New York, May 19.—The Tribune has the following in reference to Judge Porter's speech. Everybody knew what to expect when almost the first words uttered by Judge Porter were: "These men are apt to be bold of speech when two stalwart champions like Moulton and Tilton make a joint assault upon a clergyman and a woman—the one forbidden by his profession to return evil for evil, the other weak and powerless, held as in the hollow of the hand by the man who has but to look upon her to subvert her to his will."

Judge Porter, after contrasting the lives and characters of plaintiff and defendant, hastily sketched the more salient events in the life of Beecher and pronounced Mr. Tilton an adulterer and perjurer. Describing the discussion of the "paternity of the boy Reuben," Mr. Porter exclaimed with electric force and facing Tilton, "If there be a heaven upon earth capable of holding such conversation over his own boy, with the paragon of his adulterous wife, he has lived too long upon the earth. It is time for him to die. What are such men for unless they have a mission in hunting down clergymen, crucifying women, and committing perjury in the courts of justice?"

Nothing that was said in the speech caused deeper feeling in the audience than this sentence, delivered with all his whirling force the orator could condense into words. Tilton faced it all with an iron will, but his cheeks glowed, and the lines about his mouth were deep and hard.

Denunciations of Moulton and several other persons were only less severe than those launched against Tilton, but as the persons were not present, the effect was much less marked.

The chief aim of Judge Porter's argument yesterday was to prove from the character both of Mr. Beecher and Mrs. Tilton, and from the tone of Mrs. Tilton's letter to her husband of the great improbability that any adulterous intercourse had taken place between Mrs. Tilton and Beecher.

London, May 20.—6 A. M.—Froude, the historian, will sail for South Africa on the 23rd in an official capacity. The article in the Times this morning presents a contrast between English and American efforts to reduce the national debt. We cannot but feel with regret, says the Times, that the United States in this respect show more the high spirit of a nation conscious of great destiny and anxious above all things that no shortcomings of the present generation shall interfere with the teachings their children have received.

Philadelphia, May 19.—The Press will publish to-morrow two hundred dispatches covering all points of the wheat-growing counties in New York, showing the present condition and prospect of the crop. The dispatches show it has been injured to such an extent by the late cold weather that the late spring yield will not prove more than a half average.

da, and of her son and numerous friends, all showed that she was undoubtedly insane. Her insanity has been of a mild type, but after the trial she became violent and was obliged to be placed under restraint. It has been known by Mrs. Lincoln's family and friends for several years that her mind was unsettled to a degree which fully warranted her being called insane, but a natural reluctance to take any steps which would make the fact known to the general public has hitherto influenced them against restraining her in any way of her liberty, or putting her under medical treatment for her mind.

The wind was so strong that fire brands two feet long, being thrown to most all parts of the town of Osceola, the fire broke out in every quarter.

Chicago, May 21.—A Washington special says the Sioux delegation now there premises to be troublesome and expensive. The more their real sentiments are learned, the more it appears they are dissatisfied to accede to the wishes of those who brought them to Washington. They are not satisfied with the government interpreter, and the government officials are a little suspicious of the half breeds who act in that capacity for their chief.

Washington, May 20.—An Ohio gentleman, personally acquainted with Secretary Delano, to-day stated that more than a year ago he was informed by a prominent Philadelphia journalist that a conspiracy was on foot to cast Mr. Delano, as he was looked on as a formidable opponent to certain schemes and enjoyed in our great a degree the confidence of the President. New York, May 21.—A dispatch from Millford, Pa., says the forest fires are sweeping over 10 out of 11 townships in Pike county and unless rain comes soon there will be great suffering and loss of life. Reports were received here last night that a fire was approaching Philadelphia and in order to save the town Mayor Burgess ordered the brush around the place set on fire. About 250 men were sent out to fight the flames at points at which the most danger was to be feared. Osceola is leveled to the ground and smoking debris is all that is left of the houses. Neighboring towns are sending money and provisions for the relief of the unfortunate.

Mauch Chunk, Pa., May 22.—Very severe mountain fires have been raging in Carbon county last few days. Soren Sioux Indians, with Red Cloud and Spotted Tail, left the quarters provided for them by the commissioner, at the Tronout House, and went to the Washington House. It is said negotiations will not be accomplished so easily as government anticipated. He then went to the cemetery and dashed out his brains on the grave of his first wife. In response to calls Booth appeared on the balcony, and was introduced by M. M. Estee, and addressed the assemblage briefly, defining his political position and claiming that in the present condition of political parties the People's party afforded the only hope for sound administration of public affairs. He was frequently interrupted by applause. After the speech the Senator and his friends held a social reunion in the parlors of the hotel and the crowd dispersed.

Charlottesville, N. C., May 20.—The Mecklenburg Centennial ceremonies were inaugurated to-day by the firing of a hundred guns and ringing of bells. A vast crowd assembled—it is estimated that from 25,000 to 40,000 people are in the city. The largest procession—a mile in length—and probably the grandest of the kind ever seen in the South. At the Fair grounds the ceremonies were opened with prayer by the Rev. Dr. Miller. Mayor Gates read the Mecklenburg Declaration of Independence, and after a short speech proceeded to read the Mecklenburg resolutions; after which Hon. John Talte delivered an eloquent and impressive address, followed by the Hon. John M. Bright, of Tennessee. A grand banquet followed. Among the speakers were Judge Ferguson, Governor Hendricks, of Indiana, Governor Walker, of Virginia, and many other prominent gentlemen.

