HAPPY FLAT, Dec. 29, 1877.

Editor Willamette Farmer: We, with the rest of Oregon, are enjoying the very best of weather. Some are a little uneasy at present,-now, as it is clear and a little colder than it has been, but they need not be alarmed, show vas not for us. However, on beunless there is some great change in ingassired that we should have a "tree" the weather, for there never has been nor never can be much of a freeze-up with as little snow in the mountains as the same standing in the aisles and vestibule. We soon start out in the new year, and it will be well for us to stop and consider our circumstances, look back and receive lessons from the past. We remember the flattering prospects that loomed up before us all nearly one year are the cry and many are bankrupt, and many more are having to sell their homes to "square up," and these many are not all the lazy and do-little, but it is a common occurrence with persons that have labored hard all the year. To find the cause for all this and then to prescribe a remedy is the stumbling stone that lies in the way of the wise that have attempted to solve the labor problem. In our opinion, the first cause class. They try to keep up appearances with their rich neighbors, in a great many instances they manage to keep along first rate for a while, but there is extra labor called for to keep up all these nice appearances, and finally their muscles weaken and they are left without health or wealth, all caused by fol-lowing a delusive phantom. In the next place it is a fact that no sane person will deny, that our laws are oppressive to the laboring class. It is evident that the poor and the rich are growing farther apart all the time, and the latter have it all their own way so far as the laws extend, or at least such is the conclusion of a HAPPY FLATTER.

From Benton County.

ED. FARMER: You spoke about roses being in full bloom in Salem on the 16th of November. I will just say that we can beat that up here in Benton county, for our valley is considerably higher than Salem. Alkie valley is in Meeting of Subordinate Granges the Coast mountains on Mary's river, half way between Corvallis and Yaquina bay, and is supposed to be a little colder, and at this present time of year were you here, I could show a rose bush in bloom, and an apple tree that put forth a young shoot six inches long has now blooms on it in one of my Register, and stopped at the St. Charles Honeighbor's orchards. Beat this in Salem tel, for the purpose of getting married. The

Our precinct at the last election, gave a majority for Cooper and Cary over both the other parties, and next June we will cast all our votes for the greenback cause, for there are now not enough left to organize a precinct primary only in the Greenback club, and we have passed resolutions to support no man unless he comes ont for equal taxation, for the abolishment of the National bank system, for paying the bondholder in greenbacks and for holding the greenbacks at par with gold as a legal tender for all debts. No man who does not stand fairly and honestly to defend the above can have our votes. Times are hard here, for money is scarce and will be scarcer till we can get John Sherman to cease his ruinous work of burning the greenbacks, and burn the bonds instead.

We have at this writing, plenty of violets and marigoids in full bloom. HOWARD EBERT. Summit, Benton Co. Dec. 8, 1877.

From Coos County.

(COQUILLE CITY, Dec. 26, 1877. ED. FARMER: The average Coquiler can be as social as "any other man," when he wants to be, and a pleasant affair of this kind was had on the evenings ago somebody knocked at the front door, and Jacob, who lives above the grochy street in the Universalist church of this "city." The tree (as large a fir tree as could be set up in the house), was loaded down with toys and candies for the little folks, and articles of vertu, utility and jokeativeness, for the big ones, and a wheelbarrow load or two was piled under the tree, which it was unable to bear. Songs were sung, prayers were offered up, the orator orated," and Santa Claus appeared in life. The house was crammed to its utmost and the ushers kept on asking us miles to vacate seats for the ladies, until we began to think that the affiir was a deception, a fraud, and that the Farmers are considerably behind surprise at public gatherings here, to DEATE OF ANTHONY STANSBERRY .- Death has again hid his cold hand heavily upon us, and hasremoved one of our most worthy and promising young men. One whose life blemish. He had grown up among us and and useful to all, he had become the pride of his loving sisters, an bonor and blessing to his kind parents, and a friend and benefactor to hiscompanions, and his untimely death will long be felt and mourned by all. Deceased was about 22 years of age; be at the time of sickness teaching and also studying medicine. He was just com-mencing another term of school when he was taken ill with typhold fever from which he never recovered. Mrs. E. J. P.

Still Another Robbery. Day after day we are called upon to chroncle the fact that somebody's house has been "tapped" during the night and the burglars were not discovered-although in many of the houses entered a lamp was burning. Last night Mr. Willard Herren, agent for the opposition line of steamers on this river, and who has a room fitted up in the wareis extravagance among the laboring house, was barglarized. The burglar effeeted an entrance at the front door by foreing the door open, and then made his way to Mr. Herren's room. There the door was fastened with a night lock, which the bur-glar succeeded in opening by forcing the eatch back so that the bolt would allow the door to swing open. He then entered and took a purse containing about $82 from beneath Mr. H.'s head, and then took a silver watch and a gold chain valued at $40, from the back and a gold chain valued at $40. his vest pocket, hanging up beside the bed, and left the premises without even his and left the premises without even his presence being made known. There was a purse of $50 in the inside pocket of his coat, which the ourgiar had manners enough to leave, or else he did not find it. On examining around the premises, this morning, signs were found that the borgiar had (through the window) watched Mr. H. retire to his room and piace the money under the pillow. The money taken belonged to the steamer City of Salem, but the watch and chain were Mr. H.'s personal property. Somebody is an expert at this house "tapping" business. ping" business.

All the Way from "Frisco."

A day or two ago there were three young men in our city, says the Albany Register, who had walked all the way hither from San Francisco. They stopped but a short time and then took the back track on foot. They shouldered their luggage and started back as merry as crickets. One of the party enjoys the sobriquet of Dr. Jack-knife, and is said to be a fair phrenologist.

Sunday School Officers.

The members of the Evangelical Sunday School a few days ago elected the following named persons for the period of one year to sarve as officers; Supt., Rev. A. W. Bower; Assistant Supt., J. G. Mohreveis; Secretary, J. F. Staiger; Treasurer, J. Bier; Librarian, Ed Bier.

Quite a Difference.

Perhaps some of our citizens are not aware of the fact that since the difficulty between the Common Council and the Fire Department of this city, the Board of Underwriters have had under consideration the propriety of rating this city as fourth rate. The amount of property insured within the city limits is $969 235, on which the amount of premiums paid, by book three, is $15,326. Should the city be classed as fourth rate, the additional amount required by book four would be $6.243. The difference that our citizens will be compelled to pay, if they insure their property, would be more than enough to buy a first class steam fire engine for the city.

Another Robbery.

This morning about one o'clock a burglar entered the residence of Mr. John Gray, on the corner of Commercial and Division streets, and succeeded inigetting away with about $60 in coin and a silver watch and gold chain valued at $40. The burglar entered the back door of the dwelling-the door not being locked but a big office chair placed against it—and passed into the atting room and thence into Mr. Gray's chamber room and from his pan's pocket extracted the sum of near $60; he then went back into the siting on the soft-the lamp was still burning-and from the yest pocket be took the watch. Mr. Grav's little 'skypoodle' was on the make a discurbance. Mr. Gray heard the noise and sprang out of the had and into the sitting room fust in time to see the man pass out of the room and through the back door the way he came in. Mr. Gray gave chase and followed him around the house, but the burgiar proved to be an expert runner and soon made his escape. Comments are un-necessary; we know that Mr. Gray lost the money; we know that the burglar got it, but we don't know the man, and that's where the rab is.
