

Events & Announcements

Portland News Briefs

Learn About CCC’s Teaching And Education Programs

Clackamas Community College is hosting two webinars for those interested in becoming teachers. The teaching and education programs at CCC help prepare students to enter the classroom as effective instructors or become education leaders.

K-12 Teacher Webinar - Sept. 6, 5-6 p.m.

Participants will learn about becoming a lead teacher for elementary students and above. This event is for those looking to study elementary education or pursue a transfer degree in the subject they would like to teach.

Early Childhood Teacher Webinar - Sept. 7, 5-6 p.m.

Participants will learn about becoming an early child care provider and working with infants through preschoolers. This event is for those looking to pursue a degree or certificate in Early Childhood Education.

“If you want to shape the minds of the future and make an impact in the classroom, CCC’s teaching and education programs are the right choice for you,” Mayla Morgan, CCC teaching and learning outreach navigator, said.

Attendees at the webinars will be entered to receive a free tuition waiver for a course up to four credits, a value of $468.

To register, visit <https://forms.gle/PdTYat-85ipFf3vtF6>.

Rose Haven’s Back to School Giveaway introduces partnership with Dream North Foundation

For this year’s annual Back to School Giveaway, Rose Haven is partnering with the Dream North Foundation to make an even greater impact on families and youth experiencing homelessness and poverty in Portland. On Friday, Aug. 26, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Rose Haven will provide more than 300 children with backpacks and school supplies, as well as host a special guest, Nychol Lyna, author and founder of the Dream North Foundation.

Rose Haven is very excited to announce a new partnership with the Dream North Foundation to make our distribution day even more special. Nychol Lyna will be traveling from Los Angeles to bring her foundation’s goals of promoting empowerment and literacy among marginalized women and youth to our event. This includes “Story Time with Dream North and Friends,” a special reading of Lyna’s book about the experiences of youth in foster care, “Forgotten Baby,” and more than 300 books and gifts for the children Rose Haven serves. Additionally, meals will be provided by a partner of Dream North Foundation who also made the trip from LA to support our giveaway, Not Your Mama’s Kitchen. These gifts come courtesy of the foundation and its partners, Good 360, Comfort Cases, and Better World Books.

PHOTO/ ELIZABETH LEACH GALLERY

‘A Good Sport’ Exhibit Focuses on Black Americans in Sports and Academia

Elizabeth Leach Gallery is pleased to present a new series of figurative paintings by Jeremy Okai Davis. In his exhibition titled, A Good Sport, Davis focuses on Black Americans in the fields of sports and academia who navigated complex ideologies of “sportsmanship” throughout their professional careers.

Several paintings are the largest Davis has ever created for an exhibition and include incredibly expressive, layered brushstrokes that invite the viewer to focus on every detail of the portrait.

The exhibit runs November 3 - December 30, 2022 at Elizabeth Leach Gallery, 417 NW 9th Ave., Portland.

Your house, your home.

If you’re worried about keeping your home,
a certified housing counselor can help.

Call 211 or visit OregonHomeownerHelp.org to find a counselor today. It’s free and confidential.

