OHS Named to List of Black-Centered Museums

The Oregon Historical Society was named this week to a list of 25 Black-Centered Museums by The Undeclared, an ESPN platform for exploring the intersections of race, sports and culture. "OHS' commitment to inclusion is evident in its partnerships and programming, which address themes from Native American history, the struggles faced by the Japanese-American immigrant community, and broaching the subject of "Peace in the Middle East" with an assemblage of religious leaders," Anne Kristoff wrote. The piece also calls attention to OHS' upcoming exhibit, "Racing to Change: Oregon's Civil Rights Years," presented by the Oregon Black Pioneers, which opens Jan. 15 and is on view through June 24.

Governor Kate Brown Announces She Will Seek Reelection

Oregon Governor Kate Brown Monday announced she will seek reelection in 2018. She released the following statement:

"The Oregon we all love is a special place. And we can all be proud of the reasons why. We have the fastest job growth in the country. Here, every Oregon child has access to health care. Here, we are sending high school graduates to community college for as little as $50 a semester."

"As governor, it's my job to make Oregon an even better place to live, work and raise a family. We need to protect the Oregon we love so much and ensure that everyone has the chance to live a good life here."

In Governor Brown's first two years in office, she passed sweeping government ethics reform, signed a minimum wage increase, ended the use of coal power, passed a groundbreaking automatic voter registration bill, and increased investments in education.

After winning election in November 2016, Governor Brown negotiated a bipartisan deal to upgrade roads, bridges and public transit, fought to protect the health care of 350,000 Oregonians and implemented cost savings measures to tighten belts in state government.

PCC Cascade to Host Humboldt Neighborhood Market

The Humboldt neighborhood will converge on Portland Community College's Cascade Campus in October for the first-ever Humboldt Market at PCC. The market will take place from 3 to 7 p.m. Oct. 3 in the quad between the Student Union and Cascade Hall buildings, 5575 N. Albina Ave.

The event will feature food, fresh produce, wares from local vendors, live music, and more, including information on how to enroll in classes at PCC. Admission is free, and people of all ages are encouraged to attend.

The Humboldt neighborhood has seen significant changes in recent years, as a host of new businesses have revitalized the commercial district near the intersection of North Killingsworth Street and Albina Avenue, where the PCC Campus is located.

To learn more about the Humboldt Neighborhood Association, visit www.humboldtneighborhood.org. For more information about PCC's Cascade Campus, visit www.pcc.edu/cascade.

Red Cross Urges Donors of All Blood Types to Help Maintain a Diverse Supply

The American Red Cross urges eligible donors of all races and ethnicities to give blood to help ensure a diverse blood supply for patients in need.

Some blood types are unique to certain racial and ethnic groups, so a diverse blood supply is important to meeting the medical needs of an increasingly diverse patient population.

Donors of all racial and ethnic backgrounds, as well as all blood types, are needed to help patients fight sickle cell disease, alpha thalassemia and other illnesses. Make an appointment to give blood by downloading the free Red Cross Blood Donor App, visiting redcrossblood.org or calling 1-800-RED CROSS (1-800-733-2767). To help reduce wait times, donors are encouraged to make appointments and complete the RapidPass online health history questionnaire at redcrossblood.org/RapidPass.

Morris Marks House on the Move

The 137-year old Morris Marks House will soon be moving to its new home.

After years of planning and hard work, preservationists Karen Karlsson and Rich Michaelson (also an AHC board member) are relocating the Italianate
