Letter from Lane County.

EUGENE, Feb. 26, 1877. ED. FARMER: The following officers for Coyote Grange No. 55, for the ensuing year, were publicly installed at a regular meeting of said Grange, on 20th ult.:

The meeting was addressed by Bros. H. N. Hill, John Simpson, and others, on the subjects of Cooperation, Mercantile Association, and Transportation.

The people of this vicinity (Spencer Creek) have been blessed with general good health this winter, and we have a fine prospect of good crops the coming season.

The Catawba Grape.

ED. FARMER: In looking over Henry Miller's very excellent articles in your paper, I discover several errors, one of which, I think, is calculated to mislead some, especially in this part of the country.

The Northern Muscadine does first-rate for me, also the Diana, but the Isabella is as hardy as an oak, and every farmer or householder ought to have and can have plenty of grapes from October to March, if they will only plant and cultivate Isabella vines;

R. C. GEER.

Ticks.

ED. FARMER: In looking over a late number of the FARMER, I noticed a few remarks made by "Citizen," in regard to ticks on horses, also read Charles G. E.'s remedy. Now, it is not of so much importance where ticks come from, whether from oak grubs or elsewhere, as to find a cheap and reliable preventive against them.

MARIA.

From the Young Men of Zena.

ED. FARMER: The Mercury's last issue had the following: "The young men of Zena, Polk County, are taking steps to organize a negro minstrel troupe at that place. They had better engage in something more profitable."

It is true that "the young men of Zena" have organized a minstrel troupe, or rather a singing club, to learn music and be able to assist any social or public occasion in our neighborhood, and it is perhaps also true that we don't need any advice from the Mercury as to how we are to pass our social hours.

Breathing Plasma without Injury.

There is no exaggeration in the statement that thousands of persons residing from one year's end to another in fever and ague regions on this Continent and elsewhere, breathe air more or less impregnated with miasma, without incurring the disease, simply and only because they are in the habit of using Hostetter's Stomach Bitters as a preventive.

A Very Important Subject.

In these times of money stringency we must request all to be punctual in paying subscriptions who are able, for while we wait until the end of the year where patrons desire it, we cannot afford to do so as a general rule, for all our expenditures call for cash down.

Quite a number of persons have written explaining the reasons why they have not paid and asking indulgence, which we are always pleased to grant where circumstances require it.

[From the New England Farmer, Nov. 11, 1876.] EDITORIAL BY MR. A. W. CHEEVER.

Perfected Butter Color.

Occasionally, during the past two years, we have received for trial, samples of butter coloring preparations from Messrs. Wells, Richardson & Co., of Burlington, Vt., with the request that they should be thoroughly tested and criticised as to their merits and demerits.

The first sample received, however, was quite superior to any other preparation of annatto that we had ever used. It was perfectly clear of sediment, free from odor, and gave a bright, clean color to the butter, while it was sold cheaper, according to its strength, than anything we had previously bought.

Since Wells, Richardson & Co., commenced the manufacture of their Perfected Butter Color, the prejudice against the use of a artificial coloring in butter has been swept away at a rapid rate, not only among butter makers, but also, among the dealers and the consumers.

ROSEBURG.

Roseburg, the present terminus of the O. & C. R. R., is a picturesque little town, situated near the center of the Umpqua valley, and contains 1,000 or 1,200 inhabitants. The name of the city is taken from that of its founder, Aaron Rose, one of Umpqua's early pioneers, who for many years owned the entire town site.

Like all other countries, we have made rapid strides in advancement, and now, in the place of having to plod through mud to town, we have comparatively good roads, so farmers can get to town during almost any part of the season.

A Sheridan letter to the Reporter says: "And now comes woful tidings from the Nostucka, saying a gro-w outrage had been perpetrated: that an old man and an ignorant boy had been lacerated by a mob. The affair is detailed as follows: Sometime since Mr. Babcock's residence was burned to the ground, together with its contents. Suspicion seemed to point to this old man, whereupon some four or five neighbors took him and the boy and hung them, with the purpose of extorting from them a confession concerning the fire. The old man confessed, I believed; but I forbear remarks. Time will see the whole matter explained.

In the early part of December the oldest clergyman in England died. This was the Rev. J. Pratt, of the State Church, who was aged 95 years. For the last 65 years he had held the living of Paston, near Petersborough.

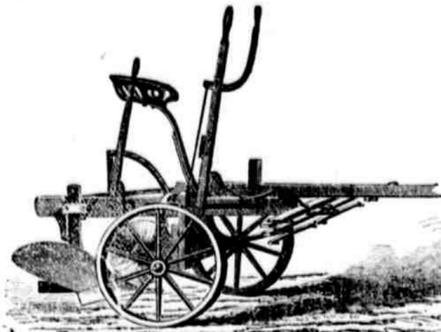

The sugar crop of Louisiana last year is estimated at 200,000 bushels, and this is said to be equal to only about one-third of the amount required for consumption in the United States.

SALEM, Sept. 28, 1876.

The sworn circulation of the London Daily Telegraph is now 300,317 on an average each day. This is the largest figure ever reached by any daily newspaper permanently, and the fact that this daily average has been attained for five successive months shows that it is a permanent circulation.

Of the eight thousand persons converted at the Moody and Sankey meetings in Chicago, but one in ten has joined any church as yet. The disproportion is so large as to excite general remark, and the pastors of the city are about to investigate the matter with a view of ascertaining the cause.

A Walla Walla paper says: Messrs. Young and Wilcox, while engaged in digging a well on the hills along Pine Creek, and when eight feet down came suddenly upon a lot of almost decomposed mammoth bones. People in that section are strong in the faith about the deluge, for evidences of that great event are scattered all about them.

The small pox has again made its appearance at Oregon City. Quite a number of citizens in that place were exposed before they were aware of the presence of the loathsome disease.

A handsome testimonial of silver plate was presented to Captain Thompson, of the White Star steamship Britannic, in honor of the quickest passage ever made across the Atlantic—7 days, 13 hours and 11 minutes. A hundred guests were entertained at dinner on the occasion.

Now, we will see how Kentucky blood will compare with that of Old England. Mr. H. M. Sanford, the Kentucky turfman, will sail for England next spring with several two-year old horses, which he will match against English racers.
