EASTERN NEWS.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Luttrell has introduced a bill to admit free of duty for two years, on the Pacific coast, all machinery for the manufacture of jute cloth and bag material.

Proceedings in the Senate seem to develop the fact that the inflationists have a working majority of at least five, but additional currency which Congress creates is forty-six millions for the National Banks, making a total bank issue and greenbacks of $800,000,000.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—Nesmith's success in passing through the House recently a bill looking to the payment of the Modoc War claims, when a similar bill was overwhelmingly defeated a month previously, is a striking evidence of the value in Congress of such experience and high character for official integrity as Nesmith enjoys.

Luttrell is gathering much startling testimony regarding the operations of the California Postal Contract Ring. He has the admission from the Postal Department that the laws have been disregarded, and obtained the promise of immediate reform. The contractors whose operations are being investigated are Barlow, Sanderson & Co.

PROVIDENCE, March 31.—Proceedings in bankruptcy were instituted to-day against the A. & W. Sprague Manufacturing Company by the National Bank of Commerce. The announcement caused great excitement. Stockholders of the bank representing 12,000 shares urged the directors to withdraw the suit, but so far they have been successful. Chaffee, trustee of the company, appeals to the creditors to stop proceedings, which will throw from 12,000 to 15,000 persons out of employment, and cause great injury to the creditors themselves. He assures them that the company, if not interfered with, will be able to discharge every dollar of its obligations.

More persons are supposed to have lost their lives. But seven bodies have been recovered.

BOSTON, April 1.—The wool market remains unchanged, and all fine wools, both domestic and foreign, are in fair demand. Manufacturers are forced to purchase more or less every week to keep their machinery running. Buyers, however, are purchasing only for present wants, and the woolen goods market is still quiet and discouraging, and for any line of wool that is not really wanted the market is dull. Fall California and undesirable grades of pulled and other wool not up in condition can only be forced off at comparatively low rates. Extra super and extra pulled, 34a55c; combing decline, 60a65c.

WASHINGTON, April 2.—Senator Thurman, of the Committee on Private Land Claims, will report adversely on the bill proposing to confirm to the St. James Catholic Mission the title to 640 acres of land covering the site of the town of Vancouver, Washington Territory. The Senator Jones surprised the Senate to-day by his speech against inflation, evincing debating ability which, if unselfishly devoted to honest public interests, will make him a reputation more enduring than riches. WASHINGTON, April 3.—Nesmith made a strong argument this morning before the House Committee on Railways and Canals upon the bill introduced by him to aid in the construction of the Portland, Dalles and Salt Lake Railroad. The Committee agreed to a favorable report. The bill provides that the Government shall guarantee the interest on the bonds of the Company to the amount of $10,000 per mile, in Oregon, for which the Company is to transport all the United States mails, army supplies, etc., free of charge forever.

Yesterday's action of the Senate settles the question that the National Bank circulation will not be increased more than $46,000,000. Several financiers think little of this will be availed of, because those sections which demand an increase have not capital to buy Government bonds for security. Inflationists have abandoned their efforts to secure $200,000,000, or an illimitable increase, because they have discovered that the President would veto the measure, even if it were not beaten on the final vote, which is probable. The general impression is that the House will concur in the $46,000,000 action.

