Ella Mae Gay

“A Time to Weep and A Time to Mourn”

Ella leaves to celebrate her life 12 Children, Vivian Gay Snoddy (Bill), Tulsa, Oklahoma; Calvin Gay (Shara), Portland, Oregon; Gloria Gay Buggs (Quilla-deceased), Portland, Oregon; Nehoma Gay, Portland, Oregon; Lionel Gay, Portland, Oregon; L.C. Gay (Beverly), Portland, Oregon; Glenda Gay Johnson, (Mark), Oklahoma City; Beverly Gay Sails, Portland, Oregon; Juatorsha Gay McKinney (Leonard), Marina Gay Butler (Raymond), Seattle, Washington; Wende Gay, and LaTanya Jenkins, both of Portland, Oregon; adopted great-grandchildren, Q.T., Quinesha, and Quincy Buggs, Portland, Oregon; a foster daughter she raised, Sonya Freeman, Portland, Oregon; 45 grandchildren, 46 great-grandchildren, and 28 great-great-grandchildren.

dren. Three grandsons preceded her in death, (LaShawn Gay, Yatchy Gay, and Anthony Snoddy), and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins, foster children and friends.

“A Time to Laugh and Dance”

Ella was well known for speaking very candidly and without subtlety. She was always direct and to the point – no beating around the bush for her. But she was also known for being very fair – no one was off limits.

She was very, very, observant and could read your character like a well-written book.

She knew more about you than you knew about yourself. Nothing got passed her. She was known for “catchy” phrases, especially one liners.

Some of her favorite sayings were: “I’m too old of a cat to be fooled by a Kitten”; “What goes on in the dark will come to light”; “A hard head totes a soft behind”; “You can’t teach an old dog new tricks.” Ella was a strong woman of faith, but her strength in the Lord was even stronger.

She was diagnosed with Alzheimer’s at age 75, but she was determined that she was going to control it, it would not control her.

Ella’s health began to decline around the age of 88 and this is when her children knew that they would have to care for her. Our motto was, “She took care of us all these years, now it’s time we take care of her,” and that we did.

“To everything there is a season, a time for every purpose under the Heaven. A time to say farewell”

Early Tuesday morning, Sept. 4, 2018 the Lord spoke to Ella and said, “Well done, my good and faithful servant, it’s time for you to take your rest now.”

She closed her eyes received her wings and moved to her new permanent address, HEAVEN.

this spring. The commission met Sept. 7 and Holland, who had just received an email with photos of the postcard, brought it up as the meeting ended. (On an audio recording posted to the city of Portland’s website, the conversation begins at the two-hour, 14-minute mark.)

“I would just ask that as members of the commission we take on the responsibility to inform the public of the truth and of the intent of these policies so that we don’t end up creating fear-mongering tactics,” Holland said.

“That postcard was reviewed by a lot of folks and it is not fear-mongering, it is statement of fact,” Imse replied. “If you go look at it, you’ll find that it’s statement of fact. It’s factual to the T and in fact, was deliberately not a call out to, you know, the whole world’s going to come apart if this happens. Other residents have the right to weigh in and we have the right to communicate with our residents, ‘Look, you might want to weigh in on this and you might want to see if this is something that you as a resident feel comfortable with.”

Imse pointed out that other commission members engage in advocacy with their organizations as well.
