EASTERN STATES.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—It is expected that the House Committee on Territories will report of admitting New Mexico as a State.

Nesmith's bill before the House requires the Secretary of War to ascertain the amount of expenses necessarily incurred by the States of Oregon and California, or citizens thereof, for arms, ammunition, supplies, transportation and services of volunteer forces in the suppression of Indian hostilities in those States in the years 1872 and 1873, and report the same to Congress at the next session, with the names of persons entitled to relief and a statement of facts and sums upon which a report may be based.

The following postal changes have been ordered for Oregon: Postmasters Appointed.—Mrs. Althea Shannon, Mount Hood, Wasco County.

Offices Discontinued.—Fairfield, Marion County, Molalla, Clackamas County. SUSQUEHANNA DEPT, March 30.—President Clark met a committee of strikers, but refused further concessions. The company intend to start all the trains to-day under the protection of the military at noon. A train was dispatched, guarded by forty soldiers. The strike is practically over. No resistance is being made to the movement of trains.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The House Committee on Appropriation to-day heard Attorney General Williams in relation to his deficit of $410,000 for expenses of the United States Courts. The deficiency bill will be reached by the House on Wednesday or Thursday.

PACIFIC COAST.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30.—The steamer Columbia, in tow of the Arizona and Orizaba, is coming up the harbor. Greenbacks, 88 1/2 @ 89 1/2.

The weather is cloudy, with a slight sprinkle of rain. Captain Kelsey and wife, the McLean Brothers, and Dove, convicted of the murder of Harvey Green, are to be sentenced to-morrow.

FOREIGN NEWS.

LONDON, March 29.—The steamer Malva arrived off Suez on Saturday. Arthur Lang and Jacob Wainwright were on board with the remains of Livingston. The account of his death is as follows: He had suffered from chronic dysentery for several months. Though well attended, he was finally confined to his bed at Unalaska and died May 1, 1878 after four days sickness. The remains were salted and dried in them twelve days. Chief Kieumbo had drums beaten and guns fired in respect to his memory. The journey was commenced to Unejimbib with the body in a bark coffin; thence the remains were carried to Zanzibar. Letters to Stanley are in possession of the American Consul at Zanzibar, and will be delivered in person. All of Livingston's papers and discoveries, sealed and addressed to the Secretary of State, are in possession of Arthur Lang.

PRESENT EVILS.

Temperance in all things James Walton at the Opera House last evening. Crusading Spirit of the American people. Women's raid on Saloon keepers, etc., etc.

One of the largest audiences of the season assembled last night at the Opera House to hear Mr. James Walton speak on "Present Evils."

A more happy and eloquent mixture of humor and sound sense we have rarely heard. The audience was by turns convulsed with laughter, and then brought to earnest attention at the speaker dwelt on topics of present interest to us.

The crusading spirit was shown to be a propensity almost peculiar to American people, and has manifested itself in the United States in succession as against Quakers, witches, Masons, Mormons, foreigners, abolitionists, women's wrongs and finally whisky.

Whisky sellers be regarded as an accident, a product, a result, an effect, the cause of which was whisky drinkers. Diminish the drinkers, the sellers would dwindle, peak, and pine. Crusade therefore if crusade we must against the drinkers, not the sellers.

Mr. Walton spoke strongly upon the evils of the crusading spirit. He said its tendency was to promote hypocrisy. The lady whose husband quit whisky and took to spice cake and coffee, accounted for by the little saucers containing carminous, cloves and burnt coffee on the saloon counters which made his breath smell of spice cake, was unquestionably deceived into the belief that her husband never took anything strong. The act of forbidden indulgence. "Stolen waters are sweet and bread eaten in secret how pleasant it is." How universal this proverb of Solomon and what a range in its application. The little boy with his stolen melons and apples. The school girl with her stolen interviews and correspondences, could exclaim "stolen waters are sweet and bread eaten in secret how pleasant it is." And finally the drunkard prohibited by law from getting his whisky at a saloon, as he hugged his bottle to his bosom and took an extra swig would say "stolen rum is sweet, and whisky drunk in secret how pleasant it is."

Mr. Walton thought that a prohibitory law would largely increase the sale of corkscrews.

