

CENTAUR LINIMENTS.

One Kind for the Human Family. The other for Horses and Animals.

These Liniments are simply the wonder of the world. Their effects are little less than marvellous.

The White Liniment is for the human family. It will drive Rheumatism, Sciatica and Neuralgia from the system; cures Lumbago, Chills, Lockjaw, Palsy, Itch and most Cutaneous Eruptions; it extracts frost from frozen hands or feet, and the poison of bites and stings of venomous reptiles; it subdues swellings, and alleviates pain of every kind.

The Yellow Centaur Liniment is adapted to the tough muscles, cords and flesh of horses and animals. It has performed more wonderful cures, in three years, of Spavin, Strain, Wind-galls, Scratches, Sweeney, and general Lameness, than all other remedies in existence.

The proof is in the trial. It is reliable, it is handy, it is cheap, and every family should have the White Centaur Liniment.

Little robin, sitting there, in the hemlock shade, the boughs bend down and touch your crown, but you are not afraid. Winds may whistle, piping loud, tossing shrub and flower, you do not mind a puff of wind, within your mimic bow.

A LETTER TO BOYS.

Miss H. B. C., in the last number of the "Argus," addresses the following remarks to boys:

Editor ARGUS: There was a piece in your last paper entitled "What I Saw," and there was a little lesson in that for all of us to learn—the habit of observation.

Never do anything now that you will be ashamed of when you grow up. And when you are men, don't forget that you are men, and treat all the little "shavers" as well as you know how.

Remember This. Now is the time of year for Pneumonia, Lung Fever, Coughs, Colds, and fatal results of predisposition to Consumption and other Throat and Lung Diseases.

Letter from Klickitat, W. T.

GOLDENDALE, W. T., April 11, 1877. ED. FARMER: Perhaps a few lines from this (Klickitat) valley will be interesting to some of your readers, as many persons in the Willamette valley are turning their faces in this direction to search for homes.

The Klickitat river, quite a large stream, has its source near the base of Mount Adams, runs southward across the west end of the valley and empties into the Columbia fifteen miles below Dalles City.

There is yet much unclaimed land in this valley, not all however, susceptible of cultivation, much of it being too uneven for the plow, having in ages past been thrown up (either by the action of wind or water) into little hillocks, varying in diameter from ten to one hundred feet, and in height from two to five feet.

Rev. Kirkman, of the Methodist church, preaches regularly at the church on Sabbath at ten o'clock a. m., while an interesting Sabbath school is conducted in the afternoon.

NERVOUS COUGHING.—Dr. Brown Sequard once gave the following directions, which may prove serviceable to persons troubled with a nervous cough: "Coughing can be stopped by pressing on the nerves of the lips in the neighborhood of the nose.

Fletcher Webster, the second and last son of Daniel Webster, was killed in battle near Washington, on the 29th of August, 1862.

A coroner's jury, in the case of a man who was killed by a falling icicle, rendered the verdict that he died of "hard drink."

Why Tides Occur Later Each Day.

As the moon revolves around the earth from west to east she advances eastwardly in her orbit about thirteen degrees every twenty-four hours. Hence, when any part of the earth, in its revolution, comes under a part of the heavens when the moon is not there, but has gone eastward thirteen degrees, and therefore the earth must turn on its axis as much longer as is necessary to bring that part again under the moon, which requires generally, not always, about fifty minutes.

It must not be supposed that the whole body of the ocean, to its profoundest depths, is equally moved by the tides. The tides are mainly superficial, and except where the water is of moderate depth the lowest parts are only slightly disturbed; but to what depth the tidal current extends can never, perhaps be satisfactorily determined.

AN INDIAN BATTLE.

Many years ago, when the Indians east of the Cascade mountains were the most troublesome to the early pioneer, a party of volunteers left Ft. Walla Walla in pursuit of a band who had fled over the Blue Mountains into Grand Ronde valley.

The party in pursuit also reached the valley that night, and came to a clump of trees on a mountain that towered far above the Indian camp. Neither the whites or the Indians were aware that they were encamped so near each other.

The pursuing party obtained such revenge upon the Indians, made preparations for returning back to their homes in the Walla Walla valley. The Blue mountains at that time, (and in fact the entire country lying east of the Cascade range) were infested with bands of raving Indians, and the party determined that it was necessary to use caution on the opposite side of the valley, only about one-fifth was left out of the band.

PERFECT FAITH.

John B. Gough related the following pathetic episode in a lecture at St. Louis recently:

A story was told of a street boy in London who had both legs broken by a dray passing over them. He was laid away in one of the beds of a hospital to die, and another little creature of the same class was laid near by, picked up with fainting fever.

"How can I ask him if I don't know where he lives, and how could I get there when both my legs are broke?" "Bobby, they told me at mission school as how Jesus passes by. Teacher says as he goes around. How do you know but what he might come around to this hospital this very night?" "You'd know him if you was to see him."

Audacious Robbery.

One Wm. Jones, hailing from Sebe, was arrested by Officer John W. Minto last evening, charged with "going through" Mr. Zach Reed, who lives at Buena Vista. It appears from the evidence shown before Recorder C. W. Bowie, that Jones and Hall became acquainted with each other on the steamer Occident yesterday, and upon the arrival of that boat at Salem, the twin came ashore and immediately proceeded to fill up with "benzene."
