Coming Attractions: Lords' "International", Marionette Show, and John Williams, Classical Guitarist

Concert Series Books Six Programs

A season of concerts that will include three chamber music ensembles, a young classical guitarist, an adult puppet show, and a concert pianist-humorist, plus two bonus programs is offered for 1963-64 in the University of Oregon's Little Concert Series. This will be the second season that the series is offered under the sponsorship of the Erb Memorial Student Union Board.

The program will be made up of two series of concerts: SERIES A CONCERTS—John Williams, Australian classical guitarist, Nov. 12; Lords' "International," marionette show for adults, Jan. 8; and Henry L. Scott, pianist-humorist, March 5. SERIES B CONCERTS—Claremont Quartet, Nov. 20; Krainis Baroque Trio, Dec. 5; and Vlach Quartet, Feb. 19. In addition, two bonus concerts featuring local professional artists, will be announced during the year.

Season ticket sales for the series will open Thursday. All sales will be by telephone or mail order. Mail orders may be sent to the office of the Program Director, Erb Memorial Student Union, University of Oregon. Telephone orders may be called to DI 2-1411, ext. 1921. Season tickets for the series are sold with several options. Tickets for all six concerts, plus two bonus concerts, are priced at $10 for students and $14 for adults. Tickets for four concerts, plus two bonus concerts, are priced at $7 for students and $10 for adults.

Buyers of the four-concert, two bonus concert, package may purchase in the following combinations: Three series A concerts, one series B concert, and two bonus concerts; three series B concerts, one series A concert, and two bonus concerts; or two series A concerts, two series B concerts, and two bonus concerts.

The artists who will appear on the series during the coming season cover an unusual range of talents.

John Williams, classical guitarist from Australia who is a protege of Segovia, will be making his first concert tour in America. The 21-year-old guitarist is one of the most heralded musicians of his generation. He has made highly successful debuts in London, Paris, and Madrid. Segovia has declared of him that "it will not be long before his name becomes a by-word . . ."

The remarkable marionette theatre of Lords' "International" is probably the most unusual concert attraction touring today. It is a marionette ballet set to music; a series of vignettes performed by a company of more than 200 puppets manipulated by Daniel Lords. It is a sophisticated return of superb artistry to the marionette string, classed as serious adult performance.

Henry L. Scott, who has been termed "The Will Rogers of the Piano," is the originator and pioneer of concert humor in America. He was trained in concert music at Syracuse University and the Mannes School of Music and his artistry as a pianist is not questioned. In addition, he adds the dimension of laughter, gaiety and heartwarming uplift to music.

An American quartet that was termed "major" when it was formed in 1954 is the Claremont Quartet. The group presents a comprehensive repertory of chamber music ranging from earliest master to the advanced moderns.

An ensemble that presents music of the recorder, viola da gamba, and harpsichord is the Krainis Baroque Trio. The groups, under the leadership of Bernard Krainis, offers a program that is at once vital and provocative.

The Vlach Quartet, a Czechoslovakian chamber group that has been acclaimed for outstanding musicianship, is another feature of the Little Concert Series. This quartet is considered in the front rank of the world's chamber ensembles.

Machines Used As Teaching Aid

STANFORD, Calif. (AP)—The flexibility of teaching machines makes it possible to teach by multiple choice, true or false methods—and by discovery. The latter's a highly touted teaching principle. Dr. Wilbur Schramm, director of Stanford University's Institute for Communication Research, said this is a finding of great importance "for it points to the possibility of multiplying the efforts of the gifted teachers, extending their influence beyond their physical presence and available hours."
