Slightly Damaged.

The steamer S. T. Church, while attempting to pass through the Rock Island chute, was caught in a whirl and was thrown against some sharp rocks and her prow re-ceived considerable damage. She immedi-ately returned and doubtless, ere this, she has had her injuries repaired, and will make her regular trips again.

Continued Until Next Term.

In the United States District Court the case of United States vs. Stiles was continued for the term. His bail was increased from $2,500 to $3,500 by order of the court. Stiles will scarcely be able to furnish the required bonds, and the prospect is very flattering for him to remain several months longer in jail. We understand that Col. N. B. Knight, of this city, has been retained for the defense.

A Neat Memente.

Mr. Gaines Fisher received to-day, by mail, a neatly bound album from Newton. mail, a neatly bound album from Newton, Iowa, his late place of residence, containing the faces of a number of the prominent ladies and gentlemen of that city, former neighbors and acquaintances. The neat and kindly token thus sent to the shores of the Occident by those he left behind, completely unnerved Mr. Fisher for a time. His eyes unconsciously welled up as he looked at the many familiar countenances, and the fact, that, though "Absent he yet held a sacred place in their memories," as testified by the memento received, was indeed gratifying to him.

Easy Times in Salem.

Money was never more pienty in Salem than at present. At least we judge so from the conversation that passed between two boys on the corner of Front and Ferry streets

Phil. Sheridan Mine.

The organization of this company was perfeeted in Portland, on Monday, the 19:h inst., by the election of the following board of directors: S. B. Parrish, E. Cahalin and H. B. Oatman of Portland; R. Sargent of Umatilla county, and C. W. Parish, of Grant county. S. B. Parrish was elected President, and C. D. Folger, Secretary. The Phil. Sheridan mine is situated in Grant county, Orc gon, about one-half mile West, running parallel and in the same mineral belt with the Monumental Silver Mine. The company own several parallel lodes-some of which are gold bearing, while the main mine, viz: Phil. Sheridan, is entirely silver bearing, the several lodes giving high assays in their respective precious metals. The former owners of the mine recently brought to Portland for a milling test, about one-third of a ton of their gold bearing ore, taken without selection. The ore was worked at J. H. Fish's mill producing a key of the value. without selection. The ore was worked at J. H. Fisk's mill, producing a bar of the value of $43 16 or $129 48 per ton, the silver ore being of the same character of the Monumental which has been successfully worked in this city. No further milling test of this ore is necessary. The object of the Company now is to open up the mines and erect mills to work the ore. The stock of the Company will be placed upon the market, and active operations will be commenced at the mine. From the operations of this Company, together with the Monumental, successful silver mining in Oregon can confidently be expected.

A New Denomination. A new religious sect is announced which requires a man to confess his sins to his wife boys on the corner of Front and Ferry streets last evening.

One of their was about 11 years old, and wore the stump of a cigar in his mouth, and no shoes on his feet; the other wore an old straw hat with a "ragged edge," a stone bruise on his heel and apparently about 12 summers had passed over his tangled locks. This was the conversation:

"That bass I cotched weighed mor'n two pounds."

Invited to Leave Quite a sensation was created on the street last evening by a German who was under the influence of tangle-leg, and came rushing down the street, claiming that he had been knecked down and robbed of a satchet of clothing and $4 50 in coin, by a couple of men. We interviewed officer Minto this morning, and he is of the opinion that the fellow is a fraud, and that he was not knock. ed down and that he never had four dollars and a half to lose. His satchel was found this morning and given to him with a polite invitation to leave the city immediately. The fellow left.

A Smash Up.

An optician named McDaniels, says the Telegram, who has been at Salem for some time, packed up his things and came to this city in a buggy. Arriving in this city after dark, his horses took fright and started to run near the Sisters' school. McDaniels kept them straight for a short distance, when they veered and came up short against some ob-struction, smashing the vehicle and injuring one of the horses slightly. The damage is considerable.

In the Sheep Business. Mr. Thomas Burrows, of this city, returned last Saturday from East of the mountains, where he has purchased the undivided half of 824 head of sheep. Mr. Burrows now has thousand bills and in a lew years with the natural increase, barring the usual losses, he will doubtless be one of the largest "mutton farmers" in the State.

Removing Drift-

Street Commissioner Bridges with a torce of men were this morning employed in tearing away a lot of drift that had lodged against the bents of the covered bridge at the foot of Commercial street. Mr. Bridges believes in the old adge that a "stitch in time, etc.," was just what was wanting in this case, and we believe he is correct in the Energy Wanted.

The grazing lands of Australia are but little greater in area than those of Eastern Oregon, and yet it is estimated that they sustain twenty-four million sheep and eight million of horses. Capital and labor are only needed in Oregon to develop equal stock interests, with our superior soil and climate.

