Interview

fleshing out the character, and he also wanted to know my perspective as an African American and whether I felt it reflected the African American experience. And it was mind-blowing and empowering how Gary wanted to portray African Americans participating in their own liberation. So, I would work with him again at the drop of a hat.

KW: What message do you think people will take away from the film?
MA: That the struggle for freedom continues. And if you're a person like Newt, it becomes your responsibility to empower those in close proximity to you.

KW: Harriet Pakula-Teweles asks: With so many classic films being redone, is there a remake you'd like to star in?

MA: “The Great White Hope.” I would love to redo that film in a way where it would be more focused on Jack Johnson.

KW: Larry Greenberg asks: Do you have a favorite movie monster?

MA: Terrence Stamp as General Zod in the 1978 version of “Superman” starring Christopher Reeve.

KW: What is your favorite dish to cook?

MA: I'm not much of a cook, but I cook a mean bowl of oatmeal.

KW: Ling-Ju Yen asks: What is your earliest childhood memory?

MA: I remember choking on the core of an apple while being bathed in a large sink by my dad. He slapped me on the back until I coughed it up.

KW: Who loved you unconditionally during your formative years?

MA: My parents and my grandparents. My mom was extraordinarily present, but I'm so appreciate of all of them.

KW: Was there a meaningful spiritual component to your childhood?

MA: I grew up in church. My mom's a minister, and my grandmother was an ordained minister. I was always very mindful of the presence of a greater being I call God.

KW: How were you affected by the passing of Muhammad Ali?

MA: I was very affected by it. He was my first hero. I was mesmerized by his photos and his presence, even though he was retiring around the time I was becoming conscious of him. He was 100 percent my first hero and idol.

KW: Sherry Gillam would like to know: what is the most important life lesson you've learned so far?

MA: Hold tight to the mentality of being a student, meaning hold on to curiosity and approach life as a student.

We honor the many accomplishments of African Americans.

It is our primary goal as a labor union to better the lives of all people working in the building trades through advocacy, civil demonstration, and the long-held belief that workers deserve a “family wage” - fair pay for an honest day's work.

A family wage, and the benefits that go with it, not only strengthens families, but also allows our communities to become stronger, more cohesive, and more responsive to their citizens' needs.

Our family wage agenda reflects our commitment to people working in the building trades, and to workers everywhere. In this small way, we are doing our part to help people achieve the American Dream. This dream that workers can hold dear regardless of race, color, national origin, gender, creed, or religious beliefs.
