church on Sunday, but then have ice cream, roller skate or play in the park afterwards.

KW: The Melissa Harris-Perry question How did your first big heartbreak impact who you are as a person?

YA: Guess that would've had to be in the third gray when Michael Gray said he didn't like me. [Laughs] It was puppy love, and the pain of the rejection left me convinced I was never going to share my feelings with anybody ever again.

KW: The Judyth Piazza question: What key quality do you believe all successful people share?

YA: Determination!

KW: The Michael Ealy question: If you could meet any historical figure, who would it be?

YA: Mahalia Jackson.

KW: Attorney Bernadette Beekman asks: What is your favorite charity?

YA: I have several. I love St. Jude's and The Children's Defense Fund. And I have my own, The Voice of an Angel Foundation. We mentor kids from 9th grade all the way through college.

KW: What advice do you have for anyone who wants to follow in your footsteps?

YA: Hone your craft, study the history of the music, and sing anywhere that you can.

KW: What was it like to be invited to participate in Oprah's Legends Ball?

YA: It was amazing! First of all, I felt quite honored to be acknowledged as one of the younguns with Shirley Caesar serving as my legend. Oprah was very adamant that she wanted to celebrate the people who had made a difference in her life. I had no idea that I had impacted her that deeply. My invitation came at one of the lowest points of my life. No one knows this, so you're getting an exclusive, Kam. I was going through a divorce proceeding. And then to get an invitation saying that you've made a difference in someone else's life when your own is going down the tubes relationship and family-wise, can you imagine where I was in that space? So, I had to make a decision, do I go, even though I might not feel up to participating, knowing what's going on at home with the lawyers? How do I deal with this? Then a soft voice whispered to me, "Go, and be blessed!" And I was like, "Okay, I'm going." It was the best decision I could have ever made, because there were so many wonderful women there who had impacted my life since I was a little girl: Dionne Warwick, Leontyne Price, Nancy Wilson, Shirley Caesar, Gladys

Knight, and many others. It was almost as if Oprah knew how they had affected my life. I was just overwhelmed! God told me to dream bigger that day. And listen, Kam, I have not let go of that. I am trying to do everything I possibly can and I don't do anything that I don't absolutely love. Isn't that a great place to be?

KW: Absolutely! How did the mike come to be passed during the Gospel brunch?

YA: BeBe Winans has this knack for getting people to sing when they're supposed to be on vacation. [LOL] And he's very persuasive. He's such a great friend.

Everybody loves BeBe Winans. He just started passing the mike and seven or eight people sang. I know who He is.

KW: Thanks for such a great interview, Yolanda. It actually gave me goose bumps.

YA: Thank you, Kam. You're so sweet. You have a wonderful day.