Fire alarms occurred the same night as a determined effort was made to fire the city in different places and one frame building was burned to the ground.

Chicago, May 21.—A Washington special says the Sioux delegation now there premises to be troublesome and expensive. The more their real sentiments are learned, the more it appears they are dissatisfied to accede to the wishes of those who brought them to Washington. They are not satisfied with the government interpreter, and the government officials are a little suspicious of the half breeds who act in that capacity for their chief. There is also evident want of harmony among the chiefs.

At the conference yesterday between the government authorities and the western congressmen and territorial officers, the latter were unanimous in their views on the subject. There was a decided difference of opinion as to the existence of gold in the hills. Governor Thayer, of Wyoming, insisted that the existence of gold there could not be denied. Pennington, Governor of Dakota, was much inclined to discredit the gold story. He said there was no gold there, and that few persons wished to go there except such as would cut a throat or scuttle a ship. Gov. Thayer here asked if the Conference was a burlesque and left in a huff. The prospects of the negotiations of a treaty are not promising.

New York, May 21.—In the Beecher trial this morning Judge Porter continued his summing up of the case for defendant. He first commented on the testimony of Bowen, who, he said, testified that Beecher didn't advise the dismissal of Tilton, but on cross-examination admitted that Beecher told him things about Tilton he never heard before. Counsel pointed to certain alleged inconsistencies in Bowen's testimony, and argued that Tilton and Moulton, knowing the impending downfall of the former, arranged a conspiracy by which Beecher was to be made the reinstating Tilton with Bowen, and after convincing Mrs. Tilton that there was a conspiracy against her husband to drive him from the Independent and Brooklyn Union. Moulton went to Beecher and took him to Tilton's house on the night of December 30th, not, said Porter, for the destruction of Beecher, but for the overthrowing of Henry C. Bowen and reinstatement of Tilton; and they brought their machinery to bear upon Beecher, so they had him in their toils for all these years. He asked if it were true that on the 30th of July Mrs. Tilton confessed to her husband commission of adultery. Did the jury believe Tilton would that night, or for the next four years, sleep with her? Did they believe that for six months after that she would have permitted her husband and Beecher to meet at her house and in the streets of New York? Counsel dwelt on the letter of retraction given by Mrs. Tilton to Beecher. Moulton, who swore in this trial with the spirit of a fiend, says he didn't see the letter charging adultery, and Tilton swears it was in his possession. Do you believe, gentlemen, that if this paper was in Moulton's keeping he did not read it? Do you believe that this letter of confession which was so important was destroyed, while the letter of apology was kept? Why, gentlemen, this paper had served its purpose to the conspirators and it was disposed of. It was not a confession at all, but an accusation, which was retracted by Mrs. T. on the 30th of December. On the night of that day Moulton goes to Beecher to obtain the letter of retraction. Beecher said it was due his family and his own honor, if he died, that he should keep this paper, and Moulton ejected him into returning it to keep up friendship with Tilton. These troubles Moulton laid the blame of on Mrs. Morse and Mrs. Tilton's love for Beecher, and her family troubles, which Moulton said had nearly turned her head. He also said to Beecher that Mrs. Tilton loved him (Beecher) better than she did her husband, and now, said Moulton, all that you have to do is to join hands with me in an effort to set matters right. Beecher said if he had caused all this trouble in the family and won this woman's love from her husband, he was willing to do anything to repair the injury. Placed in such a position, what should Henry Ward Beecher have done? What would any man have done? No person could tell.

Los Angeles, May 21.—At five minutes past 12, last night, the furniture and carpet were discovered to be on fire. When the alarm was given the whole inside of the store was a mass of flames. The destruction of property is as small as could be expected under the circumstances. The smoke precluded the possibility of removing anything out of the second story, where the fire was fortunately checked. The building was owned by Downey & Hellman, and insured for fifteen thousand dollars in the Imperial, Northern, and Liverpool, London & Globe, Dotted & Bradley's loss is about $20,000; insured for $14,000 in the North British, Liverpool, London and Globe, and Hartford. The origin of the fire was undoubtedly the work of an incendiary.

Poughkeepsie, May 25.—Forest fires were reported in the highlands and in the Shawanuck and Catskill Mountains yesterday. The Lake Mohawk House, in Ulster county, was in danger to-day; it is rumored that it has been destroyed. Vast quantities of wood land have been burned. The atmosphere on the Hudson is densely smoky at night and impedes navigation.

Milltown, May 21.—A fire is raging in the woods in this vicinity. At one time to-day it was feared the town would be destroyed, but by the exertions of those engaged in fighting the flames and a change of wind, the calamity was averted. It has already burned over 3,000 cords of wood belonging to Servis & Co., besides burning over a heavy lot of timber land.
