SAN FRANCISCO, April 8.—This morning another terrible tragedy was enacted in this city, in a boarding house, on Fourth street near Minna. An officer came and propped open the door and found Caldwell in bed, dead, shot through the head, and Maxey on the floor, shot through the side and mortally wounded. He was able to speak, and said that Caldwell had shot him and then shot himself, but as the pistol was near him it is believed that he first shot Caldwell and then shot himself. Maxey was still alive a few minutes ago. He had been employed in a hat store on Montgomery street, near Pine, and Caldwell was a conductor of the North Beach and Mission cars. It is not yet known what was the cause of the terrible affair.

CHEYENNE, April 12.—The Cheyenne Leader has the following from a correspondent at Red Cloud Agency, under date of April 7th. The Commissioners returned from Spotted Tail to day, having accomplished absolutely nothing. Theirpowwits at the Agency has rather complicated matters between the government and the Indians at Spotted Tail, as it is stated they refuse to have their Agency removed, and say they are tired of seeing Commissioners, and have invited the present delegation to leave in language more forcible than polite. It is understood that the Commissioners will proceed East at once and ask for a strong military escort and return within a month and remove the Agency. The visit of the Commissioners has only served to destroy the moral effect produced by the troops. The Indians, who are keen observers, have noticed that there is a hitch somewhere in the working of things relating to them. They expect one thing from the military and are led to believe something else from the Peace Commissioners. Spotted Tail accused the Commissioners in council of seeking to stir up trouble between his people and the Northern Indians, and in the language of the interpreter said he wanted them to "dry up." He says he has been moved around and pestored so much by these "lies" from the Great Father that he wants his words written down this time, to show to all of them who come begging around hereafter that he won't talk to them any more. No doubt Spotted Tail and Red Cloud are acting in accord. The former at a large council, after a few words spoken in an excited manner, waived his hand to the people, and they all left. The same scene occurred at Red Cloud.

A show of counting the Indians has been made. No far six thousand have been registered. There are probably four thousand or less. Several bands have refused to either be counted or charge the number for which they have heretofore drawn rations. Some of them, after they had handed in their numbers, came the next day and claimed they had forgotten their women and children, and wanted to register them. The Peace Commissioners arrived at Cheyenne yesterday.

The spirit of reform has reached the far-off town of Salem, Oregon. It has not taken the form of a temperance crusade, nor of praying and singing on the streets, but something much more practical, which, to all appearances, will prove more beneficial. The young women have formed themselves into a society, the object of which is to investigate the doings of the young men of that town. The first meeting was held recently, and a fortunate music-teacher was discussed. One can faintly imagine the wear and tear which an average young man must suffer while under discussion by a score or two of active, healthy young women. The musical victim was not disposed of at the first sitting, but was laid upon the table for two weeks. His case, therefore, must have been a very extraordinary one. The man who can't be settled by thirty or forty young women at a sitting, but must lay over for two weeks longer, must have had some wicked antecedents in his life. The young men of Salem are not disposed, however, to submit without protest to the gridiron process, and have formed an organization and passed resolutions that they will not associate with any young lady who chews gum, wears aprons, or talks too much. These unfortunate episodes in the social history of Salem are only another proof of the fact that even the worm will turn when trodden upon.—Chicago Tribune.

A CAR LOAD.—What constitutes a car-load? As a general rule, 20,000 pounds, or 70 barrels of salt, 70 of lime, 60 of flour, 60 of whisky, 200 sacks of flour, 6 cords of hard wood, 18 to 20 head of cattle, 50 to 60 head of hogs, 80 to 100 head of sheep, 9,000 feet of solid boards, 17,000 feet of siding, 13,000 feet of flooring, 40,000 shingles, one half less of hard lumber, one fourth less of joists, scantling, and all other large timber, 300 bushels of wheat, 360 of corn, 240 of oats, 400 of barley, 390 of flaxseed, 360 of apples, 430 of Irish potatoes, 360 of sweet potatoes, 1,000 bushels of bran. The foregoing table, which we find in the St. Louis Times, may not be exactly correct, for the reason that railroads do not exactly agree in their rules and estimates, but it approximates so closely to the general average that shippers will find it a great convenience as a matter of reference.

The Professor of Natural Philosophy in a certain college recently gave the class a problem to think of during the night, and answer the next day. The question was this: "If a hole were bored through the centre of the earth, from side to side, and a ball dropped into it, what motion would the ball pass through, and where would it come to a state of rest?" The next morning a student was called up to solve the problem. "What answer have you to give to the question?" asked the professor. "Well, really," replied the student, "I have not thought of the main question, but a pre-liminary one. How are you going to get that hole bored through?"
