kennedy's education proposals for the third straight year did not ask such aid, a Roman Catholic spokesman termed the program disappointing.

The National Education Assn. heartily endorsed the bill; a representative of the National Catholic Welfare Conference said it "had something for everybody, everybody except those children whose parents have elected to send them to private schools."

The most optimistic prediction for the catch-all bill was made by Senate Democratic Whip Hubert H. Humphrey, Minn., who rated its chances better than 50-50. He said that individual parts of the bill had a "very, very good chance."

House Passes 3 Money Bills

SALEM (AP)—The House passed three small appropriation bills Tuesday and sent them to the Senate.

The bills, for a total of some $27,000 were the biennial budgets of the Capitol Planning Commission, the Naturopathic Board of Examiners, and the Board of Examiners in Watchmaking and Clockmaking.

Three other measures passed the House Tuesday and went to the Senate. They were minor housekeeping bills.

Board Proposed

SALEM (AP)—A 5-member state board of psychologist examiners would be created by a bill introduced Tuesday by Sen. Alfred Corbett, D-Portland. The board would certify and license psychologists, and would be a sub-board of the State Board of Education.

Access Road Projects Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—Oregon will receive a special allocation of $1,153,000 from the Interior Department for access road building projects to speed salvaging of timber downed by the Columbus Day windstorm. Sens. Wayne Morse and Maurine Neuberger said Wednesday.

The money will be given under the accelerated public works program.

Projects include: Bald Mountain access road, Yamhill County, $140,000; Little Camp creek project, Douglas County, $85,000; Union Creek project, Douglas County, $225,000; Cow Creek project, Douglas County, $175,000; Coquille Ridge project, Coos County, $268,000; Quartzville project, Linn County, $250,000.
