

CLARKE & CRAIG, PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS. S. A. CLARKE. D. W. CRAIG.

SALEM, FRIDAY, JUNE 1, 1877. "AMERICAN SUNDAY."

Punctually at the appointed hour, a large audience assembled at the Congregational Church yesterday evening to listen to the Rev. P. S. Knight's exposition of "The American Sunday."

"But the American Sunday was a peculiar institution. This Sunday was truly the Sunday day set apart in honor of 'the sun of righteousness;'"

"The American Sunday" is revered by all, whether the descendants of the Puritan, the Huguenot or the Roman Catholic.

THE COAST REGION.

Mr. J. A. Haines, who lives in Curry county, about 30 miles from Port Orford, and not very distant from the coast, informs us that that section of country possesses less agricultural land than Coos county, but has a large section well adapted to grazing purposes.

From his residence, near South Salem, on May 27th, Hugh Harrison, passed from amid relatives and friends to the next stage of life.

In early days he was an associate and traveling companion of the late Kit Carson during that patriotic pioneer's first trip to New Mexico.

In 1847 Mr. Harrison emigrated to Oregon with his family, through whom he leaves a numerous connection, where for 30 years he has lived a laborious, quiet life, watching with a singularly intelligent and appreciative interest the development of the country that was a wilderness at his birth.

A very neat and interesting pamphlet bearing the above title has been issued from the steam press of Mr. E. M. Waite, of this city.

A THORN REMOVED.—Death has removed an aggravating thorn from Brigham Young's side.

A small item headed "A Polk County Scandal" was inadvertently published in the FARMER three weeks ago, taken from an exchange, and, though no names were mentioned, we are satisfied the matter has no foundation.

Unsolicited Testimony.

Fairfield, Me., April 28, 1864. Gentlemen—Seeing numerous certificates in the Maine Farmer, endorsing the merits of the Great Lung Remedy.

The above statement, gentlemen, is my voluntary offering to you in favor of your disposal. As ever, yours, ANDREW ARCHER.

DIPHTHERIA.

Few persons know how to successfully contend with this disease, therefore all should labor diligently to place their families in conditions which are unfavorable to the development of it.

The belief is fast gaining ground among scientific people that many epidemics, as well as contagious diseases, are caused by microscopic parasitic organisms either animal or vegetable; or rather that when the system has been impaired from any cause, these minute organisms can find nutriment there, which they cannot do when the person is in a healthy condition.

We cannot be too careful about our surroundings. Our helpless children are too precious to be sacrificed to our carelessness or inactivity.

We practice "the water cure" at all times and under all circumstances, and when properly applied it is as eminently successful in diphtheria as it is in every other case.

The Boston Transcript of some time back published the following: "For the past five months the city board of health have been quietly investigating the causes of diphtheria, pneumonia, croup and typhoid fever."

I do not know as copperas is more effective as an antiseptic, than chlorate of potash, nitrate of silver, &c., but Mrs. Hayes, who has, in former years, suffered fearfully herself and lost children by diphtheria as treated by physicians, has so much faith in her treatment that she says if taken in time diphtheria is no more to be dreaded than a severe cold.
