

Agency to Provide Household Help For Ailing Opens

MRS. BARRY LAUSE
"Recruitment First"

The Lane County Homemakers Service opened offices this week in Eugene, and hopes to have trained, persons helping manage homes of ill persons by May 1.

The Homemakers Service, which is being financed by a $27,500 grant from the federal government, has offices at 1074 Willamette Street, Eugene.

Director is Mrs. Barry Lause of 2690 Sorrel Way, Eugene.

She said the first order of business for the office would be to recruit 20 to 25 women to take homemaking training offered by the General Extension Division at the University of Oregon.

Women who sign up will have to pay a $10 fee for the four-week course, but on completion homemakers with the Eugene office.

Homemakers will be paid a starting wage of $1.25 an hour, and in addition will be entitled to vacation and sick leave benefits. The service will select two from those that finish the course to be full-time homemakers at a monthly salary of $220. All employees will also receive transportation benefits.

Qualifications for homemakers, Mrs. Lause said, will be experience in raising families and operating a household. No formal education is required, only that and the nearest appearance.

Weyerhaeuser OKs Pulp Price Boost

NEW YORK (AP)—Weyerhaeuser Co. said it would follow some of other producers in raising prices of four grades of sulphate wood pulp April 1.

Forest Fire Peril Serious

WASHINGTON (AP)—There may be serious forest fire hazards in the West this spring, the Forest Service chief said.

Chief Edward Cliff urged a Senate Appropriations Committee Monday to approve budget requests for the Forest Service for the fiscal year beginning July. The requests total $258.5 million, about $24 million more than the Forest Service is spending this fiscal year.

Asked by Sen. Thomas Kuchel, R-Calif., to describe the fire hazard outlook in view of deficient snowfall in the West, Cliff said, "It doesn't look too good."

"There have been winter droughts in the Rocky Mountains, and there is hardly any snow on the California mountains," Cliff said. "Unless some storms come, we may run into some difficulties in fire control."

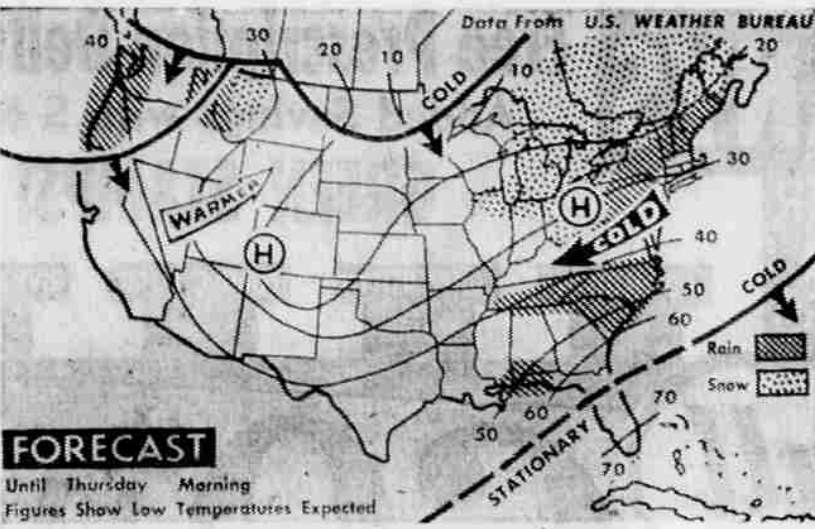

Cliff said the northern Rockies had snow this winter, but other portions of the West are dry.

There were 11,233 fires in federal forests during the first 11 months of 1962. They caused considerable damage to parts of the 186 million acres of federal forests, the committee was told.

Cliff said a discouraging trend the past few years has been an increase in man-caused fires.

Atlas Launched

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP)—The Air Force launched an Atlas ICBM toward an uncharted target area Monday night in what was described as a routine training launch.

Weathermen expect occasional rain tonight in western Oregon and Washington, with the possibility of snow or rain showers in eastern Oregon. Scattered "now" showers are predicted again for most of interior New England, the St. Lawrence valley and the Great Lakes region. Some rain showers are due on parts of the Appalachians and the middle Atlantic coast states, while scattered showers are predicted for parts of the east Gulf coast. Cooler temperatures are forecast for the eastern half of the nation, with the exception of Florida and parts of the northern Plains.