He stated that bad advice was often given by zealous temperance lecturers to young married women, and would say to them "If I was a young woman and my husband got drunk I'd leave him next day." Girls don't do it, don't say it. Once said, it leaves a rankling wound. Stick to him, reform him. If you save him, you save a soul alive. If you fail—but screw your courage to the sticking point—and you will not fail—but if you do fail, then only with the last despairing sigh of departing hope breathe these sad words "I'll leave him."

Mr. Walton spoke of the so-called "praying crowds" of women who were going around the streets of many of the towns of the United States, praying in and before saloons. He stated that it was no new thing. The dramatic element preponderated. Prayer to God, not to manning crowds, or sentimental grocery keepers, pray as our Lord commanded. "Not as the hypocrites do, for they love to pray standing in the synagogues and in the corners of the streets." "But when thou prayest, enter into thy closet, and when thou has shut the door pray to thy Father which is in secret; and thy Father, which seeth in secret, shall reward thee openly."

If the ladies in this temperance movement would do as our Lord commanded, if they did not get into the newspapers or furnish sensational items, their reward was sure.

Mr. Walton spoke upwards of an hour. Our limited space prevents us from doing the lecturer full justice. His address bristled with good points, was courteous, well delivered, and well received by those in attendance.

Professor L. J. Powell at the close of Mr. Walton's address, was called upon the stand and made some excellent remarks.

HANDSOME COMPLIMENT.—The Bulletin of yesterday has the following concerning the neat compliment tendered by the attaches of the Bulletin office to our fellow townsman R. P. Earhart, on the occasion of his resignation to accept an appointment as chief clerk under Surveyor General Simpson: "It having come to the ears of the employees of the Bulletin Publishing and Printing Company that the bookkeeper, R. P. Earhart, had resigned his position, they with one accord resolved to present him with some testimonial of their regard and esteem for him. Accordingly, on Saturday last the gentleman was requested to step into the composing room, where T. B. Odense, Esq., business manager, met him and addressed him in the following complimentary terms: "Mr. Earhart, as you will to-day sever your connection with the Bulletin office to engage in other, and we trust more lucrative and pleasant business, the printers, reporters and other employees of the establishment desire to present to you before your departure a slight token of their esteem and friendship. Though its value, intrinsically speaking, is but slight, they hope it may be accepted and prized as a testimonial of their appreciation of your uniform observance of those courtesies and civilities, during their association with you, which go to make life pleasant. That henceforth may prosperity and happiness attend you is the wish of your friends and the donors of this beautiful ring." Mr. Earhart was taken completely by surprise, but responded in his usual happy manner, thanking his friends for the gift, and assuring them that past associations with them had been equally pleasant to himself. The ring was a heavy amethyst, appropriately engraved by Frank Beardsley of E. G. Bringham's jewelry establishment in this city.

THE GAME LAW.—As some further and very important provisions of the game law go into effect to-morrow, we advise our sportsmen of the fact, lest some of them should be unwittingly found in violation of the act. It is unlawful to take, kill, destroy or offer for sale any wild swan, mallard, summer or wood, widgeon, spring-tail, teal, spoon-bill or black duck, during the months of April, May, June or July. It is unlawful to take, kill, destroy or offer for sale any grouse, pheasant or sage-bhen before the 1st of July, or any quails or partridges before the 1st of August.

CHANGED ROUTES.—Mr. J. B. Welch, the well known mail agent on the O. & C. road from Portland to Roseburg, made his last trip on that route yesterday. He now takes the Portland and Tacoma route on the N. P. road, returning to Portland, where he will continue to reside, every other day. Mr. Welch is known as one of the most efficient route agents on the coast; and he will be missed by many friends on this line.

SCAB IN SHEEP.—Mr. S. Goff, of Dixie, Polk county, Oregon, advertises elsewhere to cure the scab disease in sheep. His terms are reasonable and he will attend promptly to applications in person or by letter. It may be well for those who have this disease in their hands to give Mr. Goff's remedy a trial.

WILL STUMP THE STATE.—We understand that James Fitman, Esq., late of Texas, now a resident of Yamhill county, will stump the State in the interest of the Independent movement. He will, probably, not start out until after the State Convention.

