

People: Kids

40 Years of Service

Kukatonon dancers from Woodlawn Elementary School performing African dance

The Skanner is essential reading for those who think they've arrived in Whitelandia! As a white newcomer to Portland way back in 1985, I discovered The Skanner soon after arriving and found my connection to the communities that have enriched my life immeasurably before and since. Thank you for my 30 years of always insightful and often activist journalism!

—Gary Marschke, Executive Director
Office of Citizen Involvement at Multnomah County, Oregon

Drummer Ardey Allotey (left) and storyteller Omotayo Fletcher (left of center) entertaining group of children from the Metro Family YMCA's preschool during the opening celebration of the Omokunle Village at the Children's Museum

Members of Northwest African-American Ballet performing at Self-Enhancement, Inc.'s Winter Rally