'Tis Strange.

A young man in this city, writing to a friend in the East, says: "Money is plenty but people here have such strange ideas of what they call rights of property, I can't get possession of it."

Team Sold-

Mr. Cal. Scoville has sold that beautiful span of matched iron gray horses to a gentleman in Portland, by the name of J. W. Sprague. The terms of the sale are private; the horses were shipped last Friday to the new owner.

Drowned.

From parties that came down this afternoon, from Afbany, we learn that a young man by the name of Frank Blair, was drowned in the Calipooia last Saturday, some distance above that city.

The river, this morning, was very full, and still on the rise, but owing to no rain falling yesterday it will probably be on the down grade this evening. The river this morning was about twonty-one feet above low water

THE POPE'S HEALTH.

The great age to which Pius IX. has attained naturally sets the world to be-ing apprehensive of his death whenever any ailment is reported. A correspondent writing from Rome to the London (Canada) Advertiser, under date of October 13th, states facts which encourage the hope that the aged Pontiff has yet several years of life before him. Savs this correspondent: A belief is springing up that Pius IX, may live on for another couple of years, and perhaps more. No doubt he is eighty-seven years old, and is no longer able to walk, or even stand, doubt he is eighty-seven years old, and is no longer able to walk, or even stand, except for a few moments at a time; but, on the other hand, he comes, as I have told you before, of a very long-lived family; his malady is entirely confined to his legs, his intellect is as bright as ever, his brain is crear, his heart and lungs are precetly sound his liver healthy; all his organs, in fact, in thoroughly good condition, and therefore, with the one exception, there is, it appears nothing in his state of health really calculated to excite alarm. Certainly he is subject to fainting fits, but so he has been always and he shows increasing signs of advance. and he shows increasing signs of advanc-ng age, but that is all. Naturally the life of a man of his years, however good his constitution may be, hangs upon a thread, but with him the thread is a strong one."

WHEN ARE THEY PRETTIEST?

A wife looks prettier, if she did but know it, in her neat morning dress of calleo, than in an incongruous pile of finery, which she dignifies with the title of full dress. Many an unmarried fe-male first wins the heart of her future husband in some simple, unpretended attire, if consulted about which, she would pronounce too cheap except for or-dinary wear, but which by accident is suitable to her figure, face and carriage, idealize her youth wonderfully. If the sex would study taste in dress more, and care less for costlines, they would have no reason to regret it. A foolish and silly man is not worth marrying, and a sensible man will surely judge you advantage-ously in exact ratio to the plainness and simplicity of your dress.

At a sale of patent rights in New York lately, a machine for sharpening slate pencils brought $1,000; a saw with detachable teeth, $100; an improved overcoat pocket for the protection of a lady's hand while walking with a gentleman, brought $350—the inventor reserving the State of Pennsylvania. And $6,000 was bid for the right to an improvement in tanning, whereby skins can be tanned in three days, and heavy hides in ninety days.

Good Enough.

A pettish old bachelor was annoyed by an old lady who was setting near him, last Sunday evening at church, and kept coughing. Finally the old fossil turned and remarked to her, "That is a very bad cold of yours, madam." "I know it sir." replied the lady, "but it is the best I've got." The fellow pulled his coat tight around him and sat as still as though he had found a pin in the seat.

"Home, Sweet Home."

The above is the title of an old and favorite ballad, and a friend of our's over in South Salem, had just removed his boots and coat and picked up the DAILY RECORD and commenced to sing "Home, Sweet Home," and settled contentedly back in his chair and long before two of the boys got into a squabble and fight over a game of checkers; the old gentleman quietly laid aside his specta-cles and appointed himselfa Peace Commissioner, and he warmed both of them with a

DR. SOUVILLE MATHIEU.

This eminent French Physician and Surgeon, and inventor of the PARISSPI-ROMETER, which has given relief to thousands of sufferers in Europe and the United States, has treated successfully several hundred cases in Oregon, the most remarkable of which was that of Mr. J.C. Adkins, a well-known business citizen of Salem, who has been suffering for years with a partial paralysis of the right side, and was materially improved by a few days of Dr. Mathieu's treatment. The right side of the face and right shoulder, in which there has been a constant sensation of coldness, and the nerves partially paralyzed, have become warm and resumed their natural action and feeling.

Mrs. Adkins, who has been afflicted with catarrh in the head, has been entirely cured by a few days of the Doctor's treat-

He has testimonials from a number of persons well known in Portland.

DR. MATHIEU has permanently located at the corner of Third and Morrison streeets, Portland, Oregon.