WILL EXCHANGE.—Rev. J. D. Eason, pastor of the Congregational church at Portland, and Rev. P. S. Knight of this city, will exchange pulpits on Sunday next.

Within thirty miles of London the lavender fields have introduced an extensive and recognized industry, and there is annually produced in England alone sufficient oil from the plant to manufacture 30,000 gallons of spirits of lavender, besides a large quantity used in the production of other perfumes with more pretentious names. The harvest-time of the lavender is in the early part of August.

A farmer lost a gimlet in the woods near Monticello, Minnesota, three years ago, and the other day cut down an iron-wood tree, fast in the forks of which he found—not a gimlet, but a three-quarter inch auger! He is sorry he didn't wait for a year or two longer, as a two-inch auger was just what he wanted.

The Old South Church, Worcester, Mass., has voted by a majority of sixty-seven against twenty-nine to add four ladies to its crops of deacons. The resolution which was adopted says: "In availing herself of the help and counsel of Godly women, this church seeks to recognize and imitate the policy and usage of the Congregational Church of the New Testament."

A short time ago Marshal MacMahon visited the Vendome Column, and urged the contractor to hurry it up as rapidly as possible. The eighth spiral is now being placed. The contractor promised the Marshal that the monument should be entirely completed by the 1st of June.

"What would become of us if the brake was to give way?" exclaimed a nervous lady as the car in which she was riding was going down a steep decline. "That would depend entirely upon how you have lived in this world," was the consoling answer of the conductor.

It is very foolish to be always reading and making notes and trying to remember things. How much better to know as little as possible, and so, in every piece of information that is given you, to find the charm of novelty, which is the charm of existence.

Beecher emphatically pronounces against teaching children the terrors of hell, declaring that he has never known anything but harm to come of spiritual terrors inflicted upon children. He is not alone in his opinions upon this subject.

A woman in Oage county, Kansas, tied a child in a chair near the fire. She left the house for a few minutes, and when she returned she found the child roasting.

News Items.

On April 1st the steamer Rescue will commence making regular trips between Portland and Monticello, via the Willamette Slough.

Rev. D. K. Nesbit has resigned the pastorate of the Presbyterian church at Corvallis, on account of failing health.

Dr. Cozad, a young physician, was given to excessive drink, and on Wednesday of last week, died on the platform of a car at Eugene as he was being taken off.

Thomas Graham, of Corvallis, met with a severe accident on Thursday of last week. He was working on the upper deck of the fire engine, when the brake slipped from its socket, throwing him headlong to the ground a distance of several feet.

On Friday morning last, Corvallis presented a lively appearance. Five steamers were at the wharf at one time.

Mr. G. W. Mace, of Jacksonville, has gone to California for the purpose of bringing up a herd of Angora goats.

Captain Coffin, of the Dallas, is the man who introduced the famous Chinese knife throwers and magicians in the United States in 1852, and it was his uncle, an old sea captain, brought the Siamese Twins from Siam to the United States.

Mrs. A. W. Sturges, of Applegate, Jackson county, recently manufactured a quilt containing 1,824 pieces. The farmers of Richardson precinct, Lane county, have formed a squirrel scalp club. They will pay a premium for squirrel, bear, panther, lynx, wild cat, coyote, gopher and eagle scalps. S. Louis is President of the club, and G. W. Gibson secretary.

The Pendleton Tribune says: In the year 1869, 28,921 pounds of wool were shipped from Unalaska Landing to markets below. In 1870, 32,122 pounds were shipped, and in the next year, 114,415; the next, 126,326; and in 1874 there were 417,047 pounds shipped below. It is proper to add, in this connection, that while sheep died by scores, in other parts of Oregon, from cold and hunger, the sheep in Unalaska county have done exceedingly well, but few having died, and most of them being in a sound and healthy condition.

In the Circuit Court at Albany on Saturday night, James Salits was found guilty of manslaughter. Salits, it will be remembered, killed a man who had just murdered a brother of Salits' at Sweethome Valley last fall.

A Massachusetts civil engineer and a New York Herald reporter are the principal characters in the new Verne romance, to be published in Scribner's, and the story is of prisoners of the late war escaping from blockaded Richmond in a balloon, and being blown away by a hurricane 7,000 miles, to "The Mysterious Island" in the Pacific.
