

DIATRIBE

The Obo Addy Legacy Project presented "Obo Addy's Legacy: Diatribe — From the Village to the Streets," Tuesday night at the Washington Park Summer Festival. A packed crowd in the Rose Garden Amphitheater was treated to traditional West African music, drumming and dance fused with hip-hop and break dancing. The performance demonstrated the evolution of music and paid tribute to Master Drummer Obo Addy, who passed away on Sep. 13, 2012 after a long battle with liver cancer.