About six thousand Ogallalas, Sioux, Arapahoes, and Cheyennes have registered, and remain at Red Cloud Agency, and about four thousand Brule Sioux are at Spotted Tail Agency, and are expected to register next week. The Commissioners say the situation has been critical, but that published statements have been exaggerated. AUSTIN, April 1.—The Reveille of this morning contains the following: From Dietrich Osterhaus, who came this evening from Smoky Valley, we got the particulars of a dreadful tragedy which occurred in that locality Sunday, about 1 o'clock. Osterhaus' nearest neighbor was a German named Christian Eckstein, who has lived in the valley for the past two years, occupying, with his wife and two children, aged ten and three years, a small stone cabin on a patch of hay land. Of late Eckstein and his wife have quarreled frequently, owing to the husband's jealousy of a young man named Norton, who was herding a few cattle in the neighborhood. The neighbors paid no attention to the quarrels of the pair, as they had become of too frequent occurrence to be noticeable. Eckstein was known to be naturally of a quarrelsome disposition, and had made frequent threats that he would kill both Norton and his wife, but none of the people in the vicinity entertained a suspicion that he would carry his threat into execution. On Sunday last Osterhaus had occasion to pass Eckstein's cabin with his team, and noting that an unusual air of stillness hung about the place, he halted the team, and knocked at the door of the cabin, and pushed open the door, when a horrible sight met his gaze. On the floor the half-nude body of Mrs. Eckstein, covered with blood, her features hacked beyond recognition, the skull being cut almost in twain. At her feet lay her two little girls, their heads nearly severed from their bodies. On the bed lay the bodies of two men clasped in the embrace of death. They were the bodies of Norton and Eckstein. In the hand of the latter was clutched, with the vice-like grip of death, a large bowie knife, covered with blood, and by the side of Norton lay a large sized dragon revolver, four chambers of which had been discharged. The dreadful sight nearly paralyzed Osterhaus, who for a short time was almost incapable of action. As soon as he came to himself he aroused the neighbors, among whom the wildest excitement prevails. A Justice of the Peace was summoned from Ophir Canyon, but up to the time our informant left no verdict had been rendered.

LETTER FROM MALHEUR.

MALHEUR INDIAN AGENCY, OREGON, } March 18th, 1874.

Mr. Editor: In your paper of Feb. 28th, and in correspondence dated Feb. 28th, Canyon City, appear remarks reflecting upon the new Agent (Mr. H. Linnville) at this Agency.

I wish to state simply this, that Mr. Linnville does impress the Indians favorably, the Indians have never made any objections to him upon the ground that they do not know him, nor upon any other ground; neither have any of them refused to be reconciled as asserted in the correspondence of the 10th, but express a perfect willingness to remain upon the Agency and also a regard for their new agent.

I do not know where D. B. R., received his information, but he certainly has been misinformed. I was an eye witness to Mr. Linnville's reception by the Indians and a more hearty welcome I never witnessed upon such an occasion. Old Winnamucca, the head chief with a portion of his people went away before Mr. Linnville came here, and a short time after, some others of Winnemucca's people, asked permission of Mr. Linnville to go in search of their Chief which permission was granted, upon their promising to return soon.

I desire you to give this a place in your paper out of justice to Mr. Linnville, who is doing all in his power to make this people comfortable and happy.

OBITUARY. Charles E. Warren, eldest son of Hon. Henry Warren, died at Oregon City March 28th 1874, aged 27 years, 5 months and 19 days. He was born in Clinton county, Missouri, on the 9th day of October, 1846, and in 1847, while yet an infant, he was brought across the plains to this State by his parents. His childhood was spent at McMinnville, Yamhill county, where he received the rudiments of his education. In 1864 he responded to the call for volunteers, and served his country for one year, at the expiration of which he resumed his studies at the McMinnville College. He next attended the Commercial College in San Francisco, Cal., where he graduated in 1867. After his return to Oregon he entered upon the study of law with Messrs Mitchell & Dolph of Portland. In 1870 he was admitted to the bar of Oregon, after which he established himself at Oregon City. Somewhat later he was also admitted to practice in the District Court of the United States. In 1872 he was married to Miss Ellen Saffarans of Oregon City, now widowed after a happy wedded life of less than 18 months. After being settled, Mr. Warren was rapidly gaining in the esteem and confidence of the community. For one so young in years he enjoyed a large share of patronage, and met with marked success in his profession. Prospects of advancement, of usefulness, of distinction were unfolded before him, when suddenly, all was cut short by death. His last illness was one of great suffering, increased by the necessity of being separated from all his loved ones. Yet he bore all with fortitude, and resignation to the will of his heavenly Father. His last words were "I die trusting in the Savior." Mr. Warren was a member of the order of Odd Fellows, under whose supervision his remains were buried. He was a young man of energy, integrity and more than ordinary ability. His mourning relatives have the heart felt sympathy of the whole community. His death is felt to be a public loss, and his memory will long be cherished by all who know him.
